Europeans' Own ERP Role Lauded By Hoffman

French Coal Strike Probably Is Last Real Effort There By Reds, He Says

By Ferdinand Kuhn, Jr.
Post Reporter

High praise for western Europe's recovery efforts came yesterday from Economic Cooperation Administrator Paul Hoffman, just back from a flying visit to the chief western capitals.

Hoffman was not even hopeless about France, where, he said, the coal strike "may be the last determined effort of the Communists to take over that situation."

He saw not the slightest doubt that the coal strike "is being directed from Moscow," and he conceded that it made him "unhappy." But he told a press conference that if the strike fails, then the Communists "may give up for the time being as they have given up similar activities in other countries."

Sees Trend Against Reds

His reason for thinking so, he explained, was that "the trend" is against communism wherever the people have a free vote.

Shortly after Hoffman met the press, France signed an agreement for a 170-million-dollar ECA loan, Italy one for 50 million, Norway one for 35 million and the Netherlands one for 95 million. All will carry 2½ per cent interest under terms virtually identical with those of the 310-million-dollar loan to Britain announced earlier this week.

Hoffman brought back these hopeful impressions from his European trip:

About Britain: "The progress made there toward a sound financial situation, increases in production, the increase of exports and in the cutting down of the differential between exports and imports, all must be rated as a great accomplishment. I was impressed in Great Britain, too, by the drive they are making in all directions toward increased productivity on the part of the individual workers. They are breaking down traditional attitudes on the part of management and labor toward productivity."

Progress in Italy

About Italy: "That is an example of what a group of consecrated men or dedicated men can do in a very tough situation. They are making progress in Italy. They are bringing back a country that I do not think offered too much hope three years ago of a comeback, and they are working with enthusiasm and confidence. I got a great feeling of vigor out of talking with the heads of the government there."

About western Germany: "You have had splendid progress in the way of improved industrial production and of a better financial situation."

Although Hoffman did not visit

Aspirant Shrinks In His Drawn-Out Police Job Fight

Peter G. Barrick, 21, yesterday lost ground—⅜ of an inch, to be exact—in his battle for appointment to the Metropolitan Police Force.

Pete, who is a fraction of an inch under the required 5 feet 8 inches in height for a policeman, had been pulled, both by ambition and by sundry chiropractors, to meet the specification.

Last time he was examined for the post, he measured 5 feet 7¾ inches—the result of being stretched a half-inch by chiropractic treatments.

Yesterday, after more treatments, he returned for another examination. His height showed 5 feet 7⅜ inches—a loss of ⅜-inch.

But Pete's chin is still up—if not quite high enough. He says he'll stick to the drawn-out battle till he wins.

A CHANCE TO HELP—Dorothy Kilmer, paralyzed from the waist down by a bullet accidentally fired from a Washington policeman's gun, is weaving herself a sweater to pass away the time at Washington Sanitarium in Takoma Park, Md. The first responses to an appeal for $10,000 to rehabilitate the pretty 20-year-old blonde were made yesterday. One letter received by Dorothy had a $5 bill enclosed by the sender, who wrote: "Wishing you all the luck you deserve and as complete a recovery as medical science can make." (Story on Page 6)

All Predate One in Court

7 More Wills Are Discovered Among Mrs. Patterson's Papers

Seven additional wills of the late Mrs. Eleanor M. Patterson, former owner-publisher of the Washington Times-Herald, were dramatically disclosed yesterday.

All of them predate the will now being contested—drawn up June 21, 1946—but one of them might be termed her legal will if the presently contested will is broken.

Register of Wills Theodore Cogswell said last night that disclosure of the new wills means that most of the legal proceedings in the case will have to start all over again, with notification of every person mentioned in the seven wills and two accompanying codicils.

The wills now available show that Mrs. Patterson changed her mind at least four times on the disposition of the Times-Herald after her death.

They also indicate a growing coolness of relations between her and her daughter, Mrs. Felicia Gizycka, who has instituted the suit to break her mother's will.

Early wills give Mrs. Gizycka the bulk of her mother's estate. As late as 1942, the wills show, Mrs. Patterson bequeathed the bulk of her income to her daughter, but in that year she directed that the Times-Herald should be sold, with proceeds added to a general fund for Mrs. Gizycka.

In 1943, however, Mrs. Gizycka was not mentioned in connection with the newspaper, then willed to Mrs. Patterson's brother, the late Capt. Joseph Patterson, then owner of the New York Daily News.

The following year, the newspaper was willed to four Times-Herald executives in varying shares. But Captain Patterson was given absolute control over the paper for one year—with power to fire any of the four executives,

Peru President Forced Out by Army Revolt

Is Reported Going Into Exile; Rebels' Leader to Take Charge

(From Press Dispatches)

Lima, Peru, Oct. 29.—The army tonight deposed Jose Luis Bustamante as President of Peru.

He was reported going into forced exile in Argentina. Gen. Manuel Odria, leader of a three-day revolt in the south, was reported on his way to Lima to appoint an army junta to start a provisional administration.

Bustamante steadfastly refused to resign, saying he would leave the palace "only as a corpse or as a prisoner." Shortly before 10 p. m. two army officers arrived at the palace with orders to take Bustamante to a waiting plane which was to carry him to exile.

Army Refuses to Strike

Success of the rightist revolt was assured when the Lima garrison refused government orders to move against General Odria's forces in Arequipa, Peru's second largest city, where the revolt began.

It was reported that Gen. Zenon Noriega took over the government pending the arrival of General Odria. Rebel forces surrounded the palace and threw road blocks across the capital's main streets.

Chest Drive, Halfway to Goal, Is Extended to November 19

The Community Chest campaign, scheduled to end November 4, will be extended two weeks to November 19, General Chairman Chauncey G. Parker, announced yesterday, as Chest volunteers reported 50.01 per cent of their $4,566,790 goal filled to date.

Parker, speaking at the Chest's fourth general report luncheon in the Hotel Washington, said many persons had not yet been contacted for their pledges.

Volunteers yesterday reported new gifts of $506,061.38, bringing the grand total of Chest contributions to $2,284,509.81. So far, 190,465 donations have been made to the 1949 Red Feather drive, as compared with last year's final total of 333,000 contributions.

The Government Chest Unit, which began its campaign early on September 20, announced gifts of $1,095,395.09, equaling 71.85 per cent of its goal.

Business Unit I reported 42.26 per cent of its quota filled, with $754,465.38 in contributions. Residential unit workers announced 48.42 per cent of their quota filled, with gifts of $233,623.45, and Alexandria unit workers reported 42.87 per cent of their quota filled, with gifts of $31,937.35.

Other units announced the following total gifts: Business II, $89,786.25, or 24.64 per cent of quota; Arlington, $13,271.27, or 18.75 per cent of quota; Fairfax, $6,976.71, or 15.58 per cent of quota; Montgomery, $46,879.10, or 29.34 per cent of quota; Prince Georges, $10,675.61, or 17.7 per cent.

The Right Rev. Angus Dun, Bishop of Washington, spoke at the luncheon.

Mrs. Charles Goldsmith, a campaign worker since the Community Chest was organized in 1928, and a leader in many Jewish charities, was presented with a Red Feather "Oscar" at the luncheon in appreciation of her services.

High Army Command Revamped

Royall Prepares For Emergencies; Creates Vice Chief Of Staff Post

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Army Secretary Royall last night announced a top-level reorganization of the Army designed to put the high command on a "peace or war footing."

The change, he said, is "designed to obviate the necessity for sudden change in event of an emergency." It marks a partial return to the streamlined wartime organization replaced in 1946 by a normal peacetime setup.

An Army spokesman said the order does not mean that military chiefs feel that war is imminent, but reflects their desire to have an organization capable of quickly shifting to war basis in case of need.

Major Changes Listed

Major changes:

1. Creation of the post of vice chief of staff and two deputy chiefs of staff—one for administration and the other for plans and combat to replace the present single deputy. The move is aimed at relieving Gen. Omar N. Bradley, Army Chief of Staff, of most of his routine duties, and release him for more field inspections here and overseas and closer cooperation with Navy and Air Force chiefs.

Gen. J. Lawton (Lightning Joe) Collins, present deputy to Bradley, will be the new vice chief of staff. Lieut. Gen. Wade H. Haislip becomes deputy for administration and Lieut Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, deputy for plans and combat.

2. Assistant Secretary Gordon Gray takes on overall supervision of all Army logistics, with wider control than now of procurement and industrial matters. This function can be that either of the Assistant Secretary or Undersecretary under the new organization.

3. Reshuffling of the Army Department's 11 administrative and technical services, putting most of them under two sections of the General Staff. Heretofore, the technical and administrative chiefs reported directly to the Deputy Chief of Staff.

Effective November 15

The reorganization, which becomes effective November 15, is expected to end the sharp criticism leveled against the Army by top-flight civilian experts on business administration serving on the Army Advisory Committee. They objected to the old procedure whereby no less than 30 generals has access to and reported directly to the Deputy Chief of Staff. Such an organization would break down in time of war, they declared.

Under the change, the seven technical services—Chemical Corps, Signal Corps, Medical Department, Corps of Engineers, Ordnance Department, Transportation Corps and Quartermaster Corps—will be under the director of logistics of the General Staff, Lieut. Gen. H. S. Aurand.

Four of the administrative services—adjutant general, provost marshal, chaplain and special services—will come directly under the

Martin Says He'll Support Dewey Plan

Speaker Promises House Will Deliver Platform's Social Security Program

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

New York, Oct. 29.—What may go down in Eighty-first Congress history as "the North Attleboro Compact" was verbally sealed today between Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and Speaker Joseph W. Martin, jr.

In effect, it was a promise that the next House will deliver the broad social security program Governor Dewey promised the old folks and needy in Boston, and cooperate with him on all fronts.

Speaker Martin came through with the compact, and it obviously came hard, after Governor Dewey stormed his home town of North Atteboro, Mass., lavished encomiums upon Martin, his 87-year-old mother, and all the neighbors.

Cooperation Pledged

"He and I see pretty much eye to eye," the Speaker told a big meeting in the town's public park. "We are going to get cooperation between Congress and the President . . ."

Martin noted that about everything Governor Dewey had promised in a social security way is already in the Republican platform.

"The Republican Party keeps its word," he said.

Then Governor Dewey's "Victory Special" rode on through Massachusetts, Rhode Island, and Connecticut and into New York City, completing 16,100 miles of barnstorming all told, 2500 of it this last week.

But the promise from Martin meant more to Dewey than all the plaudits and crowds he drew at five other stops today, at Providence and Westerly, R. I., and New London, New Haven and Bridgeport, Conn.

Crowds may or may not mean votes. But Martin's word, however reluctantly extended, is his word. If the next Congress is as unwilling as the last one was to clear any social reforms, Governor Dewey will need Martin's influence and more. He will certainly need similar assurances from Senator Robert A. Taft.

Doubt About Scope

There was some doubt, however, about the actual scope of the compact. The Speaker implied he and the House will be willing to go along to the extent of actual platform pledges and only that far.

In Boston, Governor Dewey followed the platform outline on social security and implemented it by spelling out the new groups to be covered. He put the "gain of human happiness" above the cost but said it wouldn't cost "the Government" very much. Social Security costs are shared by employers and workers.

About all the platform says about social security, and all Martin is bound to, is this general language:

"Government should take all needed steps to . . . provide security for the aged . . . consistent

Science in Wolf's Clothing

Nervous Tension Causes Sheep To Lose Sleep, Study Reveals

Chicago, Oct. 29 (U.P.).—A psychologist who claims to have proved that animals have no sense of guilt and that they don't worry today related how nervous tension can give sheep and goats insomnia.

The psychologist, H. S. Liddell of Cornell University, told the International Symposium on Feelings and Emotions here today that he has been experimenting with animals to find out what reasons they have for "anxiety." He hopes the findings can be correlated with study of anxiety in humans.

Liddell said that early in his experiments it was proved that the animals have no sense of guilt and they don't worry.

But he learned how to induce severe tensions—called experimental neuroses—in sheep and goats by means of "self-imposed restraint and monotony." The tensions become so severe that the animals can't sleep. Often it changes their behavior for years and for life.

In the experiment the animal is confined continually in a harness. Mild electric shocks are applied to its foreleg. For a short time, the animal jumps about when the shock hits him. But after a while he learns that it doesn't hurt him and he remains alert and quiet.

Then the psychologists precede the shock with a signal, like a bell. Soon the animal learns to flex his foreleg each time the bell rings in anticipation of a shock. His reflexes become so sharp that he can be left alone for three years but he'll still flex his leg if he hears a bell ring.

But he's still not under tension. That comes with monotony. The scientists put him through the same bell and shock routine time after time at regular intervals. Gradually, the animal gets to expecting the bell and shocks.

He builds up tension between shocks and pretty soon he's in a continual state of agitation. He stays on the alert all the time. If allowed out with other sheep or goats he gets along fine with them but doesn't want anything to do with humans.

"At night in the barn," Liddell said, while the "normal" animals are asleep, the neurotic one remains "ceaselessly active."

Liddell said the experiments indicate that some humans may be threatened by extreme nervous tension if their work is monotonous and demands great precision. Through his investigations, he hopes to find a way to keep men and women from going the same way as his neurotic sheep and goats.

China Faces Major Debacle In Red Sweeps

Mukden Fall Believed Days Away, at Best; Chiang Rule Shaken

By A. T. Steele

Peiping, Oct. 29 (NYHT).—The Manchurian tragedy is coming to a close in a dismal climax of disaster for the Chinese Nationalist armies.

Assuming the veracity of Communist claims that 12 Nationalist divisions surrendered yesterday in fighting southwest of Mukden, Nanking's losses of men, material and territory in Manchuria, have reached the proportions of a major debacle.

Successive setbacks in Manchuria and North China make this the blackest month yet for Nanking's army. It has been forced to relinquish the major cities of Changchun and Chinchow in Manchuria and Tsinan, Chefoo, Kaifeng and Chengkow in China proper, besides scores of towns and villages.

Other serious reverses appear imminent. Today's reports from Mukden, the Manchurian communications and industrial center, tell of panic and confusion. Its aerial lifeline is all but suspended. Communist forces are battering at its suburbs.

[Both the Associated Press and United Press quoted government sources as declaring a major and decisive battle was under way around Mukden tonight. The United Press said Communist forces reportedly surged into the outskirts of the city and wrecked its giant arsenal before being halted. The Associated Press said it was reported that 400,000 soldiers on both sides were battling for the city.]

Truman Order Sidetracks U. N. on Israel

Sanctions Proposal Goes to Subcommittee After His Message

By John G. Rogers

Paris, Oct. 29 (NYHT).—On direct orders from President Truman, the United States delegation to the United Nations was forced today to abandon support of a proposal to punish the Jews in case Israel refused finally to withdraw its troops in the Negev.

Only yesterday it was learned on the best of authority that the United States planned to vote for a British-Chinese resolution which requested a seven-country subcommittee of the Security Council to study the possibility of diplomatic, economic or communications sanctions against the Jews.

Last night President Truman was in Madison Square Garden, New York, where he made a speech in high praise of Israel. Evidently the President hit the ceiling when he heard of the American delegation plan.

As a result, while the Security Council was in session this morning, with Warren R. Austin, the American delegate, presiding, there suddenly arrived from the White House a new instruction telling the American delegation not to support the British-Chinese resolution.

This produced a great deal of frantic scurrying about by members of the American delegation as they tried to figure out how to get off the hook and how to keep the British-Chinese proposal from coming up for a vote.

While the meeting proceeded in somewhat desultory fashion, one American and one British delegation member heard a U. N. official

Recreation Board Claims Control Over Playgrounds

By Elsie Carper
Post Reporter

The Recreation Department yesterday declared that it and not the National Park Service controls and sets racial policy for 62 playgrounds purchased with funds that the District borrowed from the Federal Government.

Board members adopted a resolution calling on the District Commissioners for their "full support to protect the District's investment and authority on playgrounds."

Board members also agreed to ask Attorney General Tom C. Clark for a conference before the Justice Department. Department decides which agency, the Park Service or the Recreation Department, has jurisdiction over the land.

Board members acted at a special session called by Chairman Harry S. Wender after he learned that the Park Service was claiming control of the land, basing his view on a legal opinion of Interior Department Solicitor Mastin G. White.

Wender said he was "indignant" that he had to learn about White's opinion in a story appearing in The Washington Post. The opinion was handed down last August, but was not made public until excerpts were read at a meeting of the Board of Education last week.

George E. C. Hayes, a member of the School Board, used it in arguing that the Board of Education can order the Recreation Department to end its segregated program on school properties. The board later voted that it had no such control.

Specifically criticized for not informing the board was Irving C. Root, superintendent of National Capital Parks, a division of the National Park Service. Root, a member of the Recreation Board, was not present at yesterday's meeting but sent Harry T. Thompson, assistant superintendent.

The board in adopting the resolutions indorsed a statement drawn up by Maj. Gen. Ulysses S. Grant.

President Reaffirms His Stand on Civil Rights

65,000 in Harlem Hear New Pledge; Russians Again Called Peace Threat

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

New York, Oct. 29.—President Truman today reaffirmed his determination to carry out the civil rights program which critically split his party.

In a second major speech in Brooklyn tonight, Mr. Truman laid the blame for the present uneasy peace at the door of Russia and said of the peace-loving peoples throughout the world:

"We will not sacrifice them to totalitarian aggression."

The President's civil rights speech was delivered to an audience of 65,000, almost entirely Negro, in Harlem. It was the first anniversary of the civil rights report upon which his request for a 10-point legislative program was based.

Presented Award

His speech was the climax of a semi-religious ceremony in Harlem's Colonial Park, at which he was presented the Franklin D. Roosevelt award of the Harlem Ministerial Alliance. The presentation was made by Dr. C. Asapansa Johnson, president of the alliance, who said Mr. Truman's "name will take its place among the great of all time."

"Eventually," Mr. Truman told his cheering audience, "we are going to have an America in which freedom and opportunity are the same for everyone. There is only one way to accomplish that great purpose; that is to keep working for it and never take a backward step.

"Our determination to attain the goal of equal rights and equal opportunity," he declared, "must be resolute and unwavering."

"For my part, I intend to keep moving toward this goal with every ounce of strength and determination I have."

Cites Postwar Threat

The President said he had created the civil rights committee because after the war "racial and religious intolerance began to appear" which "threatened the very freedoms we had fought to save." By calling in a representative body of citizens to study the evil and recommend remedies, he said, he had assured that the civil rights report was prepared in the tradition of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution.

The Declaration, he said, stated the principle that all men were created equal in their rights, and the Constitution made it clear that all men were equal before the law and "the Federal Government has a duty to guarantee to every citizen the equal protection of the law." The civil rights committee, he said, described a method to put those principles into action.

"When every 'American,' he went on, "knows that his rights and his opportunities are fully protected and respected by the Federal, State and local governments, then we will have the kind of unity that really means something."

Describes Freedom

Mr. Truman said the committee has described the kind of freedom that comes when:

"Every man has an equal chance for a job—not just the hot and heavy job—but the best job he is qualified for.

"Every boy and girl has an equal chance for an education."

"Every citizen has an equal opportunity to go to the ballot box

Early War—'Ridiculous'

London, Oct. 29 (U.P.).—War Secretary Emmanuel Shinwell said tonight that the idea of an imminent world war is "ridiculous." Leftists Held In Stuttgart Food Rioting

Stuttgart, Germany, Oct. 29 (AP).—The German police commander here said today five "known Communist sympathizers" were found among 32 Germans arrested yesterday for rioting against German police and American soldiers.

The commander, Paul Frank, emphasized, however, that he did not know whether "political or criminal reasons" inspired the rioting which grew out of a mass demonstration against the high cost of living.

Five American military police and at least 12 Germans were injured. It was the first clash of the German public against the American military since the war. Thousands of persons took part in the five-hour riot. A column of United States tanks and two platoons of U. S. constabulary troops helped end the disorder.

London (Saturday), Oct. 30 (U.P.).—Radio Moscow, following up Premier Stalin's attack on the Western powers, today broadcast the text of the Berlin agreement it said was agreed to by Russia, but rejected by the United States, France and Britain.

The resolution, Radio Moscow said, was agreed to in "unofficial conversations" on October 24 between Soviet Delegate Andrei Vishinsky and Argentine Foreign Minister Juan A. Bramuglia.

On October 25, the broadcast said, the resolution "was rejected by representatives of the United States, Britain and France."

The resolution, according to the official Russian radio, would have called on the four powers to take "immediate" action for "the removal of all restrictions on communications, transport and trade between Berlin and the western zones of Germany.

The United States, Britain and France have denied that they first agreed to and then rejected the resolution, as charged Thursday by Stalin.

(It was not clear from Moscow broadcasts in what way the resolution it described as accepted by Russia differed from an apparently similar resolution vetoed by Russia in the Security Council last Tuesday.

(There have been some reports that Vishinsky had language difficulties during the talks with Bramuglia and that Stalin's Thursday statement contained errors of fact which may have been due to these language difficulties.

(Stalin's statement and the Moscow broadcast may be a roundabout Russian way of opening the door to new negotiations. Although Bramuglia said in Paris today he had no plans to reopen the discussions, he also said he still believes "in the possibility of an honorable and dignified solution" to the problem.—Editor's note.)

West Berlin Faces 90% Cut In Coal Ration

Berlin, Oct. 29 (U.P.).—Fifty pounds of coal (a fortieth of a ton) may be the entire winter's ration for average households in the blockaded western sectors of Berlin, a three-power announcement said tonight.

Last winter, when there was no blockade and the weather was mild, average west sector households received 550 pounds of coal.

"So long as Soviet authorities maintain their illegal blockade, future issues of coal must depend on the degree of success of the airlift," the American, British and French commandants of Berlin announced jointly.

Average west sector families will receive nearly 600 pounds of wood to supplement the coal ration. Last winter the wood ration averaged 300 pounds.

German authorities in the Soviet sector banned virtually all German parcel post shipments between western Germany and Berlin, a joint Anglo-American military government announcement said today.

The Soviet News Bureau denied tonight that a German police force of from 200,000 to 400,000 is being organized in the Soviet occupation zone. It said the German police force in the Soviet zone had been increased "by 10,000" to fight the black market but did not give the total strength.

Report Russia Will Quit Germany Discounted

Berlin, Oct. 29 (NYHT).—The majority of top American military government officials do not believe that Russia will withdraw her troops from east Germany in the near future and substitute a Communist government backed by an armed German police force.

These officials asserted that considerable disaffection exists among Soviet zone Germans and the Russians are not prepared to trust the Germans with arms and independence until the consolidation of Communist power has been thoroughly tested.

Russia Views A-Bomb Use As Criminal

Paris, Oct. 29 (AP).—Russia warned today she would consider the waging of "new methods of warfare" an international crime punishable by death.

Soviet Delegate Alexei Pavlov did not mention the atom bomb or germ warfare by name in his discussion before the United Nations Social Committee. However, he clearly indicated Russia would regard any future use of the atom bomb as an international crime on a level with the atrocities committed by Nazi Germany.

The trials of top Nazi war leaders at Nuernberg established a precedent for punishing and executing "criminals who wage war with new methods of destruction," he said.

Pavlov implied that Russia feels international law now is broad enough to cover most conceivable crimes and regards the "dogma established by Nuernberg" as part of international law.

"Naturally," he added, "wagers of new methods of warfare can be considered criminals both from the dogma and spirit of international law."

Pavlov spoke in explanation of his affirmative vote on an article of the draft declaration on the human rights, which provided that persons accused of crimes be presumed innocent until proved guilty, according to law, in a public trial.

Bullitt Named Aid Consultant

Former Ambassador William C. Bullitt, the bitterest foe of the Administration's policy toward China, was named yesterday as special consultant to the congressional "watchdog Committee" on Foreign Aid.

Senator H. Styles Bridges (R., N. H.), chairman of the joint committee, announced that Bullitt would leave November 9 for a first-hand investigation of the Chinese situation.

Bullitt has campaigned incessantly for vastly increased American aid to China where, he has said, the inroads of communism are threatening American security.

He is already on record for radical changes in this country's relation with Chiang Kai-shek. He recently told the Senate Appropriations Committee that Gen. Douglas MacArthur, American Far Eastern commander, should be sent to plan joint military strategy with Chiang. He also called for an immediate step-up in United States military aids, including guns, tanks and planes, for Chiang's beleaguered North China forces which are retreating before advancing Communist armies.

Battle in China

WHERE THE WAR IS HOT—Chinese Communists claimed destruction of five government armies totaling more than 12 divisions in the Tahushan area (1). If Communist statements are true, the Nationalist government will be forced to remove what Mukden garrison forces it can through Yingkow (2) and evacuate nearly 10 divisions it has at Hulutao (2). Reinforcing such critical spots as Taiyuan (3) and Suchow (4) would be precluded. Should Suchow, the key to north China, fall, the Nationalists would be expected to move their capital from Nanking (5) surrender of Mukden, with its population of more than 800,000, is a matter of only days or hours. All that is left of the Mukden defense force is distributed along the newly opened "escape" corridor to Yingkow, 100 miles to the south. Communist pressure is mounting.

China Faces Major Debacle

At Taiyuan, the besieged capital of Shansi Province, in north China, radioed appeals for help were taking on a note of frantic urgency. The government has been unable to respond.

The Communists now are virtually assured of complete occupation of Manchuria and its immense resources. Once the Mukden-Yingkow corridor is cleared, they will be able to deploy their entire Manchurian strength against the defenses of north China.

Hope In 12 Divisions

The Nationalists' hope of delaying a direct assault on North China are pinned to a dozen divisions based in the vicinity of Hulatao and Chinshi, the only remaining barrier before the main Great Wall gateway at Shanhaikwan.

The crack government troops, many American-trained and equipped, that surrendered near Mukden were commanded by Gen. Liao Yao-Hsiang, one of the late Gen. Joseph W. Stillwell's most trusted generals in Burma.

The Communists assert they have destroyed or captured 26 Nationalist divisions in Manchuria alone during the past month's hostilities—a gigantic loss that would take hundreds of millions of dollars of American aid to replace.

On the central China front, intelligence reports point to Hsuchow, northernmost defense of Nanking, as the principal objective of the Communist armies moving south through Shantung province.

The capture of Hsuchow — a major operation at best — would expose Nanking to direct threat and probably force removal of the capital elsewhere.

Hawaiian Teachers Dismissed as Reds

Honolulu, Oct. 29 (AP).—The Territorial School Commission today dismissed two public school teachers on charges they were Communists.

The teachers, Dr. and Mrs. John E. Reinecke, were suspended in November, 1947. During the commission's hearing on the case, both refused to say whether they belonged to the Communist Party.

The commission revoked Dr. Reinecke's teaching certificate.

Socialist Ardor 'Cooled'

Monteideo, Uruguay, Oct. 29 (AP). John Do Passos, United States writer, told a news conference here today "my past Socialist enthusiasm has cooled." He said he once believed the Russian Communist government was the great hope of the future but that he saw Communist tactics during the Spanish civil war as "domination and Communist infiltration."

Martial Law Declared for All of Greece

Athens, Oct. 29 (U.P.).—All Greece was placed under martial law tonight by a special decree which allows troops to enter any home without a warrant and imposes a strict censorship on mail.

The decree was signed by Premier Themistocles Sophoulis, at the request of War Minister George Stratos.

Sources close to the Premier said Stratos requested martial law "for psychological reasons to make the nation aware of the critical period in its history."

Sophoulis signed the martial law decree one day after Russia demanded in the United Nations Political Committee at Paris that the U. N. order all "foreign troops" out of Greece.

(Lionel Chevrier of Canada, today told the U. N. political committee in Paris that, if American troops left Greece, Russia would take over the country "the following day.")

Secretary of State George C. Marshall visited Greece October 16 reportedly to see why Greece has not been able to wipe out Communist-led rebels with American aid.

[The Associated Press said Premier Sophoulis declared his Populist-Liberal coalition government is facing a crisis which may cause it to fall, because of "the doubt of confidence from Parliament."

[Deputy Liberal Leader Sophocles Venizelos has precipitated the crisis. Venizelos wants a cabinet picked for abilities rather than for party affiliations. If Venizelos presses the point to a vote of confidence Monday, the fall of the government is almost certain.]

Peru President Is Forced Out

Bustamente in the 1945 election, was reported a leading figure in the new junta.

Until midday the revolt left Lima unaffected. However, at noon, following a meeting of top military leaders it was disclosed that the Lima garrison had decided to join the uprising. No gunfire was heard and there were no outward sings of rebellion in the city.

Eye-witnesses reported that before being deposed, Bustamante received about 200 persons in Government Palace and told them he would continue to be Peru's President even after he leaves the country.

Unconfirmed reports said the garrisons at Trujillo and Chiclayo in northern Peru had revolted against Gen. Odria. Trujillo has long been a stronghold of the outlawed left wing anti-Communist Apra Party.

The commanders of the 2d army division based in Lima notified Gen. Fererico Hurtado, inspector general of the army, that they no longer recognized the government's authority because of its plans to send army and air forces to put down the revolt in the south, which would result in large-scale bloodshed.

Observers believed that the government here had not moved faster to crush the Arequipa revolt because it feared to give the recently outlawed anti-Communist leftwing APRA Party a chance to stage a comeback.

Earlier, the rebels claimed control of a broad wedge of territory stretching 500 miles from the shores of Lake Titicaca near the Bolivian border, to Huancayo, only 140 miles east of Lima. They also claimed control of the key cities of Puno, Huancane, Cuzco and Huancayo.

The government's Radio Nacional in Lima charged that the real leader of the revolt was Pedro Beltran, former Ambassador to the United States, owner of the right-wing newspaper La Prensa and wealthy cotton grower.

It alleged Beltran had plotted and was directing the revolt because of the effect the government import and exchange restrictions had had on his personal fortune.

Bustamante, serving a six-year term, was inaugurated President on July 28, 1945. On October 10 a revolt broke out at Callao. Troops finally suppressed the revolt. As a result the left-wing APRA Party was outlawed, and the government announced that APRA Party leaders would be prosecuted.

other ECA countries and therefore declined to comment on conditions there, he did say the 16 Marshall Plan countries had already reversed a centuries-old trend toward economic isolationism "to a trend toward genuine economic cooperation."

"If that trend can build up and we can go along with it, certainly the outlook is good," he said. "I don't want to attempt to get across the idea that everything is wonderful; it isn't. There are still serious problems to be worked out, but I can say that the progress that has taken place in the last 90 days is encouraging."

He also praised the "excellent job" being done by the Paris ECA office, under Special Ambassador Averell Harriman, and by the special ECA missions in the individual countries.

Hoffman confirmed that as soon as pending loan agreements had been signed he would ask President Truman for authority to spend all of ECA's present funds in the 12-month period ending next April 1 instead of spreading them over 15 months until June 30. The present act of Congress authorizes this if the President thinks it necessary.

"We have become increasingly convinced," said Hoffman, "that this amount of aid spent in the first 12 months rather that 15 will be much more productive than if it were dragged out over a longer period. In other words, this is the time to hit and hit hard for recovery."

He estimated that this would mean asking Congress for supplementary funds of more than a billion dollars for the April-to-June period. As for the next fiscal year, he estimated that a smaller amount would be needed than this year in view of Europe's progress toward recovery.

Asked about the British government's program to nationalize the steel industry, Hoffman said he personally disliked "public or private monopolies," but he repeated that the decision on steel was one for the British voters. Since steel nationalization could not become law for at least 18 months, and would be an issue in the next British general election, he thought it was "an academic question" to ask whether ECA dollars would go to a nationalized steel industry.

He insisted again, as he did to congressional committees last spring, that ECA would judge its actions solely by whether or not nationalization would help or hurt recovery.

director of personnel and administration of the general staff, Lieut. Gen. Willard S. Paul.

The Judge Advocate General's Department is transferred from the administrative services to the special staff. This means that the Army's legal chief, Maj. Gen. Thomas H. Green, will have direct access to the Office of the Chief of Staff on the same basis that the Inspector General has now.

The Office of the Chief of Finance is transferred from the technical services to the supervision of the Army Comptroller.

Another change gives Lieut. Gen. Raymond S. McLain, Chief of Army Information, direct charge of the Legislative and Liaison Division, the Public Information Division and Army Air Force Troop Information and Education Division. Heretofore, they were divisions of the special staff.

Royall said the new vice chief of staff wil serve as an "alter ego" to General Bradley. The former's official acts, he declared, "shall be considered as emanating from the Chief of Staff and shall have full force and effect."

This will leave Bradley free during the expansion of the Army, said Royall, to devote more time to "such crucial questions as character guidance, discipline, housing and field efficiency of the Army."

First Major Break Is Seen in French Strike

Paris, Oct. 29 (U.P.).—Leaders of non-Communist miners' unions told Premier Henri Queuille tonight they will appeal to their supporters to go back to work immediately under the protection of French security forces.

As a result of the first major break in the strike front, which had been cracking all week under a growing back-to-work movement, more than 50,000 troops and republican guards in the northern and central coal belts "soon" may be returned to their garrisons, Defense Minister Paul Ramadier said.

Communist leaders, in an effort to keep the 26-day-old coal strike going, ordered strike votes in the nation's railroads, metal industry and other key industries.

Police announced they had arrested 626 strikers in mining districts as of last night, including 160 North Africans and 85 foreigners. Fifty-two other foreigners already have been expelled from the country.

Thousands of tank-supported troops seized the big Couriot pit at St. Etienne in the central coal fields, and several mines in northern France.

Green Refuses Lewis' French Strike Request

By The Associated Press

President William Green of the American Federation of Labor told John L. Lewis yesterday the AFL would neither support nor sympathize with the French coal mine strike.

Green said Communists "are managing and sponsoring the strike."

Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, asked Green two days ago to use his influence with President Truman to cut off Marshall Plan funds to France to "stop the shooting of French coal miners."

Bill to Nationalize British Steel Issued

London, Oct. 29 (NYHT).—The Labor government's nationalization bill, which will place under public ownership 107 iron and steel concerns with capital value of about £195,000,000 (780 million dollars), was published today. Subsidiaries of the companies affected also will be taken over by the government.

It is considered virtually certain that the bill will pass.

Smaller companies which fall outside the nationalization scheme, if they produce up to 50,000 tons of iron ore annually or 20,000 tons of other products, will be required to obtain a government license to operate. Firms with an output under 5000 tons a year will be unaffected.

The measure establishes a public authority—the Iron and Steel Corporation of Great Britain—which will consist of a chairman and four to ten other members appointed by the Minister of Supply.

The corporation will be responsible for broad over-all policy affecting the nationalized units. These units, however, will continue to carry on their business as before, with their own board of directors and will continue to trade under their own names.

The corporation will compensate shareholders in the units to be nationalized. It will issue stock expected to total about £300,000,000 ($1,200,000,000). In addition, the corporation may borrow up to £350,000,000 ($1,400,000,000) for developmental purposes.

Take-over date will be May 1, 1950, and may be delayed up to 18 months.

Because some subsidiaries will be taken over the government will own limestone quarries, factories making safety pins and hairpins, wire fencing, fruit essences and dyes, axles and wheels, paper?making machinery, and bridge structures.

'Axis Sally' Asks Judges' Disqualifier

"Axis Sally" asked six District Court judges yesterday to disqualify themselves as too prejudiced to preside at her trial on treason charges.

Mildred E. Sisk, alias Mildred Gillars, who the Government says used the pseudonym of "Axis Sally" to broadcast for the Nazis, made her charges in the court through her attorney, James J. Laughlin. Her trial is scheduled tentatively for November 15.

The judges she wants disqualified are Bolitha J. Laws, Matthew F. McGuire, Alexander Holtzoff, Henry A. Schweinhaut, Richmond B. Keech, and Edward M. Curran.

She stated that Chief Judge Laws should be disqualified because of his connection with The Washington Post. Laws is on a board appointed to act on any future change in voting-stock ownership of the newspaper company.

The "bias and prejudice" petition states that The Washington Post instigated the wartime mass sedition conspiracy case, which was thrown out of District Court by Judge Laws because the defendants were denied a speedy trial. It is averred that the sedition case is connected with the Axis Sally prosecution.

She stated that Judges McGuire, Holtzoff and Schweinhaut should be disqualified because their former connections with the Department of Justice involved them in the sedition case.

Judge Curran signed the sedition-case indictments. Judge Keech was a presidential aide and interviewed persons interested in the Axis Sally case, the brief claims.

Church Council Calls Dulles Radicals' Tool

Philadelphia, Oct. 29 (AP).—John Foster Dulles, Governor Dewey's foreign adviser, today was called "an effective tool of extremely radical and pacifist church leaders" by the American Council of Christian Churches.

The council, holding its seventh annual convention, also charged five of the major Protestant churches with expounding "Socialist principles" in their Sunday school literature.

The council, composed of 15 fundamentalist denominations, passed a resolution opposing 'appointment of Dulles to either the position of Secretary of State or representative of the United States in the United Nations."

Dulles has been a leading figure in the World Council of Churches which the American Council opposes.

U. S. Refuses To Halt Nazi Executions

Munich, Germany, Oct. 29. (AP). Despite protests by German churchmen the U. S. Army went ahead today with the execution of Nazis convicted of war atrocities.

Nine men were sent to the gallows at Landsberg Prison this morning. This brought to 29 the number of Germans executed at the prison since the middle of the month. Groups of 9 or 10 have been executed on three successive Fridays.

Four of those hanged today shot unarmed American fliers who had parachuted out of damaged planes. The other five had tortured concentration camp inmates to death. A tenth man won a last-minute stay of execution.

German church leaders have criticized U. S. war crimes trial methods and have asked a halt in the executions pending reexamination of every case.

The latest protest came last night from Dr. Theophil Wurm, Evangelical Church bishop in Stuttgart. He said an appeals court should be set up. Earlier, Wurm had joined Catholic Bishop Johannes Neuhaeusler of Munich in appealing to high American officials for a halt in the executions.

Army headquarters in Frankfurt said last night Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American Military Governor, had rejected the request to suspend the executions.

2 Ex-Prisoners of Auschwitz Meet Here at Movie on Camp

There were surprised cries when Mrs. Dorothy Handel and Miss Alexandra Walewska saw each other last night—two former prisoners of Auschwitz, who ironically met again at a showing of a film about Auschwitz.

Mrs. Handel, 1208 Savannah st. se., who spent 2½ years in the concentration camp, and Miss Walewska, 5330 32d st. nw., who was there for a year and a half, never knew of each other's presence here, though both had lived in Washington for more than a year.

The two, who chattered happily in Polish at their reunion, were among 600 persons who saw a movie titled "End of the Road" last night, describing life in the Auschwitz camp in Poland and produced in Poland on the camp site by Mrs. Wanda Jayubowska, a former inmate of the camp herself. It was shown in the Interior Department auditorium through the Polish Embassy here.

Mrs. Handel, whose first husband and 5-year-old son were killed by the Germans, came here in August, 1947, two months after she married Master Sergt. Barnard Handel, an American now stationed at Bolling Field. She wears the badge of the concentration camp on her left forearm—a neatly tatooed number 38374.

Of the film she said, "It was worse than that—much worse. I am glad it is over."

Then she explained, with the slight accent she carries with her from her native Silesia in Poland, that her husband is "a wonderful man," and that she is now attending the Webster Americanization School at 10th and H sts. nw., getting ready to take out her second citizenship papers next August.

Miss Walewska, employed in the press office of the Polish embassy, has been in America two years. She said the movie was based partly on actual incidents at the camp, and cited in particular the final action involving Martha, a Polish Jewish girl who dies with her lover after an unsuccessful attempt to escape from the camp.

"Only in reality they escaped because they were in love," Miss Walewska said, "and in the film they escape for political reasons."

The movie, whose dialogue is chiefly in Polish, with a slight admixture of German, French and other languages, has no English subtitles. To English-speaking members of the audience it was a moving pictorial review of cruelties of concentration camp life.

Sec. Marshall Flies Secretly To London

London, Oct. 29 (NYHT).—George C. Marshall, United States Secretary of State, flew secretly from Paris to London today on what was described as "a purely personal visit." He is expected to return to Paris Monday.

Although both American and British spokesmen insisted there was no significance in Marshall's sudden and unannounced arrival here, it was disclosed that he would see both Prime Minister Clement Attlee and Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin.

Marshall and Mrs. Marshall are staying with Lewis W. Douglas, American Ambassador.

There was speculation Marshall wanted to discuss with Attlee and Bevin the proposed North Atlantic Pact.

Most observers, however, thought there was little Marshall could discuss with Attlee and Bevin on this subject that had not been discussed before. In any case, it is confidently believed here that United States and Canadian moves to join the Western Union powers are only a matter of time.

U. N. Delays Israel Action suggest a new resolution calling for further study.

The two men seized upon this as a happy exit. They went into a side room and wrote a new proposal asking for creation of a five-nation subcommittee to do this job. Canada, in friendly fashion, introduced it. It was promptly approved, 9 to 0, with Russia and the Ukraine abstaining.

So, once again the American delegation had found itself in an embarrassing position because of the complex mixture of the Palestine problem and politics at home. The American delegation was not disposed to discuss the incident today and referred all inquiries to the White House.

[In New York, Charles G. Ross, Mr. Truman's press secretary, was asked by the Associated Press if the President had ordered action on economic sanctions against Israel postponed until after next Tuesday's election.

[Ross declared "I categorically deny that. It is untrue." He declined any comment on the report that Mr. Truman had ordered Secretary of State Marshall not to support the British-Chinese resolution.]

United Jewish Appeal Headquarters in New York said former Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau had asked Mr. Truman to instruct the United States delegation to oppose sanctions against Israel. Morgenthau is now in Tel Aviv.

Israel Attacks Reported In North Palestine

Tel Aviv, Israel, Oct. 29 (U.P.).—A spokesman for United Nations headquarters said in Haifa tonight that Israeli forces were attacking Arabs over a wide front in northern Palestine between Tarbicha and Lake Hule.

Hamilton Fish, U. N. press officer, said:

"It may be assumed that the Israeli attacks are in retaliation against Arab forces who have taken some positions east of the truce line recently."

Israeli Labor Union Group Brings Greetings to AFL

A four-member delegation of Histadrut, Israeli labor federation, yesterday called on William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, to extend to American labor "the greetings of the world's youngest republic."

Histadrut is attempting to raise 10 million dollars in this country with which to build new settlements, organize new cooperatives and provide for immigration, industrial expansion, vocational training and cultural activities.

In a memorial presented to Green at AFL headquarters here, the delegation stated:

"The American labor movement, through its contribution of one million dollars to Histadrut last year, showed more than casual interest in our struggles.

"The battle of Israel for survival is not yet over. We need your continued support, to influence your Government to act in keeping with its given pledges; to grant de jure recognition, to extend loans for our colonization work, to act within the United Nations to halt Arab aggression and to bring Israel into the United Nations as an equal partner."

The delegation, earlier in its visit here, called upon Eliahu Epstein, Israeli special representative, and presented a memorial to Philip Murray, president of the CIO.

U. S. and Britain Seek Funds for Arab Refugees

Paris, Oct. 29 (NYHT).—The United States and Britain moved today to provide a half million Arab refugees in the Middle East with nearly 30 million dollars of emergency relief.

Acting with the Netherlands and Belgium, the United States and Britain asked all U. N. members to contribute to a special fund to alleviate the sufferings of Arab refugees who have fled from Palestine.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt said the situation "has assumed the proportions of a disaster."

U. S. Surplus Abroad Nearly All Sold Out

By the United Press

Nearly all of the $10,261,979,000 worth of American surplus property left overseas when the war ended has been sold to foreign buyers for slightly less than one fifth of its original cost, the State Department reported yesterday.

Acting Secretary of State Robert A. Lovett said in a quarterly report to Congress that the Government is about ready to wind up the disposal program it began three years ago.

He said that less than one-half of 1 per cent of the original stockpile is "available and saleable" at present, and that the property sold thus far brought an average return of 19.2 cents on the Government's original dollar investment.

After next Sunday, Lovett said, the Army, Navy and Air Force will stop declaring property surplus, except in the Far East, where the program will continue for another few months.

The report made it plain that the United States has no surplus supplies from which to pass out arms for western Europe. That meant that any military lend-lease program for the five "Western Union" nations of Europe, as envisaged in the proposed North Atlantic security pact, would have to be started from scratch.

Originally, Germany was to have received 875 million dollars—original value—worth of United States war surpluses. Actually, she received only 475 million dollars worth.

Lovett said one reason was the large sales made from the German stockpile to other nations.

U. S. Strength Called Main Peace Force

Richmond, Va., Oct. 29 (AP).—Secretary of the Army Kenneth C. Royall said tonight "the greatest force for peace in the world today is the knowledge of aggressive nations that our military power and our military potential could successfully overcome any warlike thrust of any country."

"War is not imminent," Royall said, because of America's military might. "Today there is certainly no one so naive as to believe that war is not a possibility. But possibility does not necessarily mean probability."

In an address before the Virginia Education Association, the Secretary of the Army termed "unfortunate" the differences of opinion between educational leaders—whom he did not name—and those who support military preparedness.

He said he did not believe the "educational organizations" want to be "put in the light of opposing that degree of defense . . . needed for the safety of America." And strong advocates of preparedness, he said do not want to be "falsely accused by failing to recognize the great importance of education . . ."

Draft Opponent Changes Mind

New York, Oct. 29 (AP).—Stuart Zane Perkoff, 18-year-old Greenwich Village actor, changed his mind in court today and decided he would register for the draft after all.

He has spent 18 days in the Federal House of Detention. He was about to be sentenced on draft evasion charges when his attorney informed the court of Perkoff's change of mind. He said he is a conscientious objector.

Judge Murray Hulbert directed that Perkoff be taken to a draft board to register.

After registering, Perkoff returned to court where Judge Hulbert imposed a three-year suspended prison sentence and placed him on probation for two years.

2 Students Get Hearing In Failure to Register

Philadelphia, Oct. 29 (U.P.).—Two Swarthmore College students opposed to militarism, one of them a former soldier, received hearings before a United States commissioner today for failure to register for the draft.

Swarthmore students provided the $500 bail for J. Newton Garver 3d, 20-year-old son of the vice president of the Provident Trust Co., Buffalo, who was held for grand jury action.

Robert Horace Peters, jr., 30, of Lake Worth, Fla., was permitted to sign his own bail pending a further hearing November 12. The United States Attorney's office disclosed that Peters had served in the Army and was honorably discharged last January.

Both were arrested after they had written President Truman in September stating they would not register for the draft because of their feelings against the military.

This Is News! Apartments For Immediate Occupancy!
All Advantages of Home Ownership Possible Without the Disadvantages and at Lower Cost
By Allen-Hines-Rocks Co.
One and two-bedroom apartments are now available for immediate occupancy in the Columbia Heights Apartments on monthly payments as low as $52.96. This payment includes paying for your apartment, your interest, taxes, insurance, heat, hot and cold water, repainting your apartment, maintenance of apartment and grounds, and general janitor service. Besides the cash saving, you are continually building up an equity on your apartment-home. And the beautiful part of the story is that they are apartment-homes which veterans may own outright without the worry that accompanies most home ownership!
These apartments are ideal for service personnel or government employees, being convenient to the Pentagon, Navy Annex and other Virginia buildings as well as the entire Federal area of Washington.
Mutual Ownership Has Advantages
For the first time you can have the security of owning your home without bother about mowing lawns, repairing and painting, firing furnaces and disposing of garbage. Columbia Heights Apartments offer veterans a delightful suburban apartment—home at lower-than-rent payments with every modern convenience and service.
This mutual ownership housing development of the Virginia Veterans Cooperative Association (a non-profit association) offers veterans the opportunity to own their own apartment-homes for as little as $7,460—housing that not only minimizes the initial cost, but includes all maintenance and repair work. And the large group-purchases possible in this cooperative development mean lower costs for more service. Suburban life on a spacious Virginia elevation eliminates the city rush and undesirable industrial contacts, and yet is convenient to downtown Washington.
Monthly payments as low as $52.96 on the original purchase price of $7,460 cover the interest and principal, and maintenance which includes heat, water, taxes, insurance, etc. An outstanding savings between these figures and the $11,000 and up on other homes (plus higher costs for payments on trust, taxes, heating and insurance) is obvious.
Modern Features at Modest Cost
Spacious picture windows with copper screens and metal venetian blinds, complete modern kitchens equipped with Frigidaire refrigerators and top quality gas ranges, large tile bathrooms, ample closet space, and varying numbers of bedrooms are featured in each apartment. Picturesque brick buildings are surrounded by sweeping lawns and landscaping. Constructed according to exacting FHA specifications, the buildings have fireproof stairways, automatic oil-burning furnaces, prefinished oak or cork floors, and plastered and painted walls throughout.
How To Reach Apartments
Choose your apartment today and move next week! Exhibit apartments, furnished by P. J. Nee, are open from 10 a. m. to 9 p.m. daily and weekends. Just drive out Columbia Pike about one mile past the intersection of Glebe Road and Columbia Pike to the sign on the right-hand side of Columbia Pike. A. B. & W. buses stop at Columbia Heights.
The plan of the Virginia Veterans Cooperative Association (a non-profit association) requires the sale of 18,950 shares of $10.00 par-value common stock. The proceeds from the sale of these securities will be used to acquire all the common and second preferred stock of Columbia Heights Sec. 1, Incorporated, and the sales commission will be paid by the present owners of Columbia Heights stock. TRUMAN—From Page 1 and cast his vote and have it counted.

"Every man, woman and child is free from fear of mob violence and intimidation."

Then, amid a storm of applause, he said:

"When we have that kind of freedom, we will face the evil forces that are abroad in the world—whatever and wherever they may be—with the strength that comes from complete confidence in one another and from complete faith in the working of our democracy."

The President then reviewed what he had done to carry out the committee's recommendation when the Eightieth Congress failed to act on the civil rights legislation he requested. His own action, he said, included appointment of a committee to study equality of treatment in the armed forces, regulations governing fair employment in the Government, and Justice Department action which led to a Supreme Court rule outlawing restrictive covenants.

"Today the Democratic way of life is being challenged all over the world," the President concluded. Democracy's answer to the challenge of totalitarianism is its premise of equal rights and equal opportunity for all mankind."

On his way to Brooklyn tonight, Mr. Truman stopped in Queens to talk to a small but exuberant crowd of 3000 in Lost Battallion Hall. He told them, amid shouts of encouragement, that he was "smoking out his Republican opponent and blamed his party for Republican high prices."

The three-tiered Brooklyn Academy of Music was crowded to capacity with an estimated 4000 cheering Brooklynites when the President entered. They screamed themselves hoarse as he announced that "we have the Republicans on the run" and tore into the GOP record in foreign affairs between the two world wars.

Mr. Truman turned his heaviest guns equally upon the Communist rulers of Russia and the Republican Party which, he said, "deliberately misinterpret" his moves to maintain peace.

"When Republican leaders," he said in an obvious reference to his recent thought of sending Chief Justice Vinson to see Premier Stalin, "deliberately misinterpret my private consultations with the Secretary of State, and try to tell the people of America that my constant concern about peace is wrong, then I must protest."

Experience has shown, he said, that formal diplomatic channels were not always successful in convincing the Russian leaders that "our people are united in what we think is right, that we have no evil intentions, that we stand firmly behind the United Nations."

In that case, he said, it was the duty of the President "to consider and study every possible approach to the heart and understanding of the Soviet leaders. I have given this problem prayerful consideration. I shall continue to do so."

And he flung his defiance at critics of his proposal to bypass formal channels in dealing with Russia:

"I welcome the abuse that is showered upon me by those who have made up their minds that war is inevitable. In my search for peace, I do not care what epithets may be hurled at me by those who think that we must hurry on to inevitable catastrophe. I do not care about that.

"I do not believe that war is inevitable and I shall make use of every honorable means of preventing it . . . so long as I am President, the United States will not close its mind to peace."

Despite the "real contributions" of some "wise and patriotic" Republicans, he said the manner in which his foreign policy had been attacked "raises doubts as to the good faith with which the Republican leaders in this campaign are approaching this question."

"Do they regard it as nothing more than a campaign issue?" he asked. "Do you fully understand that the stakes in this matter are war or peace, life or death, not only for ourselves and our children but for our civilization?"

Mr. Truman said, "The heart and soul of American foreign policy is peace," and that the United States is doing all in its power to insure peace by international cooperation.

"Unfortunately," he said, "our hopes for world-wide cooperation have been hampered by the Soviet Union, whose policies and objectives seem to be at odds with what the United States and other democratic nations are striving for. This fact—this disharmony—makes it even more urgent that we act in concert with those nations which are devoted to the same objectives that we are."

People throughout the world, he said, yearn for peace and there would be peace if all peoples of the world were free to express themselves. That, he said, unfortunately was not true.

"The people of the Soviet Union," he explained, "are surrounded by a curtain of censorship through which very little of the truth about the other people of the world can penetrate.

"The leaders of the Soviet Union are the victims of their own iron curtain. There is a vast amount of misinformation in the minds of those who control the destinies of the Russian people.

"One of the problems which I face . . . is to pierce that iron curtain and get the truth across to the leaders of the Soviet Union."

It is in that effort, he said, that it sometimes was necessary to deviate from formal channels of diplomacy.

During a five-hour tour of New York, during which he was cheered by an estimated 1,200,000 persons, Mr. Truman made speeches at Yonkers, in the Bronx and in Harlem. At Yonkers, he told 30,000 that rent controls and better housing depended upon election of a Democratic Administration.

In the Bronx Mr. Truman lunched with the Women's Democratic organization of Bronx County and assured them and a crowd listening to loudspeakers outside that he stood on the 1948 party platform "literally for what it says." On the question of Palestine he asked the women to "tell the Jews they have a man in the White House who is trying to do what he thinks is right."

The Harlem ceremony was conducted by five ministers and was interspersed with spirituals by a choir in caps and gowns. Muriel Rahn, star of Carmen Jones, sang.

Mr. Truman was welcomed to Harlem by Herbert L. Bruce, chairman of the Truman Crusaders, who said:

"We, the little people of all the Harlems scattered throughout this country respect you, honor you, and love you. We know that on next Tuesday the plain people, the poor people, and the good people everywhere will speak with their votes."

The Rev. Joshua Licorish, chairman of the award committee, described the President as the "humanitarian, devout Christian, seeker after the peace, dispenser of international goodwill, augmenter of constitutional government.

New York was host to three presidential candidates, whose paths met at least once during the last 24 hours. Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, Republican candidate, was in the Roosevelt Hotel when Mr. Truman's procession passed with screaming sirens after his Harlem address.

Henry A. Wallace, Progressive Party candidate, whose greatest strength is in New York City, met the President's cavalcade head on last night just after Mr. Truman's arrival. The Wallace procession waited at a side street until Mr. Truman's had passed and then fell in behind.

Rainy Day Is Forecast For Election

By the United Press

Voters probably will have to slog through the rain to polling places in almost every section east of the Rocky Mountains next Tuesday, the Weather Bureau reported yesterday.

Its long-range forecast did not include Rocky Mountain, Southwest or Pacific Coast States.

It said rains ranging from moderately heavy downpours to light, scattered showers will extend along the entire Atlantic Coast, throughout most of the South and much of the Midwest.

Weather prospects are favorable only in Georgia, North and South Carolina, southwest Texas, Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska.

The bureau's election day forecast for this area:

Northern Virginia and Maryland—Rain likely Tuesday or Wednesday. Mild temperatures.

Meanwhile, AFL President William Green said today his organization had rejected proposals to set up a third political party.

"The result of next Tuesday's election will show our position is sound," he told a news conference. "We refuse to isolate ourselves into a third party."

He predicted that labor will help elect a Democratic Senate Tuesday. He added that "I'm rather hopeful that we will also change the House of Representatives from Republican to Democratic."

Asked what he thought of the presidential race, Green said:

"There the situation is confused because President Truman has been gaining strength."

He believed the gain has been so much that the outcome is now in doubt.

Martin Backs Benefits Plan

with the vigorous existence of our competitive economy, we urge extension of the Federal old age and survivors insurance program and increase of the benefits to a more realistic level."

At any rate, Martin's promise meant enough to Dewey the he aired his forecast of congressional approval at the very next stop—Providence, R. I.

He told 25,000 persons in the capital of Rhode Island's City Hall Park:

"With the Speaker of th eRepublican Party in the House on the platform, I want to tell you that the Republican Party will carry out its platform in Congress next year," he said.

Tonight Governor Dewey rested in his Roosevelt Hotel apartment, polishing up the capstone speech he will deliver in Madison Square Garden Saturday night. His entry into New York City was unostentatious. He simply walked from Grand Central station through the subway concourse to the hotel.

Dense subway crowds, which normally pay little attention to his comings and goings to and from his New York residence, this time lined the full concourse route.

Just before his arrival in New York, Governor Dewey came back to the press lounge of his special train for an off the record chat with reporters. In high spirits, he reminisced on his travels, exchanged campaign information but made no forecasts. This time he hasn't jotted down an election guess even for his own later reference, on the Presidency, the Senate or the House, his aides say. But he practically exudes confidence about his own race.

Those who know the Governor expect him to stick close to Albany and his Pawling farm if elected, but to take a long vacation in the unlikely event of defeat.

These say they see no practical purpose that would be served by postelection consultation between President Truman and Governor Dewey, since the Government's vast facilities would not be available to Mr .Dewey until January 20 if elected. His close contact with the western Europe situation through John Foster Dulles, his foreign affairs adviser, and others, will continue, of course.

Far from having picked a Cabinet, he has some alternative names in mind for only about three or four of the posts he must fill if elected. For the four or five remaining Cabinet positions he hasn't even a name in mind at the present time, friends said. If he wins control of the Senate, he is expected to name Dulles Secretary of State and leave Senator Vandenberg in the post he prefers, Senate Foreign Relations chairman.

There is some current speculation that Dewey might ask Defense Secretary James Forrestal to continue in office. It is known that he hasn't yet found another he considers big enough for the post. If he follows his New York rule, he will delegate full authority to each departmental chief, make each "boss" in fact in his own field.

Without any prepared texts, Governor Dewey used the six stops en route into New York to warm up for his campaign finale in Madison Square Garden Saturday night. At Providence, Westerly, New London and Bridgeport he delivered his standard rear platform and station-side speech, with some folksy talk to the natives thrown in.

But at New Haven, where a crowd of 11,000, including a liberal sprinkling of Yale University students turned out, Governor Dewey made some interesting departures:

1. He urged college students to train for government as a career, saying he hoped if elected to make the Civil Service a more attractive and better field. He said politics needs the same high type of talent, but urged students to make a money-making go of something else before they go into politics as such. That way, he said, "You won't care whether you win or not" and "you can do what you think is right whether it is popular or not."

2. He criticized President Truman's handling of foreign policy more sharply than ever. In another obvious reference to the Vinson incident, he charged the Administration "pulls the rug out from under the people who represent it," that they never know one day what the Administration's policy will be the next. He said Mr. Truman's "foot slips with increasing regularity."

3. He developed his belief in a federated Europe. He said leading European statesmen have told him "Europe must federate or perish." While Europe is uniting as "a bulwark for peace and freedom" he said the United States must marshal its own resources. Then he added: "When we are through, we will begin pushing back the area of slavery."

In Attleboro, Dewey made it "Joe Martin Day." Entering the town by a track that hasn't been used by passenger trains for 15 years, he told a crowd in the public park he came there to thank Martin's neighbors for returning him to Congress every year.

He called Martin "a symbol of our type of Government" and said the country "owes him a debt of gratitude it never can adequately express."

But first, Mr. and Mrs. Dewey called on the Speaker's mother, who seldom is able to leave her home now. Mrs. Dewey presented her a bouquet of red roses and they all posed for pictures.

Later Governor Dewey visited the print shop of The Evening Chronicle, the paper Martin used to carry as a newsboy and later purchased in 1909. Its masthead lists Martin as publisher and his brother, Albert, as editor.

The edition on the stands when Dewey arrived was full of "Welcome Dewey" advertisements, and had a front-page spread on Dewey's arrival, but the editorial page wasn't exactly laudatory.

An editorial called "Campaign Oratory" criticized Dewey and Truman speeches alike. It said Dewey's speeches are designed for tonal effect, are filled with maxims, sound good, but promise nothing. The editorial added that Truman's speeches have still less to recommend them because "he scolds and seems to indulge in more license in what he does than does his opponent."

The editorial said both Dewey's and Truman's speeches are written for them by men trained in the art, and concluded: "The day of the political spellbinder is gone. He now says what he is told to say."

Truman Group Recognized as S. C. Party

Columbia, S. C., Oct. 29 (U.P.)—National Democratic Chairman J. Howard McGrath today recognized a loyal pro-Truman group as the official Democratic Party in this State. Anti-States' Righters in Alabama sought similar standing.

The maneuvering of the regular Democrats virtually on election eve in the heart of the Southern revolt belt brought loud denunciations from States' Rights leaders.

The Dixie Party has appropriated the trappings and machinery of the old Democratic organization in four States—Mississippi, Louisiana, South Carolina and Alabama. It considers itself the only Democratic Party in those States.

But today, McGrath messaged Ashton H. Williams, organizer of a Democratic revolt within the States' Rights revolt, that his new "loyalist" movement has met the requirements of a properly organized State party.

"We will therefore deal with you and your committee as the regular Democratic committee in the State of South Carolina and are ready to work with you at all times in the interest of the Democratic Party," McGrath advised Williams.

McGrath okayed Williams as national committeeman, replacing Gov. J. Strom Thurmond, who is the States' Rights candidate for President. He also named Mrs. J. Richard Allison national committee woman, replacing Mrs. Anne A. Agnew, and R. S. Rogers State chairman to replace William P. Baskin.

Williams hailed the recognition as meaning "the National Executive Committee has declared that Gov. J. Strom Thurmond is no longer a member of the Democratic Party."

Thurmond, campaigning in Texas, snapped back that "The Democrats of South Carolina will continue to run their party regardless of McGrath.

"I was elected by the Democratic Party of South Carolina and the Democratic Party of South Carolina is not going to take dictation from McGrath or anybody else," Thurmond said.

In Alabama a movement to write in electors for Mr. Truman since the regular Democrats can not make the ballot had begun to lose momentum.

Mr. Manufacturer

On Thursday, October 28th we ran an advertisement in The Washington Post inadvertently listing Barrister suits as a mark down special. An over-zealous buyer failed to realize that this merchandise may not be sold below retail list price under the manufacturer's provision that Barrister Clothes be advertised and sold at fair trade prices in accordance with the Feld-Crawford Act. Under the circumstances we withdraw this offer from the public and assure the manufacturers of all branded products which are sold under the Feld-Crawford Act of our continued cooperation.

To the public, we say again as always, that we will continue to price our merchandise in accordance with Co-op policy at the lowest possible prices.

FBI Probing Texas Democrat Primary

$1,674,760 Spent

1.68 Million Collected by Democrats

The Democratic National Committee reported yesterday it had collected $1,683,193 through Wednesday and had spent $1,674,760.

The final pre-election financial statement filed with the House clerk also listed $95,000 in loans receivable, and $151,414 in unpaid bills.

The Republican National Committee's report was filed Thursday. It listed contributions of $1,883,516 and expenditures of $2,007,287—$332,527 more than the Democratic Committee, through Wednesday.

The largest contribution reported by the Democratic Committee since its last report, October 23, was $17,000 from the party's finance committee in Rhode Island. The National Committee also received $5000 from the National Truman-Barkley Club.

Two $5000 Individual Gifts

The largest individual contributors listed were Samuel Genis and Justin Turner of Los Angeles, and F. J. Lewis of Chicago, each contributed $5000.

Final preelection reports also were filed by the Republican and Democratic senatorial committees and the parties' congressional campaign committees.

The Republican senatorial committee listed contributions of $141,785 and expenses of $158,418 between October 18 and the end of business Thursday. The Democratic committee showed contributions of $3650 and expenditures of $10,349 from October 22 through Thursday.

The Republican report did not show total receipts and expenses for the entire year. Its largest contributions were $10,000 each from the Massachusetts and New Jersey State committees, and $8350 from the party's city finance committee in Chicago.

$7210 to Reece Campaign

Principal outlays by the Republican committee during the 10 days covered by the report included $7210 to the senatorial campaign of B. Carroll Reece in Tennessee.

The Democratic senatorial committee's report showed contributions of $5000 from Averell Harriman, former Secretary of Commerce, and $1000 from Thomas Corcoran of Washington.

Principal spending was $2000 to former Senator Guy M. Gillette of Iowa, $2000 to the State Committee in West Virginia, and $1500 to Paul H. Douglas, Democratic candidate for the Senate in Illinois.

The Republican Congressional Commitee, handling money for the campaigns of House candidates, reported $387,902 collected for the year up to Thursday, and $392,681 spent. The Democratic Committee doing the same job listed no receipts and no expenditures since its October 22 report, and said it had $3127 on hand.

The Republican Congressional Committee's report showed its largest expenditures were to the campaigns of incumbent House members—$2000 to Representative William J. Miller, Connecticut, and $1000 each to Representatives Angell, Oregon; Wolverton, N. J., and Holmes and Horan, Washington.

The report from Labor's League for Political Education, covering its activities from March through Thursday, showed $286,081 in contributions, and $270,819 spent.

The National Committee for an Effective Congress, listing no party affiliation, reported $8880 collected and $9129 spent up to yesterday. Two Republican committees of Nebraska reported $91,024 in contributions and $88,015 spent in the same period.

Michigan Technicality Threatens Truman

Detroit, Oct. 29 (AP).—A technical error threatened for a time today to keep President Truman's name off Michigan ballots Tuesday.

Secretary of State Fred H. Alger, Jr., disclosed that the Democratic Party has not yet filed a certified list of its 19 presidential electors which under law must be filed 25 days before election.

Officers of the State Democratic Central Committee immediately took steps to comply with the law and Alger said he would keep his office in the capital in Lansing open Saturday to accept the list.

Deputy Attorney General Peter E. Bradt ruled that the list should be accepted if it is received before election day. He pointed out, however, that there is a remote possibility some citizen might file a civil court action if President Truman carries Michigan.

The FBI disclosed yesterday that it is investigating alleged irregularities in the Texas Democratic primary race between Representative Lyndon B. Johnson and former Gov. Coke Stevenson.

Texas is one of the eight pivotal States where Democrats and Republicans are waging a torrid battle for control of the United States Senate.

Johnson, certified as the Democratic nominee for Senator, won the primary runoff election by only 87 votes out of a total of nearly 1,000,000 cast. Stevenson challenged the result and threw his support to Johnson's Republican opponent when he failed to qualify as the Democratic nominee.

Both Johnson and Stevenson raised charges of "fraud" in the runoff.

The FBI said it has started a "preliminary investigation" of alleged voting irregularities in four Texas counties. It did not name the counties but it is understood that one of them is Jim Wells County.

The inquiry was ordered by Assistant Attorney General Alex Campbell, head of the Justice Department's criminal division.

Herbert Brownell, jr., GOP campaign manager, noted that a Senate committee is investigating reports that 4000 ballots in one Texas county were burned.

He said this was "interestingly reminiscent of the mysterious disappearance of the ballots in the notorious Kansas City vote fraud case. It seems that disposal of the evidence is routine in Democrat vote fraud scandals."

A Senate Elections Subcommittee meantime turned its spotlight on Tennessee, another of the key States in th Dmocratic-Republican struggle for control of the upper chamber.

Chairman William E. Jenner (R., Ind.) said investigators will be sent to Tennessee if Republican charges that the Democrats plan to commit "gross fraud" appear to be documented.

The charges are similar to those hurled by Republicans and Democrats alike in other "doubtful" States to lay the groundwork for challenging the right as successful candidates to take their Senate seats.

The Tennessee fight involves a Democratic seat. It is a nip-and-tuck affair between Representative Estes Kefauver, Democrat, and Carroll Reece, former chairman of the Republican National Committee.

B. Nelson Deranian, chief counsel for the subcommittee, told newsmen that Fred Elledge, co-chairman of the Tennessee Republican State Committee, has reported that Democratic officials are preparing to commit "gross fraud" to assure Kefauver's election.

The alleged "fraud," according to Elledge, centers around "improper use" of voting machines in Nashville.

Deranian said Elledge promised to arm the subcommittee with sworn statements backing up the charge.

Clinton P. Anderson, former Secretary of Agriculture and Democratic candidate for Senator from New Mexico, challenged a House committee to name nine Federal employes who allegedly violated the Hatch (Clean Politics) Act on his behalf.

R. J. Hedson, investigator for the House Subcommittee on Publicity and Propaganda, reported he had found evidence that the nine had engaged in a "shakedown" of other Federal employes.

If GOP Wins

Wilson-Aiken Fight Likely In Senate

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

A fight over the chairmanship of the important Senate Agriculture Committee is promised if the Republicans retain control of the Senate, it appeared yesterday.

Aiken

With the retirement of Senator Arthur Capper (R., Kans.) this year, it was generally conceded that Senator George D. Aiken of Vermont, next in line, would be named committee head.

Aiken is joint-author with Representative Clifford R. Hope (R., Kans.) of the new price-support bill which has figured largely in the present campaign. It is known as the Aiken-Hope Bill.

However, advertisements by the Republican State Central Committee in Iowa, urging the re-election of George A. Wilson to the Senate, predict Wilson, instead of Aiken, will get the coveted post.

The advertisements read:

"Senator Wilson is high-ranking member of the Senate Agriculture Committee and upon his return to the Senate next January, will probably become its next chairman."

Truman Says He Makes U. S. Policy Abroad

New York, Oct. 29 (NYHT).—President Truman, in a chatty discussion of world affairs today, told a small group of listeners: "I make American foreign policy."

The President's rather emphatic observation, relivered to a dozen or so top officials of the Jewish War Veterans of the United States, was at distinct variance with the common conception of bipartisan Republican-Democratic participation in American foreign policy.

Mr. Truman interrupted a prepared speech by Myer Dorfman, president of the veterans organization, to make his point. As he did, a representative of the New York Herald Tribune, the only reporter present, was admonished by a member of the presidential entourage:

"You had better clear this with Mr. Ross (Charles Ross, the White House press secretary). You had no business taking notes. This is just like the President receiving a delegation of these men in the White House."

The meeting was in an empty ballroom stacked with chairs in the Biltmore Hotel. The veterans' officials clustered in a semicircle around the President and Mayor William O'Dwyer while Dorfman read his speech. It was principally a plea for implementation of the United Nations Palestine partition plan of last November. Midway through it, Mr. Truman interposed his thoughts:

"You've got to get the issue worked out with the majority of U. N. nations. Palestine is not the only issue in working for world peace. It must be worked out on a worldwide basis for peace. Palestine is one issue, just as Korea and other places are issues. You can't just take Palestine alone.

"The platform of American foreign policy stands and I make American foreign policy."

Tax-Free Status Of Ethical Union Is Not Changed

The Internal Revenue Bureau said yesterday it had erred in listing the American Ethical Union, Inc., New York, in a group of organizations which lost tax-free status.

Correcting its October 21 announcement, the bureau said the American Ethical Union is entitled to full tax exemption on its income and those who contribute to it can deduct their gifts in computing their income taxes.

Wallace Calls Truman Vows 'Worthless'

New York, Oct. 29 (AP).—Henry Wallace followed President Truman into Harlem tonight and accused the President of making "shallow, hollow, worthless promises" on civil rights.

Wallace said in a speech in Harlem's Golden Gate ballroom that the President during his Southern tour "invited the Dixiecrats, the race-haters, the lynch boys, the poll-taxers right back into the camp.

"And they're coming back," he added. "Look at the list of Georgia Congressmen who have just accepted Truman's invitation.

"If he meant a word about civil rights he would be calling for their defeat, not their reelection."

During a visit to Harlem today the President vigorously reiterated his stand in favor of civil rights legislation.

Wallace said that "instead of visiting Harlem, President Truman should take his pen in hand and do the one simple thing which would prove that he really wants to help the Negro people and deserves their support.

"He should take pen in hand and sign an order abolishing segregation in the armed forces. . . .

"He gets writers cramp whenever he thinks about it—and so makes another speech of shallow, hollow, worthless promises."

Dewey Asked for Stand On Aid to Education

Chicago, Oct. 29 (AP).—The American Federation of Teachers today asked Gov. Thomas E. Dewey for "a definite statement" on Federal aid to education.

It said that "since the crisis in education has become a major point in the campaign we feel that it is vital that the million teachers of the Nation have a clear-cut statement on this issue."

The request was made public in a statement by Irvin R. Kuenzli, Chicago, Federation secretary-treasurer. He said Charles D. Breitel, Dewey's "legal counsel," told the Federation Dewey would "discuss all the vital issues, including that of Federal aid to education," but "up to the present time we have not seen any published statement regarding your stand.

Kidnaping Case

Writer Asks Quashing of Indictment

Peoria, Il., Oct. 29 (AP).—Theodore C. Link, St. Louis newspaperman, asserted today that indictments returned against him were the "product of the prejudicial, personal domination of Attorney General George F. Barrett." He asked that they be quashed.

Link and three members of the Shelton gang were indicted Saturday on charges of kidnaping, intimidation and conspiracy. The indictments were returned by a Peoria County grand jury called to investigate alleged conditions of corruption that Link reported. The Attorney General's office conducted the investigation.

Link, a reporter for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, also furnished $11,000 bond on the charges. Similar bond was provided by the three members of the Shelton gang—Earl Shelton, Fairfield and Jack Ashby and Ray Walker of Peoria.

The charges against the four men stemmed from their questioning of Peter Petrakos, a Shelton associate.

Prosise Resigns As Officer of ArlingtonTrust Co.

Alan B. Prosise, 54, yesterday resigned as first vice president and treasurer of the Arlington Trust Co., after 30 years of service with that institution.

Pressure of other business and financial interests were given as the reasons for the move.

Prosise, a native Arlingtonian, had seen the bank grow from a country institution with assets totaling $250,000 to the largest bank in Northern Virginia, with assets over 16 million dollars.

A veteran of World War I, Prosise is married and is the father of two daughters and a son. He lives at 1111 N. Jefferson st., Arlington.

13 Attorneys Go to Bat for Charter Plan

Thirteen Montgomery County attorneys, yesterday announced their unqualified support of the proposed Montgomery County Charter which will be voted upon November 2.

The move wa an apparent effort to answer a public statement by nine other county lawyers this week in which they raised doubts as to the legality of the proposed "home rule" document.

"Because we have confidence in the charter, we are supporting it and will vot for it," the thirteen lawyers declared. "We have no doubts about its workability and legal soundness and we do not expect any unusual legal disturbances under it."

Earlier, nine attorneys had predicted "a whirlpool of litigation" would result if the charter is approved at the polls.

A fourteenth lawyer, Leo Bender, gave conditional indorsement of charter.

The 13 were E. Austin Carlin, Robert W. Beall, Albert E. Conradis, R. Duncan Clark, DeWitt S. Hyde, J. Dougl s Bra ..., Donald Lamond, J. Sendall Coughlin, R. Edwin Brown, Thomas C. Kelley, Frederic P. Lee, Wendell Berge and Albert Arent.

Referring to a recent court battle over legality of a budgetary provision of the charter, Attorney Lee declared:

"Charter opponents sense what they believe to be the strongest point of attack on the validity of the proposed charter and they lost their suit before Maryland's highest court."

Voters Should Check Record Of Republicans, Tydings Says

Voters should examine the voting record of the Republicans over the past 20 years before casting their ballots next Tuesday, Senator Millard E. Tydings (D., Md.) urged last night.

Bringing elaborate charts to prove his point, the veteran legislator bitterly attacked Republican opposition to World War II preparedness measures enacted by the Democrats.

"You must decide what a party is likely to do largely by what it has done in the past and not on campaign promises," he said, at a Montgomery County Democratic rally attended by 275 persons at Leland Junior High School, Bethesda.

Senator Tydings suggested that the electorate not think of personalities in the presidential race. He also warned that neither Dewey nor Warren "has ever held a national office or has been engaged in a national or international program."

"A little bit of experience is a mighty handy ingredient for the critical situation ahead," he declared.

The Democratic candidacy of F. Byrne Austin for Congress from the Sixth Maryland District was indorsed by Tydings.

Predicting he would unseat his Republican opponent, incumbent J. Glenn Beall, Austin last night attacked Beall's voting record and promised, if elected, he would fight to bring down living costs.

Wendell Berge, former Assistant United States Attorney General, who also spoke, said he was confident the Senate of the Eighty-First Congress will have a Democratic majority.

Seven More Wills Are Discovered

thus making them ineligible for the bequest.

Starting with the bulk of her mother's estate under the 1942 will, Mrs. Gizycka in 1943 was reduced to $25,000 a year payments for life, New York and North Dakota real estate, her mother's mansion at 15 Dupont Circle, and most of her mother's furnishings and personal property.

In 1944, Felicia was given that real estate, with the exception of the Dupont mansion, which Mrs. Patterson willed to the District League of the Republican Women, in addition to the furnishings and personal property and $25,000 a year.

Under the presently contested will, dated June 21, 1946, Mrs. Gizycka was willed the same real estate, some personal property, and the $25,000 yearly payments for life mentioned in the 1943 will.

Cogswell estimated it would be at least 90 days before the will case could come to trial. Executors of the estimated $16,586,571 estate previously had hoped for a trial on or soon after December 6. On Monday, opposing counsel will appear in District Court when the future course of the case will be outlined.

Four of the additional wills, said Riggs National Bank which has been named by District Court as temporary collector for the estate, were discovered yesterday among personal papers of Mrs. Patterson, in a safe of the Security Storage Co.

One of these four wills dates back to 1924, and the last of the four was executed in 1934.

The three other wills were found after the presently contested will was filed for probate, said Louis G. Caldwell, one of the attorneys for the executors of Mrs. Patterson's estate.

Mrs. Gizycka has alleged among other things that the June, 1946, will was not her mother's last will and testament, that it was obtained through force, duress and coercion, and that her mother was of "unsound mind" when she made it.

The last will in the case, the 1946 document, leaves the Times-Herald to the following executives of that newspaper: Shelton, Waldrop, Edmund F. Jewell, Michael W. Flynn, Harry A. Robinson, John Irving Belt and Mason S. Peters 3d.

Under the 1944 will, however, the newspaper was willed to the following executives, with specified ownership shares:

Waldrop, 51 per cent.
Shelton, 25 per cent.
Howard R. Weaver, former advertising director, 12 per cent.
C. A. Corcoran, former circulation executive, 12 per cent.

In the 1942 will, Mrs. Patterson sharply cut out of the estate her granddaughter, Ellen Pearson (now Mrs. Ellen Pearson Arnold), daughter of Mrs. Gizycka and her first husband, columnist Drew Pearson. In that will, Mrs. Patterson, who was once very fond of Drew Pearson, and later became embittered toward him, declared: "I specifically declare that it is my intention by the provisions of this, my will, to exclude my said granddaughter, Ellen Pearson, from participation in any part of my estate, income and/or principal."

Earlier this month Mrs. Ellen Pearson Arnold, now living at Santa Monica, Calif., said she was eliminating herself from her grandmother's will contest, stating, "I am not a direct heir of Mrs. Patterson. I was never dependent on her and I don't think she owes me anything."

In the 1946 will, now under contest, Mrs. Patterson made no provision for her granddaughter, explaining she had made a "substantial gift" to her during Mrs. Patterson's lifetime.

No will, it should be emphasized, has yet been disclosed which postdates the will which was the subject of Mrs. Gizycka's origanal suit.

Cogswell expressed the opinion that if the June, 1946, will is broken, the next will at issue might be one executed August 23, 1943. That will left the Times-Herald to the late Capt. Joseph Patterson.

Inasmuch as Captain Patterson died in May, 1946, however, if that will is ruled valid the Times-Herald would go into a general estate—to be divided among charities.

Another good possibility in the highly complex legal situation, is that if the attack upon the "last" will is successful, all previous wills may be held void and Mrs. Gizycka will be ruled the sole heir of the entire estate.

The various wills now in the case bear the following dates:

January 11, 1924 (signed Eleanor P. Gizycka); May 4, 1933 (plus a codicil dated February 12, 1934); September 22, 1934, October 3, 1934.

(All the above wills, it was said, were found yesterday in the Security Storage Co. safe by K. F. Brooks, trust officer for Riggs National Bank, and Miss Margaret M. Barney, personal secretary of the late Mrs. Patterson.)

Signatures Canceled

Other wills: December 31, 1942 (canceled by a line drawn through the signature of Mrs. Patterson, on August 23, 1943), August 23, 1943; August 31, 1944 (half of the last page torn off, removing signatures. There was a codicil to this will, dated October 13, 1944, with signatures similarly torn off.); June 21, 1946 (the "last" will, and subject of the original litigaton.)

In the first will which is now available, Mrs. Patterson, who was then Eleanor P. Gizycka, left all of her estate with the sole exception of a "three-stone diamond ring" to "my beloved daughter, Felicia." The ring was left to a niece, Eleanor Patterson of Chicago, daughter of the late Captain Patterson.

Mrs. Patterson in that will set up a trust fund—with Captain Patterson and the Union Trust Co. of Chicago as trustees—to invest the money and pay to Felicia whatever the trustees deemed necessary to support her. These payments were to continue until 21 years after Mrs. Patterson's death, and then the entire estate was to go to Felicia. There was a further provision that after Felicia became 21, if the trustees deemed it advisable, they could give her all or part of the estate.

Upon the death of Felicia, the estate was to go to her children, if any, and if there were none, to Captain Patterson.

In her second will, dated May 4, 1933, Mrs. Patterson signed herself "Eleanor M. Patterson, formerly Eleanor Patterson Schlesinger" (Schlesinger was her second husband). Under that will, which was made when Felicia was married to her second husband, a London broker, Felicia was left all Mrs. Patterson's real estate, furnishings, etc., other than real estate in Wyoming and North Dakota, which was left to Captain Patterson.

To Rose Crabtree, of Jackson, Wyo., she left $5000. To Henrik Shipstead and his wife, of Minneapolis, Minn., $10,000. (This apparently is the former United States Senator.) There was no explanation of this bequest.

To Ann Patterson, wife of Robert Patterson 3d, of San Francisco, she left $10,000. To Isabel Bates Morris, New Philadelphia, Ohio, she left $5000. Another $5000 was bequeathed to Carroll Carrington, Jackson, Wyo.

The rest of the estate was left in trust with Felicia to receive the net income. Until the age of 30, Felicia was to get $25,000 a year, or not more than $100,000 a year. Between age 30 and 40, she was to receive $25,000 a year, or not more than one half of the net income of the estate. After age 40 she was to receive the entire net income of the trust.

Third, Fourth Wills

Her third will, dated September 22, 1934, contained only minor changes, as did the fourth will, dated October 3, 1934.

Mrs. Patterson became editor of the Times-Herald in 1930, and acquired control of it in 1937, and the fifth will, dated December 31, 1942, is the first which mentions the newspaper.

In that will Mrs. Patterson declared "it is my wish that the Times-Herald be disposed of to and published by . . . either my brother, Joseph M. Patterson, Alicia Patterson (daughter of Joseph Patterson, now Mrs. Guggenheim) or Robert R. McCormick." (McCormick is the present publisher of the Chicago Tribune and a cousin of Mrs. Patterson.)

Mrs. Patterson directed that Joseph Patterson first be offered an opportunity to buy the newspaper "upon payment of a sum equal to the fair value of the assets exclusive of good will."

If Patterson were to refuse or otherwise fail to buy the paper it was to be offered to Alicia Patterson Guggenheim on the same terms and then to McCormick.

If no sale of the newspaper were to be completed within two years after date of Mrs. Patterson death, she instructed that the newspaper be offered for sale publicly.

The sixth will, in 1943, directs the Times-Herald to go to her brother outright, and wills to "friend" Rhoda Christmas the Dower House, Marlboro, Md., estate of Mrs. Patterson, plus Mrs. Patterson's dogs and horses. (Later wills give Dower House to a neighbor of Mrs. Patterson, Mrs. Ann Bowie Smith).

In her sixth will, Mrs. Patterson apparently had a change of feeling about her granddaughter, Ellen, for she established then a trust fund to provide her with $10,000 a year. (The final will makes no bequest to Mrs. Ellen Pearson Arnold.)

The seventh will, in 1944, is the first to mention provisions for "certain friends of mine," actually friends and former employes, who are to continue receiving periodic payments which Mrs. Patterson carried through into her last known will.

Included in a list of other bequests of the 1944 will is one for $5000 to C. B. Porter, former Times-Herald treasurer. Porter, named in the 1946 will as one of the executives to share in ownership of the Times-Herald, was cut out of that will by a later codicil. On September 15, Porter plunged to his death from a sixth floor Clarksburg, W. Va. hotel room. Police there listed his death as a suicide.

The executors named under the will being contested have been attempting to accelerate the trial in all possible ways. They have charged that Mrs. Gizycka has been "responsible for unreasonable delays" in the will contest. Yesterday, answering the executors' attempts to speed up the trial, Mrs. Gizycka's attorneys said, "The caveator (Mrs. Gizycka) is justified in believing that the caveatees (the executors) are seeking to accelerate the trial of this case in order to preclude the caveator from having the benefit of existing evidence."

Mrs. Gizycka's attorneys said earlier in opposing any extra-speedy trial that they needed time to find "additional evidence" to bolster their case. They charged that "wittingly or unwittingly the caveatees have attempted to create the impression that the caveat was filed for the purpose of harassing" the executors. "Nothing," said Mrs. Gizycka's attorneys, "could be farther from the truth."

The wills produced in the case yesterday apparently came as a result of Mrs. Gizycka's request for all wills or other documents belonging to Mrs. Patterson. The executors had said earlier that they would produce any or all other wills involved but it would be physically impossible to produce all her thousands of papers without "tremendous expense." Many of these papers, they said, involve personal actions of Mrs. Patterson and others and some are confidential documents of the Times-Herald.

In reply to this, Mrs. Gizycka's attorneys insisted they had a right to inspect all her papers, adding that if they could not do so this "would give the proponents of the will a tremendous advantage . . ."

If they were prevented from seeing the papers, they said, it "would unduly favor strangers to the blood as against a child of the decedent. This law suit is a search for the truth and not a battle of deception," they said.

Capital Begins to Answer Dorothy Kilmer Aid Appeal

The first responses to an appeal for $10,000 to aid Dorothy Kilmer, injured in an accidental shooting by a policeman, were received yesterday by the pretty, 20-year-old blonde at Washington Sanitarium, Takoma Park, Md.

Dorothy was paralyzed from the waist down when a policeman playfully pointed a gun at her. The gun was accidentally discharged; a bullet severed her spinal cord.

The District Commissioners refused to ask Congress for authority to compensate Dorothy, after Police Chief Robert J. Barrett said it might be a "bad precedent." Bill Gold yesterday made an appeal for Dorothy in his District Line column in The Washington Post, asking that "10,000 Washingtonians send $1 each" to provide Dorothy with rehabilitation so that she will be able to move about with special braces and crutches.

Money should be sent direct to Dorothy Kilmer, care of the Washington Sanitarium, Takoma Park, Md.

Va. Campaign Is Debated by Three Parties

Speakers for three political parties debated Virginia campaign issues last night in a town meeting sponsored by the Arlington and Fairlington chapters of the American Veterans Committee.

The panel discussion was attended by about 100 persons in the auditorium of the Thomas Jefferson High School, S. Fillmore and 8th sts., Arlington.

Taking part in the discussion were Mrs. Virginia Durr, Progressive candidate for the Senate; Albert Carretta, member of the Democratic Executive Committee of Arlington, and Tyrell Krum, Republican candidate for the Eighth District Congressional seat.

Charles Pickett, member of the States Rights Party executive committee for northern Virginia, was unable to attend. The fifth scheduled speaker, Albert Hamilton, chairman of the public relations committee of the Socialist Party of Virginia, did not appear.

Krum, who left to attend another gathering after delivering his 12-minute speech and rebuttal, predicted Governor Dewey will be elected "by the most tremendous landslide ever seen," and that his own election would "establish the two-party system in Virginia."

Carretta, who emphasized he was not representing the party executive committee, but speaking solely for himself, pleaded with Democrats to "keep their differences within the party."

Splinter parties, he said, are playing into the hands of the Communists.

Democrats and Republicans alike were blamed by Mrs. Durr for high prices and inflation, "the problem worrying the public more than other issues."

She closed with a strong attack on bipartisan foreign policy, which, she said, the Progressive Party "condemns." Marshall Plan aid to Greece and Italy has been a failure, Mrs. Durr said.

New Sales Tax Drive Opened By Virginia School Officials

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

A new drive has been launched by Virginia school officials for a sales tax to finance better schools in their State. It could have direct results for the District.

The Virginia school officials are up against the opposition to date of Gov. William M. Tuck, and so far the Virginia General Assembly has followed his guidance by killing sales tax efforts.

In contrast to Governor Tuck, Senator Harry F. Byrd (D., Va.) often labeled as the top man in the dominant Democratic State political organization, is reported in favor of a sales tax in his State.

There have also been reports that Byrd has attempted through others persons to persuade Tuck to support the sales tax, but there has not yet been a confirmation from Byrd.

The role of Tuck in the sales tax issue is the direct opposite of the role taken by Maryland's Gov. William Preston Lane, jr., whose leadership helped strongly to push the sales tax into effect for Maryland. That State has a 2 per cent levy.

Washington would be affected by a sales tax in Virginia, since leaders here have long conceded that Congress could more easily be persuaded to enact a sales tax for the District if both bordering States had such a levy.

The latest Virginia plea for a sales tax came from the Virginia Association of School Trustees, meeting in Richmond.

The group petitioned Tuck to call a special session of the General Assembly "immediately" to consider the sales tax.

From the Governor's previous stands, it appears unlikely that the call would go out from his office for a special session.

The Virginia Education Association has not yet taken a stand on the sales tax issue. Wednesday, the Department of Superintendents, another affiliate of the VEA, said it would support any "reasonable plans" which might be advanced for the financing of an adequate State school program.

In yesterday's session, the VEA adopted a program of action calling for a State-wide minimum salary of $2000.

It was estimated this would involve an annual cost of $10,000,000.

Robert Williams, executive secretary of the VEA, told the delegates the program, subject to changes by the General Assembly, would mean increases of $300 to $400 a teacher.

Minimums for this year range from $2400 in Dickenson County to $1300 in Middlesex County, with the median represented by Powhatan, Pulaski and Rockingham counties with minimums of $1750.

The VEA also indorsed a Federal income tax bill exempting teachers' retirement income from Federal income taxes up to the highest exemption allowed any other group.

It indorsed, too, the principle of Federal aid without Federal control for the support of elementary and secondary public schools that lack the ability to provide adequate schooling.

Wife's Dog in Bedroom Brings Divorce Action

San Fernando, Calif., Oct. 29 (AP). Dairy Farmer Ernest Kissling prefers to be kissed by his wife instead of their collie dog.

Mrs. Kissling is suing him for divorce. His lawyer said yesterday in Superior Court the couple might reconcile if the dog were kept from licking his face while he sleeps. Kissling said his wife kept the dog in their bedroom.

Superior Judge Elmer D. Doyle ordered the Kisslings to kiss and make up and restrained Mrs. Kissling from having the dog in the bedroom.

3 in Jail Break Given Terms; 2 at Large

Prison sentences totaling five years were imposed in Prince Georges County Circuit Court yesterday on three men who made a successful but short-lived break for freedom from the county jail June 27.

The three, who were accompanied by two prisoners still at large, all pleaded guilty to jailbreaking and theft of an automobile in which they made their escape. Two of them also entered guilty pleas to charges on which they were awaiting trial at the time of the break.

Heaviest sentence was handed Maurice Irving, 25, of 1214 Eastern ave. ne., who drew three years for housebreaking and six months for his part in the escape. Charlie McManus, 25, of Winston-Salem, N. C., was sentenced to six months for forgery and six months for escape, while Alfred Coleman, 19, of 1238 Delaware ave. sw., was given six months on the jailbreaking charge only. Coleman was serving a 60-day term for unauthorized use of an automobile at the time of the break, and was to have been released in three days.

Judge Charles Marbury suspended sentence generally on the auto theft charges for all three men.

The trio escaped from the jail along with Preston Wallace, jr., 19, of Hyattsville, Md., and John T. Ford, 25, of Chapel Oaks, Md., after overpowering Jailer William B. Richards. Fleeing in Richards' automobile, they were intercepted by county police at Bladensburg, where Ford and Wallace escaped in a nearby wooded area.

Ex-Officials Blamed for Bonds Delay

Delay by several county officials—and by the old Arlington School Board—was responsible for slowing up the sale of $1,776,000 in school bonds, it was charged yesterday.

The statement was made by Attorney Frank L. Ball, jr., in a letter to Barnard Joy, chairman of the present school board, which has recently been under fire for failing to sell the bonds earlier.

Ball, whose law firm was retained to handle legal matters pertaining to the bond sale, answered criticism of the new Fact Finding Council of Arlington.

The council has charged the board had "purchased no sites, nor presented any construction plans" involving the $1,776,000. The council also is opposing a proposed $4,750,000 school bond issue to be voted on Tuesday.

The $1,776,000 in bonds was voted by county residents on May 7, 1947.

First delay in their sale, Ball said, was caused by the then sheriff, Homer Bauserman, and the then Commonwealth's attorney, Lawrence Douglas, who failed to take certain legal steps necessary to the bond sale.

Both Bauserman and Douglas were then active members of the Greater Arlington Association which had opposed the bond issue at the polls.

Neither the present sheriff or Commonwealth's attorney was in office at the time, Ball emphasized.

Major delay, Ball said, came last December when the last school board filed suit challenging the right of the present board to take office January 1, 1948.

Although the suit was later dropped by Arlington Circuit Court, nothing could be done to sell the bond issue until the controversy was settled, Ball said. The suit has been appealed to the State Supreme Court.

He declared the bonds were recently marketed "at an unexpectedly low interest rate," and added that "not a single delay" in the sale was occasioned by "any member of the new school board."

Woman Gets $112,394 in Citizen Case

A court decree that Mrs. Jane Henley Zander, 34, is still an American citizen was worth $112,394 to her yesterday.

That was the order of Judge Alexander Holtzoff of District Court.

Mrs. Zander, who resides in New York City, sued the Alien Property Custodian for the $112,394 which it had taken on grounds that she lost her citizenship by marriage to a German, Dieter Zander, 33, in 1939. The money was trust property she received by inheritance.

She pointed out that when she married, she was on a tour of Europe that she took instead of going to college. She said she intended to return here and did so as soon as possible. Her husband, who has now taken out his first citizen papers in New York, was anti-Nazi, she stated.

Judge Holtzoff said the case was bound by American law under which Mrs. Zander retains her citizenship. He said this was not changed by the fact that Germany considered her to be a German by virtue of her marriage.

Trucker Strike Here Averted As Union Accepts Pay Offer

Acceptance by union membership of a 13 cents an hour wage increase has averted a strike which might have tied up virtually all Washington's trucking business.

Members of Local 639, AFL Teamsters Union, voted to accept the offer shortly before the midnight strike deadline Thursday.

The wage boost, retroactive to September 1, affects about 700 truck drivers, warehousemen and helpers. The union originally asked for a 20-cent increase and later scaled down its demands.

A week ago the union voted to strike unless members of the District Trucking Association and independent transfer companies offered 14 cents an hour. Union members, meeting at 525 New Jersey ave. nw., finally accepted the 13-cent offer.

Decisions Due Today in Trials Of 2 Policemen

The Police Trial Board is expected to announce today its decisions in trials yesterday of two policemen charged with neglect to patrol their beats properly. Tried were:

Pvt. Harry E. Burns, 42, attached to the Twelfth Precinct, charged with entering buildings not in the performance of duty, and failure to patrol his beat constantly on the night of October 12.

Pvt. Philip L. Thomas, 30, attached to the Ninth Precinct, charged with failure and neglect to constantly patrol his beat and to proceed directly on his assigned beat, and entering buildings not in performance of duty, on the night of October 19.

Burns, pleading guilty to both charges, said he was resting because he was tired.

Capt. Charles J. Sullivan told the board that Burns, who has been on the force six years and lives at 1437 Montana ave. ne., has a good record and is a hard worker.

Thomas, who pleaded innocent to all three charges, said he had been phoning his wife when he was seen in a hotel. Thomas said he was in that neighborhood because he had been checking on a recent antique shop burglary nearby. Thomas, on the force since December, 1945, lives at 2004 Maryland ave. ne.

'Dead End Kid' Is Arrested On Dope Count

Hollywood, Oct. 29 (AP).—Huntz Hall, 28, one of the original "Dead End Kids" of the movies, was arrested today on a dope charge along with his actor's agent, Ben Melzer, 34.

Officers said they caught Hall digging up four tobacco cans containing marijuana worth $200 from his back yard.

The two were booked on suspicion of violating the State's narcotics act.

Hall was on of the original members of the New York stage cast of "Dead End" and came to Hollywood to appear in the film version of the famous play.

Police picked up film star Robert Mitchum and three others on marijuana charges recently. Mitchum's trial will be next month.

Woman Leaps From Store's Eighth Floor

A woman employe of Woodward & Lothrop plunged to her death a few minutes before noon yesterday from an eighth-floor window of the downtown department store.

Her head and chest crushed, Mrs. Brownlee Neely Peake, 38, of 1000 Perry st. ne., was pronounced a suicide by Coroner A. Magruder McDanald.

Mrs. Peake pushed herself off the foot-wide window ledge as a fellow employe, Mrs. Catherine Hans, 509 3d st. se., seized her by the neck in an effort to save her. Her body crashed through an awning on the 11th st. side near G st. nw., and narrowly missed striking two men and a woman among dozens passing the spot in the busy hour.

Mrs. Peake's husband, Keith C. Peake, ladies' shoe salesman in the same store since 1942, said his wife had been going through the menopause and had not felt well for several months, according to police. She joined the store staff October 10 as a personal shopper, assisting customers in their purchases. She had been treated by the store nurse for a sore throat yesterday morning, but seemed in fairly good spirits, associates said.

Homicide Squad Detective Sergt. George Cook said Mrs. Peake was found sitting on the inside window sill of the women employes' rest room shortly before noon by another employe, Miss Lucille Smith, 601 9th st. ne. Miss Smith said she advised her to get off the sill, and Mrs. Peake did.

Another employe, Mrs. Sarah Pederson, 4203 Four Mile Run dr., said she also saw Mrs. Peake on the sill with her feet inside. It was probably a moment or two later when Mrs. Hans entered to see Mrs. Peake with her feet dangling outside the window. She called to her to get back, then reached out to grab her, but the woman slipped out of her grasp.

Man Narrowly Missed

Kenneth Eldridge, 21, of 1804 Lamont st. nw., was standing under the awning when the body crashed through it. An awning rod grazed his shoulder. Charles W. Richardson, 2015 15th st. nw., and Josephine Kirkland, 704 N. Wayne st., Arlington, pedestrians, also were narrowly missed as the body struck.

The body was taken to Casualty Hospital, then to the morgue. The store nurse broke the news to Mrs. Peake's husband and a 22-year-old daughter who also works in the store, and treated both for shock. Another daughter, Jean, 21, works in the accounting and bookkeeping division of the General Accounting Office, where Mrs. Peake worked in the auditing division from December, 1944, to February, 1946. Mrs. Peake was a native of Rock Hill, S. C., and first identification of her body was made from a South Carolina auto driver's license found in her blue cloth handbag, near where her body fell.

Porter Held for Grand Jury in Knife Slaying

Willie H. Thomas, 37, Pullman porter from Charlotte, N. C., yesterday was ordered held by a coroner's jury for action of the grand jury, in the fatal stabbing of Zedekich McCoy, 38, of 1404 C st. ne., last Monday night.

Stabbed five times after an argument over a crap game in the 100 block of S st. nw., Monday about 8:30 p. m., McCoy died Wednesday at Freedmen's Hospital. One witness said the fight developed over a dime that each principal "owned a nickel of."

The coroner's jury returned a verdict of justifiable homicide in the fatal shooting of Cleveland Gladden, 30, of 1126 10th st. nw., in a tavern at 1134 5th st. nw., Wednesday evening.

Cleared by the verdict was John O. Tyner, 36, of 621 Elliott st. ne., who testified he shot Gladden after Gladden threatened to kill him and approached with his hand in his pocket, as though he had a knife.

$500 in Office Stolen In Dinner Hour Absence

Allen B. Orrison, manager of the Acousticon Hearing Aid Co., 655 Munsey Building, reported to police that more than $500 in cash was taken from his office last night while he was out to dinner. Orrison said he left the office at about 6:15 p. m. and returned to audit his books shortly after 8:30, when he discovered the money missing.

Barrett's Reserves

Every request that Police Superintendent Barrett has made for more regular policemen has received the sympathetic support of this newspaper. We believe that more policemen in uniform is one antidote for a high crime rate, and the total personnel of the Washington department is still below the national average for large cities in proportion to population. Our support does not extend, however, to Major Barrett's present proposal to create a civilian police reserve for use in emergency. There is no demonstrated need for such an organization, and we can see some positive dangers in an army of half-trained deputies exerting police authority over other civilians.

After the initial chilly reception of the Barrett proposal, it is now being pushed on the contention that a reserve will be necessary to maintain order during the presidential inauguration. This seems to us a most tenuous justification. In all probability the inauguration will cause no more disturbance than have a number of other ceremonies which regular police have handled without great difficulty, such as the homecoming for General Eisenhower. Furthermore, at this late date it would not be possible to give police reservists more than a semblance of instruction before the inauguration.

If Major Barrett really feels that he needs additional men for such occasions, he can always call on neighboring cities for assistance—and what he will get will be trained police rather than a posse of armed civilians. If it is riots or subversive disturbances he is talking about, there is an existing legal entity, the National Guard, which could be pressed into service. In a really dire emergency, the President could call upon the Army to furnish men.

There is another disturbing aspect to Major Barrett's request. Police already seem to be engaged in activities that infringe on civil liberties beyond their mandate for law enforcement. There is an extensive "Red" squad, for instance, which on the occasions that it has been in evidence has seemed more interested in spying and collecting dossiers than in maintaining order. A current example of the abuse of authority was the indefensible arrest of a racially mixed gathering in a private apartment earlier this month. Altogether the police have enough to do in the way of indoctrinating their own forces in the rights of citizens without taking on additional duties.

Green Apple

The political apple that the Illinois Republican machine is asking voters to swallow turns out to be not only Green, but wormy as well. The worm is the indictment for "conspiracy" of Theodore C. Link, a reporter for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. The indictment is an ill-concealed reprisal for Mr. Link's two years of work in digging up evidence connecting Gov. Dwight H. Green and his henchmen with an extensive system of gambling payoffs. The State's attorney who pressed the indictment on the Peoria grand jury is none other than the same man who, himself, was indicted by a previous grand jury for malfeasance and attempted bribery as a result of Mr. Link's exposes. This could only happen in a State where public administration has sunk to the level of the underworld.

The same grand jury which took action against Mr. Link also reported that it could find no evidence of payoffs or protected gambling. For this it was denounced by such reputable agencies as the Peoria Association of Commerce and the Peoria Journal. The Peoria results are similar to those obtained in Springfield and Sangamon County. There, although the grand jury listed gamblers and law violators, it returned no indictments. In both cases the juries were directed by special representatives of Attorney General George F. Barrett, a close associate of Green. The Sangamon County prosecutor is under investigation for blocking a grand jury action on fraudulent nominating petitions in the case of Governor Green's choice for State treasurer. These events, and many more, have led the Post-Dispatch to term the State administration "a sinkhole of bribery and payoffs, of lugs and shakedowns, of kickbacks and padded payrolls."

The Green administration also has hanging over its head the fact that it has done utterly nothing to bring to trial the State employes whose negligence was in large part responsible for the Centralia mine disaster of March, 1947. The reluctance to take action is understandable, in light of what John Bartlow Martin described in his article in Harper's a year after the tragedy. He showed there how the State Department of Mines and Minerals had become infested with politicians whose principal activity seemed to be to exact campaign contributions from the coal operators.

We hope that this latest blatant evidence of corruption will not be lost on the voters as Governor Green and his machine counterpart on a higher level, Senator C. Wayland Brooks, seek reelection. The attempt at intimidation in Peoria is bound to fail because the Post-Dispatch is a large and courageous newspaper with resources at its command. One hesitates to think, however, of what the result might be if the machine had turned its ire against a smaller paper with similar courage. Freedom of the press is the only public check on the venality and corruption of politicians, and it is not surprising that the press is the first thing that politicians of this stripe seek to muzzle.

Atlantic Pact

The trouble with the problem of winning the peace is that the problem has been consistently underrated. It took our policymakers till February of 1947, when Britain informed the United States that it had to pull out of Greece, to realize that the entire fabric of Europe had been shot to pieces: spiritually, economically and politically. To be sure, the problem has been complicated by the unsleeping effort of the Russian Bear to gobble up the shattered fragments of the Old Continent. But there was a mental lag in appreciation of the dimensions of the reconstruction problem, anyway. To the task of winning the peace, since we realized what was entailed, this country has mobilized, first the Truman Doctrine, then the Marshall Plan, and, finally, the pledge of the military counterpart of the Marshall Plan called the Atlantic Defense Pact. Undersecretary Lovett says the spadework on a putative pact has been completed, and there seems little doubt that no such announcement would have been made if the plan, whatever it is, had been hatched without Republican cooperation. The question in our minds is whether the plan is equal to the problem out of which it arose.

This problem is not simply the need growing out of the Russian menace for shoring up the nations of western Europe with arms, but is primarily the assumption of American leadership in tying western Europe to this continent. National armaments would be the equivalent of a modern Maginot Line. Some of the more far-sighted statesmen in Europe say that the United States would be inviting another Operation Rathole, similar to the one in China, by providing individual countries with arms. They plead for a real general staff and a continental army under it. At present, however, there is no general staff in sight, only a military committee sitting in London—a system, or rather the lack of it, which even an amateur strategist will tell you is worse than useless. These realists go further. They say that even if it were possible to set up a European general staff, such a body would not be able either to unify or to direct, since the nations are still traditional and particularistic, and unable militarily to cohere. This is shown in the reaction on the continent of Europe to the appointment of General Montgomery as a paper sort of continental commander in chief. Montgomery is a hero in England—though even there we suspect he has been kicked upstairs—but nowhere else; and, indeed, is actively disliked by every nation in the wartime coalition. This is a fact, not an indictment. Western defense, if it is to jell, has to be based upon realities, and the reality is that no continental commander has enough prestige, either through his personality or through his own country, to integrate Western defense.

It would be an invitation to war in the present urgency to act on the belief that all that Europe needs is the military shot in the arm coming from a supply of arms on lend-lease. France is prostrate, talking of such things as a European parliamentary system as a way out of its own impotence, and Britain is overburdened. This is the stark reality confronting the negotiators of an Atlantic Defense Pact. In Europe the leaders realize that weakness leaning on weakness does not add up to strength, but to weakness. As for the United States, as General Eisenhower says, though not in this connection, you cannot cooperate with weakness. But you can galvanize it, share your strength with it, act as the deus ex machina, and that is the role that has been thrust upon this Nation, whether we like it or not. The time has gone for half-measures, and, if the nettle is not grasped, a disillusion will be risked, and our very security, let alone Europe's, endangered.

FTC Under Fire

Commissioner Lowell Mason of the Federal Trade Commission doesn't agree with some of the decisions handed down by his colleagues. That is his prerogative, provided his dissent is officially registered in a dignified and appropriate manner. But it is most unseemly for an active member of any Government agency to wander about the country ridiculing the views of his colleagues and openly inviting revolt from their orders.

Mr. Mason may be warranted in claiming that the recent FTC basing point and delivered price decisions are snarling up distribution. Certainly his assertion that a "whole nation of businessmen" is violating the FTC's edicts is likely to be realized if the businessmen in his audiences share his opinion of the FTC's futility and general muddleheadness. But right or wrong, his conduct is inexcusable. If any member of the Supreme Court of the United States were to range the country expressing open contempt for the judicial opinions of justices with whose views he did not agree, people would be shocked. To be sure, vituperative personal exchanges have at times brought some of the justices into disrepute, but at least the justices have never tried to discredit the institutional importance of the Court or deny the necessity of public conformity with majority decisions.

In the opinion of The Washington Post, similar restraints should be expected, indeed demanded, of the members of other Federal agencies having quasijudicial functions. If the findings of such agencies repeatedly run counter to the convictions of any member of such bodies, if he feels that the majority members are doing the country a disservice, he should resign and direct his fire from without instead of using his official position to gain a hearing for dissident and critical views.

Bradley's Unity

With his usual gift for phrasemaking, Gen. Omar N. Bradley carried off the honors in the rash of speeches commemorating Navy Day. The Army Chief of Staff did not dwell on how many supercarriers the Navy should have or whether the Air Force concepts of mass bombing are justified. Instead, with his peculiar ability to enunciate the positive side, he talked about the peace and how unification of the armed forces relates to it. Genuine unification of the armed forces has a vital relationship to America's military strength, for this is bound to be weakened by "fratricidal contests among the services themselves." Service to the Nation, he asserts, must come before "the old school tie." If the services are to retain the confidence of the taxpayer, then they must end their dog-eat-dog contests for his dollar. If the services are compelled to bid against each other for funds, then "their strategic missions may be haphazardly juggled, carelessly slashed, even ignored in appropriations."

This is not to say that some progress has been made, and General Bradley argues that unification has accomplished a great deal, specifically in the combined budget to be presented this year. It has, he says, "produced a more comprehensive, combined and workable plan for the Nation's defense, a better plan than has ever existed before an emergency." In other words, despite the periodic quarrels that still break out in public, a great many examples can be cited to show how a real unity of concept is gaining a hold at working levels. Indeed, there is reason to believe that some of the much-paraded disagreements in policy are distorted out of all proportion by the amount of publicity given them. They then become political rather than defense issues, involving the rabid partisanship of political debate. Probably there will always be differences of opinion within the armed forces as to the right division of missions. This is healthful; enforced unanimity here would be dangerous. But these differences should be appraised for what they are, which is to say as conflicts of method rather than of purpose, to be ironed out within the defense establishment itself rather than in the halls of Congress.

Women's Education

The widely and often hotly disputed question as to whether colleges are educating women in "slavish imitation" of men has now gone to a competent jury—those women who have tested their education against life. The American Association of University Women is taking a referendum on the issue among its approximately 100,000 members, all graduates of accredited colleges. These women are being asked in a questionnaire what they think of their college experience in the light of their subsequent careers as homemakers or business or professional women, and what changes they would suggest.

The results of this should have special interest, in view of the criticism of present day education for women from men educators and social scientists. These critics maintain that since colleges began to open their doors to women a little over a century ago, the ambition of women has been to prove they have the same aptitudes as men, though they are innately different from men and have different roles in life. This intellectual imitation of men, with the neglect entailed of women's special role in family life and human relations, is held by these critics to be largely responsible for modern woman's discontent. Other educators deny this and charge that these "neo-anti-feminists" are trying to sidetrack women into a feminine pattern of education that might shut them off from the great cultural heritage of mankind. They ask why men as well as women should not be educated for a better human role in society.

The grassroots study undertaken by the A. A. U. W. is at least a democratic approach to the problem. It should contribute a fresh slant for the many commissions and committees now seeking in board rooms and laboratories to find out how a human being can be better prepared, in the language of the Harvard Report, to become experts "in some particular vocation or art and in the general art of the free citizen."

PHOENIX

Out of the shambles and the mire,
Out of the hatred and desire
Arises sacrificial fire

Fed by the peoples who were proud,
Who wear their conquest as a shroud,
And hide their shame behind a cloud

Of silence. Only distant smoke
Speaks of the pity they evoke
From trembling lips, with words that choke.

For evil often is God's test,
To burn the dross and leave the best
Of what is fine and holiest

Until the purifying flame
Burns out the evil and the shame
And gives the people back their name.

Atom-Powered Planes

The October 25 column by the Alsops titled "The Radioactive Defense" carried a statement that "the Atomic Energy Commission's Chairman David Lilienthal has already announced that planes powered by atomic energy are now known to be practicable." The authors were misinformed, for no such statement has been made by the chairman or any other member of the commission or officer of the commission's staff.

Arlington Schools

A very important aspect of the election in Arlington this coming Tuesday is whether to shift the biennial school board election from the general election in November to a separate date in May. Such a shift would appear exceedingly unwise, under Arlington circumstances.

Special elections always attract fewer voters. School are too important to entrust to a handful of voters. Thousands of Federal workers and others are employed outside of Arlington. They would often find it inconvenient and impractical to vote in a one-item, special election

A small vote would give professional politicians a better chance to control the outcome. A small vote is generally an ultraconservative vote.

As long as the county board retains veto power over the school board's recommended budget, nothing would be gained by moving the school election without also moving the county board election. People are more conscious of school needs in November, when overflowing classrooms, teacher shortages, and so forth are fresh memories.

Arlington's school board elections are nonpartisan now, since Virginia law already provides that no party designation appear on the ballot. Undesirable party influences and pressures can be eliminated only through self-restraint on the part of the political leaders themselves.

Educational literature affords fully as many arguments supporting the desirability of having good attendance at school elections, as it does favoring separate elections.

Why spend thousands of dollars of the taxpayers' money on a separate election when Arlington has so many important needs?

These are the reasons why the Citizens Committee for School Improvement, the Better Government League, the Arlington Civic Federation and numerous Parent-Teacher Associations and local citizen groups favor retaining Arlington's school board election in November.

OSCAR R. LEBEAU,
First chairman and organizer of the Citizens Committee for School Improvement.

District Sales Tax

It is unfortunate that The Washington Post, always considered a friend of the District, should join those who would foist the unfair nuisance sales tax on the voteless, therefore defenseless, colonials. I allude to your October 23 editorial on "That Needed Sales Tax."

It is not needed, if Congress pays its just share of the expenses of its own home and creation, which is the District of Columbia.

Until the First World War the Government paid an average of 41 per cent of the expenses of its Capital as a fair proportion, but now that the two wars have increased its population, and its resulting expenditures, the Congress proposes to throw a pittance of 10 per cent into the kitty. The Board of Trade by advocating the unjust sales tax is doing a disservice to those least able to pay, as well as to its own business members.

Senator Johnston of South Carolina, who is convinced of the injustice of the sales tax, proposes that the Federal Government pay 25 per cent of District expenditure, but even he is under the mark; the District should have at least the 41 per cent average paid by the Federal Government before the wars—50 per cent would be fairer.

Senate Control

Walter Lippmann's fantastic suggestion in his column of October 24 that several Democratic Senators let the Republicans control the Senate, even though the Democrats gain a majority of the seats, is an insult to the members of the Senate.

Because the Republicans may not be able, in free elections, to win a simple majority of the Senate seats, Mr. Lippmann wants the Democratic Senators to betray the voters who elected them by letting the Republican minority organize the Senate. This looks like a desperate last-minute brainstorm by Mr. Lippmann to give the country "Dewey unity" even if the voters do not want it. It is certainly subversive of the spirit of our form of government.

Depression Blame

Why can't someone tell the truth about the "Hoover Depression"? It was a world-wide depression, as everyone should know, an aftermath of the war and first set off by a failure of a bank in Austria.

The depth of the depression was in June, 1932, and we would have normally emerged from it gradually, as every other country did, in a few years. But this country alone, in spite of the billions spent by the New Deal Administration, was still in depression as late as 1939 and 1940 with millions still unemployed. It was the tremendous spending for lend-lease and the war which finally pulled us out of the Roosevelt depression and left our country prosperous but with an almost unsurmountable debt on our hands.

We hear distortions of this depression from Mr. Truman over and over again and the public should realize the truth.

Adams' Prophecy

Henry Adams was the grandson of President John Quincy Adams. His studies of contemporary history, not only of America but of the whole of Europe and Asia, make him an authority. He wrote an enormous quantity of history and some of it while he lived right down here on H and 16th sts. in Washington.

Fifty years ago, when the first rumblings of the Boer War had already been heard, Henry Adams wrote:

"The Indian Ocean will become a British sea. Russia will take the north of Asia; England the south. Germany must merge in Russia. So we can see a new centralization of which Russia is one pole and we the other, with England between. The Anglo-American alliance is almost inevitable."

So Churchill only followed the footsteps of fate and Germany may now be in the throes of the last battle against the inevitable.

DP Discrimination Denied

From time to time The Washington Post has quoted both Governor Dewey and President Truman as saying that the recent displaced persons bill passed by Congress discriminated against Catholics and Jews.

The first shipload of displaced persons will soon arrive in the United States, and according to an October 28 news story in The Washington Post headlined "Gossett Doubts That All DPs Can Meet Entry Requirement," this first shipload includes 491 Roman and Greek Catholics, 161 Jews, 75 Russian and Greek Orthodox Church members and eight Protestants. The religious preference of 18 was not stated.

I think the correct figure for Protestants is 68 instead of 8, but even so it may be seen that in this first shipload at least the great majority of the displaced persons are Catholics and Jews. The percentages run as follows: Roman and Greek Catholics 60 per cent; Jews, 20 per cent; Russian and Greek Orthodox Church, 9 per cent; Protestants, 8½ per cent; others, 2 per cent.

The Immigration Act of 1924 established the immigration policy of the United States as one that would keep the composition of the American population as it was in 1920 or as it is now. At the present time about 20 per cent of the American people are of Roman Catholic faith, and while statistics do not distinguish between Roman and Greek Catholics in the first shipload of displaced persons, it is evident that the Catholics are not discriminated against. In fact, notwithstanding statements by Governor Dewey and President Truman, Senate reports prove that Catholics do not claim that they are discriminated against.

Jewish organization have claimed that the Displaced Persons Act does discriminate against Jews. Yet in this first shipload of displaced persons Jews constitute 20 per cent of the total, but persons of Jewish faith in the United States constitute only about 5 per cent of our total population.

GUY IRVING BURCH.
Washington.

In his talk at Wilkes-Barre, the President was quoted by one wire service to the effect that the Displaced Persons Act passed by the Republican Congress "excludes all displaced persons who belong to the Jewish faith and . . . an unfair proportion of those belonging to the Catholic faith." Another wire service quoted the President as saying the act excludes "nearly all" displaced persons of the Jewish faith.

It doesn't seem to make any difference to Democratic politicians that Catholic leaders have denied the Displaced Persons Act discriminates against people of their faith. The charges continue because of their obvious propaganda value. But anyone who has read the recent stories about the first shipload of displaced persons to arrive in the United States knows how false the whole charge of discrimination is.

Sex At The Ballot Box

By Malvina Lindsay

Feminine Enigma

WHAT PART women voters, who constitute more than half of the electorate, will play at the polls Tuesday—or whether indeed they will play any distinctly feminine part at all—is still a puzzle to political soothsayers.

All political parties have as usual indorsed women enthusiastically and are claiming their mass support. Governor Dewey has appealed to them on the basis of his record in appointing members of their sex to office in New York State. He has also promised them good housekeeping in Washington with plenty of thrift and tidiness.

President Truman has appealed to housewives on the high cost of living issues, blaming the Eightieth Congress for their budget troubles. He has emphasized housing and social security as issues that would interest them. The Wallace party has made women prominent in its upper council, and it claims the highest percentage of active feminine followers. All candidates before feminine audiences have naturally emphasized peace and prosperity.

What results will come of all this will not be known officially because records of those casting ballots are not kept by sex. The whole question of the size of the women's vote and its nature must be left to the opinion pollsters.

ACCORDING to these, women are not likely to run the show by weight of numbers at the polls Tuesday. Studies of the National Opinion Research Center based on the last two presidential elections show that only 61 out of every 100 women eligible to vote do so, while 75 out of every 100 eligible men cast their ballots.

This year there may be even more apathy among the rank and file of women. The presidential campaign has not aroused enthusiasm. There is no issue to move women as Woodrow Wilson's "he kept us out of war" did the newly enfranchised California women in 1916, or as Herbert Hoover's prohibition stand and impeccable respectability did women generally in 1928, or as Franklin Roosevelt's showmanlike personality did in 1932—and later

What is more, some party workers report that many women are too overworked in the home to be interested in politics. Rural and suburban housewives especially find that their kitchen work, their sewing, their canning, their gardening and their other efforts to combat the high cost of living have put them back into relatively primitive domesticity. The scarcity of help both in the city home and on the farm contributes to this. In cities many housewives are working outside the home, thus carrying on double jobs. And many young mothers are kept close to home with small children.

HOWEVER, among women who have any leisure, especially those experienced in politics and in organization work, there is probably more political interest than ever before. Women Democratic leaders have generally been more aggressive than the men of their party—more hopeful and less defeatist, as was evidenced at the national convention. They have been going after the vote of their sex in a grass roots, or rather a city sidewalk, manner, by means of fashion shows, disk jockey radio programs and baby-sitting services. Republican women likewise have been busy, using the more conservative mediums of institutes and teas.

Both women's political and nonpolitical groups have been mixing into legislative contests in behalf of special issues or good government generally. Women are credited with having played a large part in the defeat of the Ed Crump machine in the Tennessee primary. The Women's Action Committee for Lasting Peace has been actively quizzing congressional candidates on five questions of foreign policy.

Studies show that with women, as with men, voting and political activity increases with the rise in the economic and educational scale. But no outstanding trend in feminine voting has been observed. Some studies indicate a slight tendency of women to vote more liberally than men on social issues and to be more internationally minded. This might be explained by the educational influence of women's church and club groups.

It would be surprising if in Tuesday's election women's vote differed materially from men on the presidential electors. But women's influence will undoubtedly influence results in some legislative contests in which social and international issues are involved.

States' Rightists

Can you believe that a thing like this is happening in these United States of America, that a vast number of Americans, in those States where short-sighted States' Rightists are preventing the Truman-Barkley names from appearing on the ballot, will have their constitutional right to vote for their choice for President snatched from them, on the impulse of a moment? States' Rightists? State Despotists!

What redress is there for these wronged people under constitutional law?

Washington Calling

By Marquis Childs

The Republicans And Public Power

AN EXCHANGE of letters was made public here the other day that will serve as postscript to the presidential campaign now ending. It underscores the accusation that the Republicans have used thousands upon thousands of words to say nothing. Seldom, to paraphrase Winston Churchill, has so little been said about so much.

Childs

In September, as he was starting out on his campaign swing around the country, Gov. Earl Warren of California wrote to Secretary of the Interior Julius Krug. He said he was writing in accord with a resolution adopted by the Senate of the State of California calling for a report on why a power plant had not been built by the Federal Government in California's Central Valley.

The resolution sought information on a particular standby generating plant that had been projected by the Bureau of Reclamation to cover emergencies. For nearly a year California has been suffering the most acute power shortage in its history, necessitating the most drastic economies to keep essential services going.

Warren's letter gave Krug a perfect opening. He replied in considerable detail, supplemented by a memorandum from Reclamation Commissioner Michael Strauss, that the bureau had asked for funds for such a plant and had been turned down by the Eightieth Congress.

STUDIES made by reclamation engineers had shown that periods of drought could be expected in the Central Valley. At such times the demand for power would be particularly heavy since farmers in the valley would have to use extra power to pump water from deep wells.

All this was carefully explained to congressional committees not once but at least a half dozen times. For the current fiscal year the bureau asked $200,000 to prepare plans and specifications for a steam plant, but each time the bureau asked for funds powerful opponents appeared to stop the plan. They were the representatives of the Pacific Gas & Electric Co., which has long exercised great political influence on the West Coast.

"During 1946," Krug said in his letter to Warren, "Mr. James B. Black, president of the Pacific Gas & Electric Co., testified that there is no power shortage, there has been none, and there will be none in the future. Everyone knows what happened in the early part of 1948 when the Central Valley experienced one of the most acute power shortages in its history and in the Nation. Certain industrial plants, chemical plants in particular, had to curtail or stop production, irrigation pumping had to be curtailed at the very time when additional water was required from subsurface sources, and many other activities were curtailed or affected."

THESE FACTS were, of course, perfectly well known to Warren. In calling on Krug for information he was merely going through the form required by the action of the California Senate.

Warren's knowledge goes far beyond the earnest sentiments he uttered in the course of his friendly campaign visit to 32 States. He himself is a firm believer in the public development of Western resources. But he is aware of the forces seeking to prevent that development or to channel it in a limited way to serve private interests.

This was probably behind Warren's recent statement putting his running mate, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, on the record behind multipurpose power projects and the construction of public transmission lines to carry publicly generated power. Warren said that Dewey had expressed to him personally these views.

The GOP presidential candidate has been considerably less specific during the campaign. He came closest to defining his position on public power during a press conference when his campaign train was moving into the West. He said then that he was for the "postage stamp plan," whereby power is carried over public transmission lines for any distance, long or short, for the same charge.

It is good to have Warren, and through him Dewey, on the record so specifically on this issue that is vital not merely to the West but to the whole Nation. In the past Warren has shown that he believes in living up to his pledges.

There are still, however, many unanswered questions. Fine talk about public power means nothing unless the consumer actually gets the benefits. Warren may have to fight to make good on his pledge. It will be a major test of his role in Washington.

Off The Record

Md. Opens Tax Crackdown on U. S. Employes

Maryland tax officials have opened a drive on tax delinquents among an estimated 50,000 Federal workers who are subject to the Maryland income tax either because of residence or employment in the State.

Some records of tax delinquents have already been submitted to the State attorney general with a request that indictments be returned. Maximum penalty for willful evasion is a $500 fine, six months in jail, or both.

To facilitate discovery of tax dodgers, State officials have obtained from the Federal Government lists of Federal employes who live in Maryland.

The State comptroller's office has established a branch agency at 1319 F st. nw., where two agents are busily at work, ferreting out delinquents. They also are available to aid taxpayers making out returns.

The comptroller's office intends not only to prosecute willful violators, a spokesman said, but also to inform, through publicity, taxpayers who are innocently unaware they are subject to the Maryland tax;

Subject to the tax, the spokesman pointed out, are Federal employes employed in Maryland even though they live in the District or Virginia; persons employed in the District or Virginia but living in Maryland, and newcomers to Maryland who were in residence December 31, the last day of the taxable year.

Duplication of taxation is averted by a reciprocal agreement under which levies paid to other States can be deducted from the total amount due Maryland.

The drive against Federal employes suspected as Maryland tax delinquents is the latest phase of a State-wide effort to ferret out tax dodgers.

Board Claims Jurisdiction

3d, chairman of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, declaring the Park Service is wrong in claiming it controls the lands. Thompson and Mrs. Alice Hunter, Negro member, voted against the resolution.

The Grant view is that the National Capital Park and Planning Commission buys the recreation areas with money the District borrows from the Federal Government.

Title to the lands remains with the Federal Government but the lands are assigned to the District Commissioners who are agents of the Federal Government just as is the National Park Service. The Commissioners then turn over the lands to the Recreation Department for administration.

The Recreation Department is responsible only to the Commissioners on use to which the land is put, according to the Grant view.

Warren Urges Voters to Forget Partisanship

San Francisco, Oct. 29 (AP).—Gov. Earl Warren called upon the Nation's voters tonight to disregard partisanship in the coming election in the interest of "What is good for America."

The GOP vice presidential candidate came to San Francisco in the windup to his northern California campaign.

While extolling nonpartisanship, Warren took some final licks at the Democratic Administration.

"The great question of this campaign is one of leadership," he told a crowd filling about two thirds of the 900-seat Civic Auditorium. The speech was carried over a national radio network.

The present Administration cannot meet that question, he declared.

"The people will get rid of it, not because they blame it for all our troubles, but because they do not believe in its ability to solve them," he asserted.

Gold Hoard of U. S. Near 24-Billion Mark

The Government's mounting gold pile appeared on the verge of topping the 24-billion-dollar mark yesterday after rising about $1,700,000,000 the last 12 months.

The most recent report, for Tuesday, showed $23,996,169,474.59.

Never before has any nation ever had so much gold. The United States hoard represents over three fifths of the world's known supply.

Pipeline Firm Granted Right to Raise Capacity

A Federal Power Commission trial examiner yesterday authorized Texas Eastern Transmission Corp., owners of the Big & Little Inch pipelines, to build additional facilities to increase daily delivery capacity of 75 million cubic feet.

Examiner Emery J. Woodall said, however, that Texas Eastern should be required to deliver the additional gas to companies in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Oklahoma, Indiana, New York and Texas instead of three companies of the consolidated gas system.

Truman's Campaign

By Mark Sullivan

Have The Slurs Helped Him?

FOR PRESIDENT Truman as he balances the books next Monday, the question is, has he by his campaign improved his chances for election?

That his prospect was bad at the beginning was a glaring fact. Preceding his nomination at the Democratic National Convention last July, leader after leader of his party declared publicly that he ought not to be nominated and gave as the reason that he could not be elected. An important segment of his following, Americans for Democratic Action, issued a formal statement saying, "There is so little public enthusiasm for the Truman Administration that the Democratic Party would face a very difficult uphill fight if he were nominated." Old-guard Democratic Leader Frank Hague of Jersey City put it even more broadly and starkly: "Every leader I conferred with has informed me that if President Truman is the candidate it means a landslide on the Republican side."

Sullivan

TO FIND a President seeking nomination for another term with so much opposition within his party, it would be necessary to go back to Republican President Taft in 1912. Taft got the nomination he sought, as any President in office can, and so did Mr. Truman. But the Taft nomination resulted in a formidable party split, with a new party setup under the leadership of Theodore Roosevelt, and Taft was overwhelmingly beaten.

The present split-offs from the Democratic Party—the States' Rights "Dixiecrats" Party, with Governor Thurmond of South Carolina as its candidate for President, and the Henry A. Wallace Progressive Party—are less formidable than the defection of Theodore Roosevelt and the old Progressive Party in 1912. But the present split-offs are almost enough of themselves to defeat Mr. Truman.

Probably it was the opposition to his nomination, coupled with desperation about his chance of election, upon which the opposition was based, that has caused the extraordinary color Mr. Truman's campaign speeches have had. To those who have known Mr. Truman in the past, irritation did not seem one of his traits. But irritation, resentment, anger, have been the prevailing spirit of his campaign speeches.

Along with this emotion, and perhaps caused by it, have gone qualities of his campaign speeches which give justification to a summary in the New York Herald Tribune: "The President has seemed ready to make any bid, no matter how extreme or desperate, which may win him mass support." Worse than Mr. Truman's appeals for votes for himself was "a sinister use of suggestion and innuendo" to foment ill-feeling against his opponents.

MUCH OF IT was so trivial or far-fetched as to be grotesque. To take advantage of the rhyme of "Dewey" with "hooey" was hardly lofty in the present state of the world. In his Cleveland speech he used a pun that was not only doubtful humor but doubtful fact. Speaking of polls that show an overwhelming Republican trend, Mr. Truman said: "These polls are like sleeping pills designed to lull the voters into sleeping on election day; you might call them sleeping polls."

Some of Mr. Truman's charges have been grotesque not only in themselves but in their contradictoriness. To imply in one speech that the Republican Party is Fascist, and in another that the Communists want Mr. Dewey to win, calls for more tergiversation of thought than most voters would be capable of or willing to be guilty of.

For that sort of thing Mr. Dewey had a comment. When a Republican Party worker in an Indiana town told Mr. Dewey that Mr. Truman had been there and had been "lambasting" him, Dewey grinned and said, "Well, nobody believes that stuff anyway." Mr. Dewey in his speeches was rarely harsh. Conspicuously he conducted his campaign in a spirit other than personal attack.

Especially did he not dig up the past. One who has read Mr. Dewey's speeches carefully cannot recall any direct allusion to the New Deal or Franklin Roosevelt specifically. The contrast between Mr. Dewey and Mr. Truman and their respective campaigns is suggested by Mr. Truman's mention of former President Hoover 14 times, each time jeeringly, in one speech.

Children's Book Tastes Vary

Children's tastes in books are just about as varied—and almost as unpredictable—as that of grownups, it appeared last night at a Children's Book Fair in the Cleveland Park Congregational Church, 3400 Lowell st. nw.

Four boys and four girls of the fourth and fifth grades of Hardy School named their favorite books and told why, in a roundtable discussion with Glenn O. Blough, author and specialist, United States Office of Education, as moderator, before an audience that half filled the church auditorium.

The pupils and their selections were Patricia Russell, "Little House in the Big Woods;" Richard Ruble, "Paddle to the Sea and Rookie of the Year;" Fritz Haas, "Buddy and His Cowboy Pal;" Anne Frances Byrne, "Clara Barton;" Suzanne Stephenson, "Young Fu;" Frank Gray, "Buttonwood Island;" Stoney Carter "Sue Barton, Senior Nurse," and Jim Monteith, "Burgess Bird Book for Children."

The book fair, sponsored by the Cleveland Park Community Library Committee, closed last night after running five days and evenings. More than 1000 books were purchased or ordered, plus nearly 500 copies of a pamphlet on the Indians of this area, "Lost Arrows" specially written for introduction at the fair with the aid of Smithsonian Institution archeologists. Proceeds will go toward equipping the Cleveland Park Memorial Library to be built on Connecticut ave. near Macomb st.

2 D. C. Police Go To Traffic Course At Northwestern

Two Metropolitan policemen are attending the traffic training course for police which began Monday at Northwestern University Traffic Institute in Evanston, Ill.

They are Corpl. Elmer E. Skinner, of the traffic division, and Sergt. Francis H. Dunn of the accident investigation unit.

The course, thirty-seventh of its kind conducted on the Northwestern campus, is being attended by representatives of 17 municipal police departments and one State highway patrol.

Negro Service In Revolution Is Praised

If all the Negroes in the patriot forces during the American Revolution had served at the same time, then one eighth to one sixth would have been Negro.

That is the conclusion of Dr. Lorenzo Johnston Greene, a Negro historian of Lincoln College, Mo., who spoke last night at the opening session of the thirty-third annual meeting of the Association for Study of Negro Life and History at Shiloh Baptist Church, 9th and R sts. nw.

Reporting on results of a study of 200 Negroes listed in Massachusetts muster rolls, Greene said that "a thorough perusal of the records" would undoubtedly force an upward revision of previous estimates of 3000 to 5000 Negroes in the Americand forces.

"It may even suggest the query as to whether independence could have been won without them," he said. "It may also result in the Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution assuming a complexion" more in harmony with the facts.

Dr. L. D. Reddick, librarian at Atlanta University, spoke on the Negro policy of the United States Army from the Revolution until today.

He said the Army has a "stereotyped conception" of Negroes that is "somewhat contradictory"—"that he is fearful, unreliable and lacking in the manly virtues of a fighting man," and that "handling firearms and engaging in battle gives Negroes training and confidence to achieve equality by force if necessary."

The three-day meeting will conclude Sunday.

De Forest Gets Patent On Color Television

By The Associated Press

Lee De Forest, the so-called "father of radio," has been granted a patent on a new color television system, the Patent Office disclosed.

The patent granted De Forest involves the use of a movable filter which is activated electronically and provides color television through the cathode tube of a television set.

De Forest, now a resident of Los Angeles, Calif., holds more than 300 patents on radio, talking picture, facsimile and television devices. He is recognized as a pioneer in radio development in the United States and has long been associated with television development.

Five Canadian Ships Join U. S. Exercises

Pearl Harbor, Oct. 29 (AP).—Five ships of the Royal Canadian Navy are holding joint training exercises with United States Naval and Air Forces in the Hawaii area.

Hawaii Sea Frontier Headquarters said today defense against submarine, torpedo and air attacks, bombardment firing, evasion tactics and control of air strikes were included in the exercises.

The Canadian ships are the 9000-ton cruiser Ontario, the destroyers Cayuga, Athakashan and Crescent and the frigate Antigonish.

Mezzanotte Plays Violin Excitingly

By Paul Hume

Matthew Mezzanotte, young American violinist, did some brilliant playing last night in Constitution Hall.

Mezzanotte possesses true attributes of virtuosity in a technique which is sure and flashing. His tone is large, and rich, perhaps even too rich. His style is filled with a passionate driving flair that leads to moments of tremendous excitement.

Exhuming Benjamin Godard's Concerto Romantique, Mezzanotte found a suitable vahicle for his tremendous energy. The opening moment is a powerful thing, capable of as many thrills as the better known display pieces of Glazounoff, Vieuxtemps, and Wieniawski. If the saccharine canzonetta and the vapid finale were equal to the first movement, we would no doubt hear the concerto more often.

A far worthier score opened the concert: Giuseppe Tartini's concerto in D Minor. Here Mezzanotte drove his tone a bit hard, but hewed commendably to the line of long, flowing classicism. It was the best music in the evening. The legato measures of the concerto could become more ingratiating were they sung with greater flow and less insistence upon lush tone.

Our chief request of the talented violinist is that he play pianissimo for one entire year. That, and a strict adherence to rhythmic values of every note in rapid passages, would do much to improve his whole approach to the art of the violin.

Second, he should dip way down into the real treasure of violin literature. He has little to fear from most of his contemporaries except that they will play better music than he does at present. Genre pieces of Erich Korngold, and Aram Khatchaturian do nothing to increase artistic stature.

Music is an art, not a display room. Mezzanotte has more technique and more burning incandescence in his fingers than many string players. Now his mind must be asked to equal these gifts to round out the artist. When the man becomes a real artist, he will be a great figure.

Frederick Fall provided support in approximation of full orchestra for the concertos and keenly balanced playing in lesser pages.

Chicagoan Says He Lost $181 in Pants Pressing

A Chicago businessman who merely wanted his pants pressed told police yesterday he got a $181 cleaning job in the bargain.

Daniel R. Goodman, 51, attending a meeting of burlap bag dealers at the Statler Hotel, reported he left his trousers marked "press only" in the servidor of his hotel room Thursday night. When they were returned, he said, there was missing $181 that he had inadvertently left in the pockets.

Sue States Taking Tidelands Oil, Truman Is Urged

Senator Langer (R., N. Dak.), yesterday asked President Truman to sue States where oil is taken from tidelands.

He urged it in a letter to the President, saying the Supreme Court has ruled that the Federal Government has prior rights to such oil.

Langer said the actual suit-filing should be done by the Attorney General, since he "is just about the only official in the United States who could successfully initiate and prosecute to a final conclusion such an action without facing insurmountable impediments, Long delays, and untold expense."

He complimented Mr. Truman for "a remarkably splendid record in protecting all the people from these oil grabs."

Police Seize Man Approaching Truman

New York, Oct. 29 (AP).—A man carrying a tightly rolled paper was seized tonight as he tried to shove past a police barrier toward President Truman, and police later quoted him as saying he merely wanted to get the President's autograph.

Budapest, Hungary, Oct. 29 (AP).—A mass trial of 73 officials of the Agricultural Ministry ended today, with three being sentenced to life imprisonment on charges of plotting to "overthrow the republic."

Truman Reaffirms U. S. Support on Turk Anniversary

President Truman yesterday reaffirmed this country's support of Turkey's "political independence and territorial integrity."

In a message to President Inonu on the twenty-fifth birthday of the Turkish Republic, Mr. Truman said the cooperative way in which the United States and Turkish program is being carried out is a "most striking example of the ties" binding the two countries.

The President did not mention the "stop communism" objectives of the military and economic aid program to the Middle East guardian of the Dardanelles. But his message noted that Turkey's decision "to further safeguard human rights and liberties is being carried out at a time when these ideals . . . are being ruthlessly crushed and obliterated in many parts of the world."

State Department Stands Firm on 'Red Dean's' Visa

The State Department yesterday refused to withdraw the entry visa it granttd recently to the Rev. Hewlett Johnson, the "Red Dean" of Canterbury who is coming here shortly for a lecture tour.

The Department made it plain that the dean's permit will not be canceled despite protests from the American-Jewish League Against Communism that he should be barred as an "alien subversive."

Department Press Spokesman Michael J. McDermott said the decision has been made and would not be changed.

While the American-Jewish League has opposed Dr. Johnson's visit, he added, the State Department has reieived "many letters" frpm other groups and individuals urging that the visa be granted. McDermott said many of the letters were from distinguished church leaders.

The new headquarters of the General Commission on Chaplains, 122 Maryland ave. ne., will be dedicated at ceremonies next Wednesday at noon.

At the dedication, Secretary of National Defense James V. Forrestal will unveil a plaque in memory of 134 Protestant chaplains who died in World Wars I and II.

Dedication of the new headquarters will take place during the semiannual meeting of the General Commission. Formed in 1917, the commission represents 49 denominations and acts as a clearing house for their dealings with the chaplain corps of the Army, Navy and Veterans Administration.

The building, a memorial to chaplains who died in service, was at one time the home of the late Senator and Mrs. Hiram Johnson of California.

The $125,000 headquarters has been completely renovated during the past year. In addition to commission offices, it contains a memorial chapel, conference rooms, guest rooms and a comfortable lounge.

Editorial offices of the Chaplain and the Link, official monthly publications, also are in the building. The Rev. Delmar L. Dyreson is editor of both magazines.

Dr. Joseph C. Hazen, chairman of the General Commission, will preside over the semiannual meeting which precedes the dedication and members will hear a report from Commission Director Thomas A. Rymer.

Dr. H. B. Miner Will Speak at Trinity Church

Dr. Harry B. Miner, Congregational minister from Hartford, Conn., will speak at Reformation Day services at Trinity Methodist Church, 5th st. and Seward sq. se., at 11 a. m. Sunday.

He will speak on "The Bible and Life." A native of England, where he was graduated from Woodbrooke College, Birmingham, Dr. Miner came to this country in 1928. Three years later he received a bachelor of divinity degree from Hartford Theological Seminary.

While studying at the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, he was pastor of the Congregational Church at Motherwell, Scotland. Later he was minister of the Congregational Church, Redhill, England. During the war he served for four years as a chaplain in the Royal Air Force.

Dr. Miner was for one year associate minister of the Center Congregational Church, Hartford, Conn., and is now associate minister of the Fourth Congregational Church and professor of psychology and philology at Hillyer Junior College, Hartford.

Ground-Breaking Set for Sunday

Ground for a larger church will be broken by members of Resurrection Lutheran Church, 6200 Washington blvd., Arlington, at 4 p. m. Sunday, the Rev. Dana H. Johnson has announced.

In the past seven years membership has grown from 38 to 434, he said. Mrs. V. L. Norman, a charter member of the congregation, will turn the first spadeful of dirt. Her mother, the late Mrs. A. H. Wheeler, broke ground for the present structure in 1941.

Service to Celebrate MacBryde's Anniversary

The anniversary of the rectorship of the Rev. Meade Bolton MacBryde will be celebrated with a special service at Grace Episcopal Church, 9th and D sts. sw., at 11 a. m. Sunday. The Rev. H. H. Clements will preach the sermon.

Diocesan Assembly

The November diocesan assembly, Daughters of the King, will be held Thursday at 8 p. m. at All Saints' Episcopal Church, Chevy Chase Circle.

Dr. Mackay To Speak at Faith Festival

Mackay

Speaker at the interdenominational meeting will be the Rev. Dr. John A. Mackay, president of Princeton Theological Seminary, Princeton, N. J. His theme will be "Our Faith and Our Time."

Reformation Day marks the 431st anniversary of Martin Luther's nailing the 95 theses on the door of Wittenberg Cathedral on October 31, 1517.

Sponsored here by the Washington Federation of Churches, the mass meeting is under the general chairmanship of Dr. Edward L. R. Elson, pastor of National Presbyterian Church, Connecticut ave. and N st. nw. Similar services are being held by Protestants throughout the Nation, he said.

Dr. Mackay is president of the Presbyterian oBard of Foreign Missions and president of the International Missionary Council. At one time a missionary and teacher in South America, he is an expert on the church there.

During the first assembly of the World Council of Churches in Amsterdam this summer he was one of the main speakers and chairman of one of the four sections which organized the assembly.

He was named a member of the World Council Central Committee, governing body of the new international church organization.

Participating with Dr. Mackay in the rally at Constitution Hall will be the Rev. Dr. Carl R. Simon, pastor of Keller Memorial Lutheran Church and vice president of the Federation of Churches; Col. Campbell C. Johnson, also a vice president of the federation; Gen. Lewis B. Hershey; the Rev. Dr. Frederick E. Reissig, executive secretary of the federation, and Dr. Elson.

A colorful procession of more than 500 clergymen and young people will be led by the 125-voice National Lutheran Chorus. The choir, under the direction of R. E. Snesrud, will present a program of sacred music during the service.

To Probe Love Habits

Cambridge, England, Oct. 28 (AP).—Four Cambridge University anthropologists are going to spend a year in Buckhaven, Scotland, to find out how the Scots make love. Their interest, it was said, will be strictly academic.

Mass Meeting Is Highlight Of Missions Advance Program

Protestant churches will focus attention on their foreign missions advance program this week with a series of denominational meetings and an interdenominational mass meeting.

Highlight of the program will be a mass meeting at Calvary Baptist Church, 8th and H sts. nw., at 8 p. m. Thursday. Speakers at the rally will be Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam of the Methodist Church and Mrs. Paul Moser of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions.

Bishop Oxnam, one of the six presidents of the World Council of Churches, will speak on the application of Christian principles to world affairs.

Mrs. Moser also attended the first assembly of the World Council, and visited churches in Hungary and Czechoslovakia. In 1946 she was sent to study postwar conditions in the Philippines and Siam

The Washington meeting is one of 36 regional rallies being held in the United States from mid-October until mid-November under the leadership of the American Board of Foreign Missions. The board represents 108 Protestant denominations.

Representatives from the world mission field will speak at the rally at Calvary Church and will appear at denominational meetings.

Among them will be the Rev. Leonardo Dia of the Presbyterian Church, USA, in the Philippines; Miss Takiko Kawagiri of the United Lutheran Church in Japan, Chief Albert J. Luthuli, Christian Zulu layman and administrator of Natal, South Africa.

The Rev. E. Prakasam of Andhra Evangelical Lutheran Church, India, and the Rev. Charles Wang of China, who is now teaching at the Lutheran Theological Seminary, Gettysburg, Pa.

At least 13 Washington denominations have planned individual meetings on missions to coincide with the city-wide meeting.

The diocese-wide Episcopalian foreign mission meeting will be at Epiphany Church, 1317 G st. nw. at 8 p. m. Wednesday. It will feature singing on the church steps, a band, and a procession of massed choirs from 15 churches and speeches by Bishop Bravid W. Harris of Liberia and Dean Edward R. Welles of Buffalo, N. Y.

Methodists have planned two days of meetings with sessions to be held at Hamline Church, 16th and Allison sts. nw., on Thursday and Friday. Bishop Charles Wesley Flint of Washington will preside over the sessions.

Speakers will include Bishop Lewis O. Hartman of Brookline, Mass., Dr. Allen E. Claxton of the Board of Evangelism, Miss Mary Lou Barnwell of the Bureau of Deaconess Work, Board of Missions; Dr. Harry N. Holmes of Methodist Overseas Relief, Dr. Alva Roy Hutchinson of the Board of Missions, Dr. Frank T. Cartwright and Dr. Karl T. Quimby.

Meetings of the Southern Presbyterians will be on Thursday at the Church of the Pilgrims, 22d and P sts. nw. Dr. and Mrs. H. Kerr Taylor, former missionaries in China, will be the featured speakers.

On Friday, members of the Evangelical United Brethren Church will hear Bishop J. S. Stamm and Miss Leora Nagel of the Philippines, Dr. A. J. Faust of Nigeria, Dr. M. N. Berger and Wesley O. Clark at Memorial Evangelical United Brethren Church, 2 Adams st. nw.

Leading speaker at meetings of the Congregational Christian churches will be Miss Helen Kenyon, moderator of the general council of the denomination, who will speak at 8 p. m. Friday at First Congregational Church, 10th and G sts. nw.

Mrs. Moser

Oxnam

Other speakers scheduled for Thursday and Friday include the Rev. Raymond A. Dudley, American Board secretary for India; the Rev. Leonard Clough of Cambridge, Mass.; Dr. Frederick L. Brownlee of the American Missionary Association; the Rev. Ivan Catham of Puerto Rico, and the Rev. Ray Gibbons, director of the Council for Social Action.

New Jewish College To Open Thursday

The newly organized College of Jewish Studies of Washington will hold its first session of the year Thursday at 8 p. m.

At a ceremony in his study yesterday Rabbi Solomon H. Metz, spiritual leader of Adas Israel Congregation, 6th and I sts. nw., was presented with the charter of the new college. Rabbi Metz will serve as dean of the school.

Presentation of the charter was made by Isadore S. Turover, vice president of the National Association of Jewish Education and chairman of the board of governors of the college.

The college was organized to provide facilities for instruction in Jewish learning and to train individuals for service in Jewish educational, social and religious institutions.

It will offer a four-year course leading to the degree of chaver, or fellow, in Jewish studies. This is an ancient academic degree which dates back to the period of the Babylonian Jewish community.

Admission is open to all persons who have graduated from an accredited high school and are approved by the Board of Admissions. Members of all faiths may enroll in the courses, which will be held Monday and Thursday nights at 2129 F st. nw.

In accepting the charter, Rabbi Metz expressed the hope that the college will become a center of study and research and a force in the religious and cultural life of the Nation's Capital.

Four courses will be offered. These are: The Bible as Living Literature, the Jewish Child and His School, a Survey of Jewish History, and Great Books of Jewish Literature.

Joseph A. Wilner, president of Adas Israel Congregation for the past 21 years, has been named treasurer of the Board of Governors.

Members of the faculty are Rabbis Samuel H. Berkowitz, Hyman Ezra Cohen, Meyer Greenberg and Harry Silverstone. Rabbi Ephraim has been appointed registrar.

Jewish Studies College Chartered . . .

PRESENTATION—The charter of the newly organized College of Jewish Studies is presented to its dean by the chairman of the board of governors. The school will hold its first session Thursday at 8 p. m. at 2129 F st. nw. Participating in the ceremony are (from left) Joseph A. Wilner, treasurer of the board of governors of the school; Isadore S. Turover, vice president of the National Association of Jewish Education and chairman of the board of governors; Rabbi Solomon H. Metz, spiritual leader of Adas Israel Congregation and dean of the school, and Rabbi Hyman Ezra Cohen, member of the faculty of the school

Sunday CHURCH EVENTS

Dr. Charles B. Foelsch, pastor of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Holy Trinity, New York City, will speak at 11 a. m. at Luther Place Memorial Church, Thomas Circle. His sermon subject will be "Faith of the Founders." Dr. Foelsch was pastor of Luther Place Church during 1941 and 1942 and later served as president of the Chicago Lutheran Theological Seminary. Dr. L. Ralph Tabor, pastor of the church, will speak at 9:45 a. m. on "The Valiant One."

The first in a series of sermons on modern problems will be delivered by Dr. J. Warren Hastings at National City Christian Church, Thomas Circle, at 10:30 a. m. His topic will be "The High Cost of Doubt."

The Rev. A. Gabriel Hebert, visiting English lecturer at the Berkeley Divinity School, Yale University, will preach at 11 a. m. at the Washington Cathedral. Father Hebert is leader of the conference on "The Bible Within" at the College of Preachers at the cathedral. The 4 p. m. service will be entirely musical.

"Baptists and the Protestant Reformation" will be the subject of a Reformation Day sermon by Dr. Edward O. Clark at 11 a. m. at Chevy Chase Baptist Church, 5671 Western ave. nw.

The sacred cantata "The Holy City" will be presented at Marvin Memorial Methodist Church, Four Corners, Md., at 8 p. m. Sunday. The special evening service is being held in observance of All Souls Day, which falls on November 1.

The Rev. Dr. Carl Heath Kopf will return to his pulpit at First Congregational Church, 10th and G sts. nw., at 11 a. m. His sermon is entitled "Good and Bad Ghosts."

Young Peoples' Meeting to Hear Dr. Daniel Poling

The Rev. Dr. Daniel A. Poling, president of the World Christian Endeavor Union and editor of the Christian Herald, will speak at a meeting at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, 1301 New York ave. nw., at 8 p. m. Monday.

The meeting is the first in a series to be held throughout the country in a mobilization campaign of the Christian Endeavor, an interdenominational, international, interracial organization of young people.

Dr. Poling will speak on "Christian Endeavor's Message to a Divided World." The program will also include selections by the New York Avenue Choir.

Dr. Poling recently returned from a fact-finding tour of Germany. He also attended the first assembly of the World Council of Churches and a conference of Christian Endeavor leaders from Europe, Africa and India

Archbishop Will Install Nativity Pastor

The Right Rev. John J. Russell will be installed as pastor of the Church of the Nativity, 13th and Peabody sts. nw., at 11 a. m. Sunday.

The Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, Archbishop of Washington, will officiate at the installation service, and will preach the sermon.

Archbishop O'Boyle appointed Msgr. Russell, former pastor of St. Patrick's Church, to the new post last week. The Nativity parish is the largest in the archdiocese.

A native of Baltimore, Msgr. Russell was ordained in Rome in 1923 by his uncle, the late Bishop William R. Russell. He came to Washington in 1946 after serving at churches in Baltimore and Parkville, Md.

Msgr. Russell will be celebrant of the mass at 11 a. m. His brother, the Rev. W. Joyce Russell, pastor of St. Francis de Sales Church, Benedict, Md., will be deacon.

10,000 Here Will Observe Feast of King

Led by the Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, Archbishop of Washington, about 10,000 Catholic men and boys will join in a public celebration of the Feast of Christ Our King Sunday with a parade and religious service.

Members of the 68 parishes of Washington and Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties (Md.) will participate in the annual demonstration.

The parade will form at 4th st. and Constitution ave. at 2 p. m. and proceed down Constitution ave. to the Sylvan Theater, where the religious service on the Monument Grounds will begin at about 3:30 p. m.

City Police Escort

In case of bad weather, the service will be in St. Matthew's Cathedral, 1727 Rhode Island ave. nw., at 3 p. m. and there will be no parade.

Escorted by the Metropolitan police and the U. S. Park police, the parade will include seven divisions of marchers and 15 bands and drum and bugle corps. The cadet corps and band of St. John's College will make up the military escort for Archbishop O'Boyle.

The archbishop will make the mile-long march on foot to the reviewing stand on Constitution ave., between 14th and 15th sts. and there will join clergy and laymen to review the procession.

As the group assembles in the Sylvan Theater, the choir of the Theological College of Catholic University will present a program of religious music.

Archbishop O'Boyle will speak, after which pontifical benediction will be given by the Most Rev. John M. McNamara, Vicar General of the Archdiocese of Washington.

Dr. George R. Ellis of St. Anthony's parish, past president of the Washington Holy Name Union, will be grand marshal of the parade, assisted by Lawrence J. McDonnell of St. Francis Xavier parish, president of the Archdiocesan Union.

Other aides are Clarkson Gemmill, president of the Washington Section; Lester F. Moss, vice president; Edgar L. Kenney, secretary; John Curtain, treasurer, and Patrick Hannan, sergeant-at-arms. Dr. George F. Harbin is general chairman of arrangements and the Rev. Walter J. Schmitz will be master of ceremonies at the religious service.

Carnegie Awards Given to 28, Including Four Dead Persons

Pittsburgh, Oct. 29 (U.P.).—The Carnegie Hero Fund Commission today cited 23 persons, including four who lost their own lives, for heroic efforts to save others.

One man received the seldom-granted silver medal. It went to Sam E. Wohlford, 57, Stratford, Tex., rancher, who risked his life in a blinding blizzard last February 11, in an effort to save a family of five trapped in a snow-bound truck.

In zero weather and a 35-mile-an-hour wind, the rancher built a makeshift platform on his tractor and drove for five hours through snow-clogged fields to the truck where he found two children and a grandmother unconscious. They died after he got them to a nearby ranch, but Wohlford went 10 miles for a doctor who pulled the other two through.

A posthumous award went to the widow of Gerhard G. Smukal, 25, an ice dealer, drowned while attempting to rescue Elaine M. Bohlman from the Wisconsin River at Wisconsin Dells, Wis., July 26, 1947.

Pensions were awarded to the widows of Joseph Clark, 29, Negro, of Livingston, Ala., who was drowned trying to save a 3-year-old child in a reservoir, and Charles R. Fraley, 39, of Tulsa, Okla., who stayed in his flaming gasoline truck in a runaway ride through Tahlequah, Okla., to keep it from striking pedestrians.

Doctors Agree Cigarettes Have Virtues

Chicago, Oct. 29 (U.P.).—An editorial in the American Medical Association Journal today said that no adequate tests have been developed yet to measure throat irritation caused by cigarettes.

The journal also said that from a psychological point of view, smoking may have its points.

"In all probability more can be said in behalf of smoking as a form of escape from tension than against it, the editorial commented.

"It would be a wise physician indeed who could differentiate between the irritation caused by the smoking of cigarettes and that caused by various bacteria, chemicals or heat, the Journal said.

The Journal cited abuses that led to prohibition of alcohol, and said the tremendous growth in cigarette sales eventually might result in restrictive legislation.

But, the Journal said, there is little scientific evidence that cigarettes are harmful to most persons.

"Actual surveys indicate that the majority of physicians themselves smoke cigarettes, the Journal said. 'Extensive scientific studies have proved that smoking in moderation,' except in certain cases, 'does not appreciably shorten life.'"

Blanche Calloway Hurt

Chester, Pa., Oct. 28 (AP).—Blanche Calloway, sister of Orchestra Leader Cab Calloway, was injured seriously today in a crash near Media. She was en route from Washington to New York when her car crashed into a pole to avoid hitting another car, police said. Miss Calloway also is an orchestra leader.

Only One Application Received For Alexandria Health Post

Alexandria received only one application for the job as city health officer by last night which was the deadline for applications.

City Manager Nicholas A. Colasanto said another man, an official of the State Health Department, had "inquired" about the position, but had not made formal application.

The lone applicant meets the "basic requirements" for the position, Colasanto said. But the city manager said he did not intend to take any immediate action on filling the position from which Dr. W. Lewis Schafer resigned October 4.

Dr. Schafer, who had been city health officer since 1929, resigned a few days before the city made public a critical report following a survey conducted in his department by State health officials.

Rev. Harry W. Backus Begins Pastorate

The Rev. Harry W. Backus 3d will preach his first sermon as pastor of the Arlington Methodist Church, 8th and S. Glebe rd., at 11 a. m. Sunday. His topic will be "The Sovereign Christ."

Mr. Backus was transferred to the Arlington church by the Virginia Methodist Conference to succeed the Rev. J. S. Johnston, who was assigned to a church in Norfolk.

Public Lecture Set On 'Mysteries of Death'

"Mysteries of Death" is the title of a free public lecture to be given at 8 p. m. Monday at Pierce Hall, 15th and Harvard sts. nw., under the auspices of the Rosicrucian Order, AMORC. Harold Hershenow of the order's international board of lecturers will be the speaker.

The lecture is the first in a series of six to be given by the Rosicrucians here on Monday evenings.

Blue Plate Special:

BASEBALL DEPT.—Bill Dickey, who is rejoining the Yankees as a coach, will be a man with a mission when the Yanks assemble in St. Petersburg next March. His special duty will be that of fashioning Yogi Berra into something resembling a big league catcher.

POVICH

Old Master Dickey, who was the best of modern catchers if Mickey Cochrane wasn't, may not be aware of the enormity of his task because he has never seen Berra try to catch for the Yankees. In the 1947 World Series, the Brooklyn Dodgers stole everything but Berra's shirt, and there was an authenticated report Yogi had that tattooed on himself.

In deference, though, to Berra's hitting, Bucky Harris was willing to risk Yogi's presence behind the bat on ocasions when the Yankees needed runs. Harris even attempted to improve Berra's hitting by telling Yogi not to let the pitchers outguess him. "Think while you're up there," Harris pleaded. Whereupon Berra took a third strike and came back to the bench moaning, "How ya gonna think and hit at the same time?"

That's just an illustration of what Dickey has to contend with—teaching Berra to catch and think at the same time.

NOTRE DAME DEPT.—In New York the other day, Michigan's athletic director, Fritz Crisler, pointed out that there was no possibility of a Michigan-Notre Dame game until 1953, and after that date the chances were vague. He cited Michigan's committments that called for six games with Big Nine Conference opponents each year and the pressure from Eastern alumni that the Wolverines make one trip to the Atlantic Coast.

The tenor of his excuses revealed something less of an eagerness to play Notre Dame, anyway. Michigan has been doing very well without the risk of playing the Irish, and with too many other schools the reaction is the same. Notre Dame is running out of opposition with the Navy game now representing its only remaining important Eastern outlet. The Irish are paying the penalty of being too powerful.

Army in canceling its Notre Dame series was obviously ducking the Irish. Southern California is also reported wearying of its consistent beatings by Notre Dame and wants out. I hear that five letters from Notre Dame, asking a renewal of the series, have gone unanswered. It's a heluva note when a school is hamstrung in schedule making for playing football that is too good.

BEARDEN DEPT.—That was a special kind of tribute to Gene Bearden, the handsome lad who was voted the American League's Rookie of the Year in the Nation-wide poll of the Associated Press. Certainly no rookie ever wound up a season with more of a flourish than did the young knuckle-baller of the Indians.

He pitched and won a big game against Detroit in the final week to put the Indians in a pennant tie for the Red Sox, and then he was entrusted with the job of beating the Red Sox in the play-off game, which he did. He won his only World Series start to give the Indians a 2-1 edge over the Braves, and in the decisive sixth game it was his relief pitching that collapsed the Braves' final bid.

The interesting feature of Bearden's selection, though, is the fact that the poll closed before his play-off game and World Series feats were recorded. Without those achievements to his credit, he had already been voted the Rookie of the Year. He came a long way since the winter of 1945-46 when the Yankees sent him to Cleveland as a throw-in in the Sherman Lollar deal with no sense of loss.

BOWL DEPT.—The Rose Bowl, once the biggest of all bowl games, is shrinking in prestige and there is now no guarantee even that the best team on the Pacific Coast will be seen in action on New Year's Day. The best Coast team apparently is California but if Oregon shows as many intra-Coast Conference victories as the Golden Bears then Oregon will get the bid. A special conference ruling notes that if two teams are tied, the school most years absent from the bowl is to be invited.

In any event, the bad bargain the Coast people made when it tied itself to the Big Nine in the Rose Bowl is now apparent. Under a Big Nine ruling, none of its champions can compete in the Rose Bowl more than once in a three-year span, thus eliminating Michigan, best Big Nine drawing card.

What the Rose Bowl will get out of it is a nonchampion Big Nine team against a Coast team that may not be the Pacific Coast's best. This year's Rose Bowl game will prove nothing.

Champion Counted Out In 4th Round

New York, Oct. 29 (AP).—Sandy Saddler, spindle-legged Harlem Negro, scored a stunning fistic upset tonight when he knocked out Willie Pep of Hartford, Conn., to win the world featherweight championship in 2:38 of the fourth round at Madison Square Garden.

Pep, a 1-to-3 favorite who never before had been knocked out in 136 previous fights, went down for the full count from a murderous left hook thrown by the lean graduate of the New York Police Athletic League.

Flooring Pep twice in the third round, each time for a count of nine, Saddler swarmed all over wily Willie in the fourth to lift the 126-pound crown from the little fellow who had held it since 1942.

A crowd of 14,685 paid $55,751.78 for the first Twentieth Century Sporting Club offering of the fall season. Pep received 50 per cent and Saddler 10 per cent of the net.

Saddler at 124 gave a pound and a half to Pep, who weighed 125½.

Bleeding from the nose after the first minute of the scrap, Pep suffered a cut under his right eye in the third when he just escaped a Kayo, saved by the bell.

Three smashing left uppercuts by Saddler started Pep on his way in the third when he was caught flatfooted in his own corner by the fury of the attack of the 22-year-old challenger.

When Willie finally managed to squirm loose from Saddler's punch barrage, he had the cut under the right eye. Well mussed up and obviously hurt, Pep ran smack into a left uppercut that dumped him for the count of nine.

He rested on his knees, waiting for his head to clear until Referee Ruby Goldstein tolled nine. He just made it the first time.

Saddler, sensing a chance for a kill, swarmed in with his arms flailing. This time it was a right-hand smash to the head that floored Pep. Willie just managed to scramble up, wobbly and unsure of himself, when the bell ended the round.

Then came the end. It was a smashing left hook to the jaw that sent Pep down for the last time. Even then he was struggling to get up as Goldstein counted off the fatal ten.

Pep, whose only previous defeat was at the hands of Lightweight Sammy Angott, didn't have it tonight.

Pep has a return bout contract with Saddler, in case he lost the crown. Their second meeting is supposed to take place within 90 days.

Early odds had established Pep as a 1-to-3 favorite but the price was sliced to about 1 to 2 this morning. At the noon weigh-in Commissioner Eddie Eagan gave both a fight talk.

"With every contest we get lots of rumors," said Eagan. "We don't believe any of them. You are two honest athletes. We are holding you responsible to uphold the good name of boxing."

There had been rumors that a betting coup was to take place. After Eagan's talk, it was reported that the fluctuating odds went back to 1 to 3 on Pep. That's what it was at ring time.

Col. Eagan Calls It a 'Good Scrap'

New York, Oct. 29 (AP).—Col. Edward Eagan, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, said tonight he thought the Willie Pep, Sandy Saddler featherweight title fight was a "good scrap."

"Both boys did their utmost," he added, in commenting on Saddler's fourth round knockout of the champion in Madison Square Garden.

Field Goals Knot Denver, Hoyas, 10-10

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

Denver's five-time losers masqueraded as a fighting fotball team last night and pulled a 10-10 Halloween surprise on highly-favored Georgetown before 7394 startled Griffith Stadium patrons.

Twice the lightly-regarded visitors matched Hoya scores. The last time at 8.20 of the final period when Sub Center Bob Gruenler place-kicked a 14-yard field goal from a slight angle.

That did it—it got back the three points made by Georgetown Soph Dick Haester early in the last quarter when he cashed a perfect placement shot from 18 yards out.

Denver, which hadn't won since its opener, made no secret of its delight in tying a team that went into the game a two-touchdown favorite. The Pioneer squad enthusiastically carried off the field Head Coach Johnny Baker.

Incidentally, the former Southern Californian knows something about field goals—his own back in 1931 upset a great Notre Dame team, 16-14.

After an early scare, when Johnny Parise took Georgetown's opening kickoff 66 yards to the Hoya 27, Hagerty's men dominated the game until the middle of the second period.

Billy Conn, who hurt his knee and missed the entire second half, culminated a 44-yard first period advance when he went over from the 2. And Haester made the all-important conversion.

Lou Miller, 5-foot-6, chunky fullback who had a busy night carrying 25 times for 112 yards, went from the 44 to the 30.

Conn went for 4 and, when Leroy Kunz got too playful on his tackle, Denver was penalized 15 more yards to its 11. Sophomore Billy threw a pass to Noppinger that he took to the 3 and went over on his second try. Conn didn't do badly passing, completing 4 of 5 for 55 yards. He gained 45 yards in 15 rushing tries before he was put out of commission.

Denver tied it up late in the second period after Fullback Andy Pavich broke through from midfield to block Lou Surman's punt,

They Play in Baltimore

Navy's Chances of Stopping Notre Dame Today Are Slim

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

Baltimore, Oct. 29.—Unbeaten Notre Dame moves against Navy's win-less football team tomorrow but in the face of the 20-point disparity in the pregame reckoning, a capacity crowd of 64,000 will see the contest in Babe Ruth Stadium.

From numerous points on the Eastern seaboard, special trains will carry Notre Dame's sidewalk alumni to the game that marks the Irish's only Eastern appearance of the year.

Notre Dame Coach Frank Leahy, bidding for another national championship, will be seeking to extend his defeatless streak to 24 straight against a Navy team that appears outmanned again and in line for 11 defeats in a row.

Navy Coach George Sauer maintained a note of confidence tonight despite the seeming hopelessness of the task of the Midshipmen against the Notre Dame powerhouse. "If our boys show the same zest they took into last week's Penn game, we won't be beaten much, and we could make it an upset," he said.

Navy's gallant band, which has celebrated only two victories since 1945, will be relying today on its forward passing attack that almost upset Penn. Sauer is expected to give his passing quarterbacks, Reeves Baysinger and Bob Horne, a blank check to throw against Notre Dame's aerial defenses which have been the most vulnerable part of the Irish play.

Both teams will be missing key players for the contest. The Notre Dame running attack may be blunted by the absence of Halfback Terry Brennan, out with an injury, and Fullback Mike Swiztowics, also injured.

Navy is coming up to its biggest game today without Fullback Bill Hawkins, its best ground gainer, who has been hospitalized for weeks with a throat infection. Also missing from Navy's starting team is Tackle Art Knoizen.

The Notre Dame team worked out in a hotel ballroom here today, with chairs cleared from the dance floor and Leahy walking his players through signal drills. He said it was no new departure. "We've done it lots of times before."

The big weapon Notre Dame is taking into the game is the versatile attack quarterbacked by Frank Tripucka, successor to Johnny Lujack. Tripucka understudied Lujack last season with such akill that he moved easily into the starting job this season.

In addition to maintaining its unbeaten record, the Irish have another aim against the Midshipmen. One of their minor objectives is to continue their feat of scoring in every quarter in every game this season.

Mounts Beat Catholic, 41-0

By Sy Fishbein
Post Reporter

Frederick, Md., Oct. 29.—Walt Bellardinelli, an emigre from the Notre Dame freshman backfield to the Mount St. Mary's varsity, personally ripped the Catholic University line to shreds tonight as 2500 Mountaineers looked on in uninhibited glee.

The score was: Bellardinelli, 24; Mount St. Mary's, 7; Catholic, 0.

Without the presence of the "Irishman," the game Cardinals might have come away with a respectable one or two touchdown deficit. The hard-charging Mounts' line crew and the glossy quarterbacking of Marty Green would have provided that.

Bellardinelli, after having much of his early work nullified by penalties, grabbed a punt in the first quarter on his 48, baited the charging Cardinals over to the right, reversed his field and was suddenly alone.

A bit later, in the next quarter, the Danbury, Conn., demon changed his tactics, eracking through the Cardinals line in short, productive spurts from his 42 to the goal.

End Jack Curran got into the act for the next Mounts' score, in the same period, taking a 10-yard pass from Green.

Clemson Whips B. C. by 26-19

Boston, Oct. 29 (AP).—With the sharp-shooting Bob Gage passing and intercepting almost equally well, the air-minded Clemson Tigers protected their unbeaten football record by defeating Boston College 26-19 tonight before a 25,269 crowd at Braves Field.

Gage's passes provided the Southerners' first three touchdowns and his interception set the stage for the fourth one in the third period, long before the Eagles got rolling in belated fashion.

Turyn Stars On Running And Passing

By Morris Siegel

Miami, Fla., Oct. 29.—Maryland tamed Miami University's Hurricanes tonight, sweeping to a 27-13 victory before 35,304 Orange Bowl Stadium customers.

Although they were never able to muster a high gale attack, the Hurricanes caused the Terrapins a few mintes of anxiety in the second period when they scooted into a 7-6 lead.

This brazenness on the part of the 13-point underdog Miamians exploded in their faces a few minutes later, however, as Vic Turyn began to pitch and run the Terrapins to their fifth victory in six starts.

10 of 17 Passes Good

He pitched the Terps to one touchdown and set up two others with his passing and running.

Completing 10 of 17 passes and averaging almost 8 yards every time he carried the ball, Turyn accounted for 211 of the 443 yards the Terrapins amassed.

Another senior member of Maryland's varsity backfield, Fullback Harry Bonk, contributed mightily to the victory with two touchdowns, both on runs. Sophomore End Tom Betz of Dundalk, Md., hung on to one Turyn toss for a touchdown and Jimmy La Rue raced 39 yards for the other score.

Bob Dean, replacing the errant Tom McHugh as extra-point kicker, found the range on three of his four attempts.

Yields Only 106 Yards

Against a charging Maryland line which yielded every inch begrudgingly, the Hurricanes were able to move only 106 yards. The Maryland air defense were primed for this one, too, allowing Sophomore Quarterback Jack Del Bello, hailed as a fine passer, and Halfback Elmer Smith, to complete only four of the 15 they tried.

Maryland rumbled 63 yards for its first tally in the second period, 71 yards for touchdown No. 2 in the same quarter, 79 yards for the third-quarter score and 66 yards for the last tally.

Harry Ghaul, whose phenomenal kicking kept the Terps deep in their own territory early in the game, Elmer Smith and Del Bello composed Miami's offense. Ghaul raced 33 yards with a Turyn interception to set up the first Miami score and kicked the extra point which gave the Hurricanes a 7-6 lead.

Del Bello, directing the attack,

GW Tackles High-Scoring Lafayette

Easton, Pa., Oct. 29 (Spl.).—George Washington University and Lafayette are both expected to extend their streaks when they tangl here tomorrow for the first time since 1928.

The invaders have lost their last two games and rate as two-touchdown underdogs, while Lafayette, celebrating homecoming, has three straight victories to its credit. The Leopards' only loss in five games was to Army's powerhouse.

Approximately 15,000 fans are anticipated for tomorrow's renewal, when Lafayette will be trying to duplicate a 28-0 margin in the teams' last meeting.

The Leopards boast of high-scoring club under Coach Ivy Williamson, 181 points being racked up in its five games so far. The aerial assault is led by Quarterback Frank Downing who has gained a total of 435 yards with 15 completed passes.

G. W.'s hopes again hinge on Freshman Andy Davis, but a busy day will be necessary for Davis if he is to counterbalance the Leopards' devastating running at tack. Indications of Lafayette's power along the ground are contained in statistics of last week's game with Bucknell, against whom the Leopards rolled up 375 yards in a driving rain.

Lions Beaten By Springfield

The Springeld Indians grabbed a firmer hold on second place in Eastern Division of the American Hockey League last night at Uline Arena when they eked a 4-3 decision over the Washington Lions before 2186 fans.

Springfield scored first, in the opening period, when Center Leo Curick took a pass from Bill Summerhill in back of the Lion defense and beat Washington Goalie Lou Crowdis at 6:45.

The Lions couldn't crack the Indian defense until 16:39 when Defenseman Pat Wilson blasted the puck waist-high past Netminder Phil McAtee

Tar Heels, Georgia Tech Risk Unbeaten Records Today

Tennessee Opposes North Carolina, Duke Takes on Engineers

By Austin Bealmear

New York, Oct. 29 (AP).—Eight of the Nation's nine major victorious football teams risk their spotless records tomorrow on a program crowded with games that will have a definite bearing on the championship picture in all the top-drawer conferences.

The members of the all-winning fraternity who appear to be facing the toughest assignments, however, are the two Dixie powerhouses—North Carolina and Georgia Tech.

North Carolina, currently rated the third-best team in the country and a top-heavy favorite in the Southern Conference, moves into Knoxville to battle a Tennessee team that has won three in a row after a slow start and has been pointing for the Tar Heels all season.

Georgia Tech, holding sixth place in the rankings determined by the Associated Press poll, drops out of the Southeastern Conference in which it is the favored leader to tangle with Duke at Durham.

Duke, unbeaten in five starts although tied by both North Carolina State and Tennessee, could become the only remaining threat to North Carolina in the Southern Conference if it upsets Georgia Tech. On the other hand, a Tennessee upset of North Carolina would make the Vols a big Southeastern Conference stumbling block for Georgia Tech, whom they meet next week.

In the Big Nine, a three-way deadlock for second place is almost certain to be broken, but front-running Michigan, No. 1 team in the Nation, appears in no danger of losing to invading Illinois. With Michigan slamming steadily toward its second Big Nine title but ineligible for the Rose Bowl assignment, the scramble for the trip to Pasadena involves the trio now tied for the runner-up spot with two victories and one defeat—Northwestern, Ohio State and Indiana.

Minnesota figures to erase Indiana at Minneapolis tomorrow, while Northwestern and Ohio State come face to face at Evanston. Wisconsin and Iowa, whose 1-2 records match Minnesota in the conference, play each other at Iowa City.

Considerably less involved is the situation in the Southwest Conference, where Southern Methodist and Texas hook up at Austin in what likely will be the title game. Like once-tied Baylor, which invades Texas Christian, both Texas and SMU are all-victorious in the conference but Baylor still has to face both of them.

Fourth-ranking California will be shooting for its seventh straight triumph and third in the Pacific Coast League at Southern California, while Oregon, the Bears' biggest conference threat, steps outside to entertain St. Mary's.

The other all-victorious teams—Notre Dame, Army, Pennsylvania and Nevada—are expected to breeze through their opposition tomorrow. Notre Dame plays Navy at Baltimore, while Army and Penn will be at home against Virginia Tech and Washington and Lee, respectively. Nevada entertains Oklahoma City University.

A pair of Ivy League games which should produce the outstanding challenger to Pennsylvania send Cornell to Columbia and Dartmouth to Yale.

Missouri and Oklahoma, who will go a long way toward settling the Big Seven title when they meet next week, are on the road tomorrow, Missouri at Kansas State and Oklahoma at Iowa State for league tussles.

Works Out Today

Gibson Hits Town Ready For Moore

Lloyd Gibson arrives in town today to round into shape for his light heavyweight bout Monday night at Turner's Arena, preceding his adversary, Archie Moore, who's still training in New York.

Gibson, who has been drilling in Cincinnati with his stablemate, Ezzard Charles, will work out this afternoon in Billy Edward's Fifth Street gym.

Moore has been informed by the Tournament of Champions that he's been matched with England's Freddie Mills, the title-holder, for a title fight in this country some time after the first of the year.

The plans include a guarantee by Moore to Mills that in the event he beats Mills they'll fight a return bout in London.

Gabe Menendez, matchmaker at Turner's Arena, said yesterday he was confident that Moore would be the next light heavyweight champ if he ever got the chance. Gus Lesnevich, Menendez said, ducked Moore for years when he wore the crown.

But first there's the small matter of Gibson Monday night. The fact the Marcel Cerdan has recorded the only loss in Gibson's pro record, makes Gibson a factor to be reckoned with before Moore can get serious about a Mills fight.

engineered a drive which carried to the Maryland 36-yard line in the final period and from there, Elmer Smith took over, running 36 yards for Miami's final tally.

Jimmy LaRue, 165-pound junior, who was to climax the drive by racing 39 yards for the score, started Maryland's 63-yard second-period excursion with an 18-yard trip. Bonk and Werner added 33 between them on three tries and Turyn passed to Fred Davis for 21 yards to the Miami 39. There Turyn flipped a neat pitchout to LaRue, who made it 6-0.

A few moments later, Ghaul speared the Turyn aerial on the Miami 35 and legged it back 33 yards where Turyn finally spilled him; Del Bello went over on the first lick to tie the score and Ghaul set the throng into momentary bedlam when he kicked the point to make it Miami 7, Maryland 6.

Then Turyn Opens Up

Howie Baroni returned Ghaul's kickoff to the Maryland 30 and Turyn and the Terps opened up. Turyn hit Betz and Roth on three straight passes, contributed a 17-yard sprint after faking a handoff and the Terps were on the Miami four with first down. Turyn stepped back and pegged to Betz standing unguarded in the end zone for a touchdown.

Lateraling to Idzik and LaRue, Turyn sparked Maryland's 79-yard third period score. He also chipped in a 27-yard flip to Eumer Wingate which placed the ball on the 4-yard line. Bonk picked up a touchdown on his second plunge.

After driving all the way to the 16, Maryland ran into a bit of misfortune early in the final quarter when Elmer Smith intercepted a Turyn pass in the end zone and returned it to the Miami 27. Del Bello, Al Hudson and Ghaul worked the ball to the Maryland 36. There Smith faded to pass, found no receivers and behind hard blocking breezed over for Miami's second and last touchdown.

It required the Terps only five minutes and 11 plays to travel 66 yards for their last score. Turyn and Werner collaborated on this with laterals, running and forward passes. Werner contributed runs of 11 and 13 yards on this drive, his final dash carrying to the 5 from where Bonk stampeded through the middle for the tally.

started from his 24, jigged out near his right end while Cardinal tacklers dived vainly at him, and ended up at the goal line.

Bellardinelli closed out the evening near the end of the game by hauling in a Green pass behind a Cardinal secondary defenseman and scored from the 30.

Frank Collins, after four futile tries, kicked the extra point.

The Cardinals' offensive, except when Bill Ennis sneaked through the Mounts' line several times in the third quarter, and when Joe Mauiri's passes clicked temporarily to Bill DeYoung in the fourth quarter, was completely null. The two penetrations carried to the Mount St. Mary's 11 and 6-yard lines, but the defensive line held fast each time.

Citation Shows Press Clippings, Picks Up $10,000 at Pimlico

Purse Given For Runyon Cancer Fund

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Pimlico, Md., Oct. 29.—Citation won today on his press clippings.

The Calumet comet ran over the 13/16-mile course to score a walkover victory in the famous Pimlico Special and take down the $10,000 purse the easy way.

Owner Warren Wright saw a horse in his colors turn in a solitary special effort for the second time—Whirlaway also turned the trick—and promptly gave the ten grand to the Damon Runyan Memorial Cancer Fund.

With Jockey Eddie Arcaro sitting against him most of the way, Citation registered time of 1:59 4/5 only a second and two fifths over the time of Fervent in the latter's driving Special victory of last year.

Result Is "Official"

Every move of the horse of the year was roundly applauded by a crowd of 11,620 which got a big laugh when Don Reed, the public address system announcer, said "the result is official."

The "race" was put on in big league fashion, including a post parade, a flag start, etc. Citation returned from the little more than a workout to be blanketed with chrysanthemums in the winner's circle.

Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, who conceived the idea for the Special, presented the trophy to Warren Wright as Trainers Jimmy and Ben Jones looked on.

Both Citation and Eddie Arcaro will go into temporary retirement, it was learned. Trainer Jimmy Jones said the son of Bull Lea will be rested for at least two months.

Arcaro, who suffered a painful shoulder injury when thrown in the paddock at Belmont last summer, said he is hanging up his tack for the remainder of the year.

Each time Arcaro has ridden Citation since he was hurt it has been necessary that he submit to an injection of novacaine in the injured joint. "I'm going to California and lay around in the sun and see if that helps," said the top-money rider.

Today's appearance was the first in Maryland for Citation since he won the Preakness last spring, the second notch in his triple crown. The Special was his twenty-seventh start in two years, and with earnings of $830,250 he is second on the all-time earnings list, topped only by Stymie's $911,335.

Citation was the fifth Calumet horse to win the Special. Whirlaway (in a walkover), Fervent, Armed and Twilight Tear were the others to gain the winner's circle.

Lookout Son Fast

The track was in excellent shape. J. H. Brink's Lookout Son, winner of the seventh race, was clocked in 1:10 4/5 for the six furlongs, only a fifth of a second over the track record set by Joe Ray and Pony Ballet. The winner paid $7.60.

While there was no betting on Citation, a stablemate of the big horse took the second race. Calumet's Wistful, a daughter of Sun Again, was the winner and paid $3.20.

She put the finishing touches on a $24.80 daily double started when H. S. Horkheimer's Cuban Bill scored in the first race at $8.60.

Pantos Scores 3 Times as Central Brushes Roosevelt Aside, 33-7

Jim Goes 76 Yards for Touchdown

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

Jimmy Pantos and his Central Vikings poured a 33-7 defeat on cellar-dwelling Roosevelt yesterday and kept their grip on first place in the Interhigh Football League.

Before 2500 Central Stadium spectators, Pantos scored three touchdowns, as many as he has scored in all four previous Viking victories. He passed only twice as Central abandoned its vaunted passing attack.

Pantos scored Central's first 13 points with touchdown runs of 16 and 12 yards, and an extra point in the opening quarter. After handing the ball to Terry Gregory for a 16-yard touchdown sprint in the second quarter, Pantos again took matters into his own hands.

He intercepted a Terry Huff pass and dashed 76 yards for another score before halftime. He was helped no little by Tackle Lew Glickfield's tremendous block, which eliminated three would-be tacklers.

Roosevelt played Central on even terms in the second half, as each team scored seven points. A 15-yard pass from Huff to Chuck Wilson counted for Roosevelt in the third stanza. Gregory scored for Central on a 3-yard buck in the fourth.

Despite the wide difference in the score, the game was marked by hard tackling all the way. In fact, Jack Wert and Gene Million of Central and Dave Blair of Roosevelt got more than wrapped up in the spirit of the game. They had to be ejected by the officials for slugging.

Tech Whips Eastern, 19-14

By Don Lief

McKinley Tech's Johnny Passas matched Richie Hite's two long touchdown runs yesterday to lead the Trainers to a 19-14 win over Eastern at the Ramblers' field before an estimated 2200.

Hite made the game's first score, returning Rogers' punt in the second quarter for 55 yards. Gill converted.

Tech's first score was a 26-yard pass from Jerry Spindler to Don Green in the same period. Stevens blocked Herbert's kick.

Passas climaxed an 85-yard Tech drive at the beginning of the third quarter by taking another Spindler pass for a 37-yard touchdown. Passas passed to Cooke for the extra point. Playing with an injured leg, Passas sewed up the game in the final period by spinning through the Rambler middle for a 62-yard dash, although Hite's immediate return of Stewart's kickoff for a 75-yard score gave the Ramblers' short-lived hopes.

Tech's line was rugged enough to stall Eastern's late aerial game, despite minor injuries to big tackles, Julie Poms, and Earl Shields.

Most seriously injured player was Ray DiGiovanni, Eastern back, who suffered a dislocated shoulder in the second quarter.

Anacostia Wins, 26-12, Stays in 2d

By Billy Gilbert

Anacostia's Indians remained in undisputed possession of second place in the interhigh grid standings as they came from behind to defeat Western, 26-12, before 2000 fans yesterday at Western.

The Indians, paced by little Bob Mitchell, who was rolling off sizable gains all afternoon, spotted the Red Raiders 12 points in the first period and then dominated the play for the rest of the game.

Dale Larsen scored both Western touchdowns. The first came when Dale Summerbell lateraled to Larsen, who ran 50 yards for the tally. The play covered 62 yards.

The second was on a 15-yard pass from Wade Hubbard to Larsen in the end zone. Summerbell missed both attempts for the conversions.

The initial Indian score came late in the second quarter when Ed (Alabama) Burt plowed over from 4 yards out, climaxing a 46-yard drive. Bill Neal's kick was good.

The Tribe registered again in the third quarter when Mitchell scooted the Raider left end for 7 yards and the score. Neal's kick hit the upright and bounced back on the field.

Anacostia chalked up its final two scores in the last period. The first came on a 72-yard drive, climaxed by Mitchell's 2-yard dash off tackle for the score. The last touchdown came when "Peewee" Morris intercepted Summerbell's pass and ran 50 yards for the score.

ANACOSTIA
Ends—Faulkner, Davis, Grinder, Brooks.
Tackles—Britton, Neil, Smith, Cianza.

Little Hoyas Win, 33-31; Still Unbeaten

In a hard-fought game between two top undefeated Catholic school football teams, Georgetown Prep nosed out Loyola of Baltimore, 33-31, yesterday at Garrett Park.

The running of Billy Bidwell of Georgetown and the passing of Bill Gandreau of Loyola stood out in the wild scoring bee. But in the end, the kicking toe of Bidwell decided the issue. The son of Charlie Bidwill, late owner of the Chicago Cardinals, booted three out of five extra points.

After four placements by Walt McWilliams failed to clear the bar, Jack Simmons stepped in to boot a conversion for Loyola but it was too late.

Loyola scored two touchdowns in the first quarter, but because of Bidwill's kicking toe, trailed, 14-12. A 6-yard plunge by Bidwill in the second period upped Georgetown's lead to 20-12 at the half.

Loyola scored first in the third quarter on a 7-yard Gandreau to Simmons pass to pull up to 18-20, the teams alternated scoring the rest of the way with two touchdowns each but Loyola was outdistanced.

Bidwill's running set up most of Prep's touchdowns, and he passed to Tom Crowley for a score in the last period. Gandreau passed to two other Loyola touchdowns, tossing 37-yards to Lou Hofferbert for one in the first quarter, and 40 yards to McWilliams in the last. The most sensational run of the game was an 80-yard kickoff return by Ed Claxton in the second period.

Army Harriers Win

West Point, N. Y. Oct. 29 (AP).—Army's undefeated cross-country team closed its dual meet season today by overwhelming Columbia University, 16 to 39.

Devitt Upsets Cadets, 21-13, On Late Scores

Devitt Prep's underdog football team put on a great second half drive yesterday to beat St. John's, 21-13, at Bullis Field.

Trailing 13-6 at the half, Devitt produced two touchdowns and a safety in the late periods to become the second team to defeat St. John's, which had held powerful Central High to a 19-19 tie last week.

St. John's built up its first half lead on the last play of the second period, a spectacular pass which covered 83 yards. Bunny Wallace, on his own 17, passed 23 yards to Dunney Waldron, who sprinted the remaining 60 yards.

Bob Stewart got it back for Devitt in the next quarter, running 40 yards off tackle for the score. Sam Bates and Jim Rheinhold brought the Devittmen another two points when they trapped Waldron in the end zone.

ST. JOHN'S
Ends—Daly, Mayr.

B-CC Swamps Frederick, 41-0

Unbeaten Bethesda-Chevy Chase High scored its fourth victory in five starts yesterday at Bethesda, turning back Frederick High, 41-0.

Herb Spain went 60 yards for one of the six touchdowns and passed for two others to John Buell and Dick Beckwith. Everybody got into the act with John Van Wagner, Dough Sawyer and Richie Onslow scoring the other six-pointers. Onslow took an 18-yard pass from John Scott.

Longest run of the day was Roddy Ware's 83-yard sprint to the Frederick end zone, but it was nullified by a clipping penalty.

2 Petitions To Review Transit Fare Rise Denied

ADA and Consumer Group Lose Pleas, May Take Their Fight to Court

By Sam Zagoria
Post Reporter

The District Public Utilities Commission yesterday denied two petitions for reconsideration of its decision raising the Capital Transit Co. fares at 5 a. m. Sunday.

The first petition was filed at 2:40 p. m. by Benjamin C. Sigal, attorney for the Washington Chapter of Americans for Democratic Action, and the second at 4:22 p. m. by Harry R. Booth, attorney for the Washington Committee for Consumer Protection. PUC announced its denial at 4:45 p. m.

The new rate schedule raises the present 10-cent cash fare to 13 cents, restores tokens at an increased rate of 3 for 35 cents and boosts the weekly pass from $1.50 to $1.75.

Attorneys for both groups, which have opposed any increase in fare rates, criticized the speed with which the reconsideration petitions were denied and announced that they may take the matter to the courts.

Filed on Last Day

Both petitions were filed on the last possible day before the increase becomes effective since the PUC office normally is closed on Saturdays.

Earlier in the day, the transit company filed a report with PUC showing a deficit of $36,406 for operations during September, compared with a net income of $50,047 in the same 1947 month. For the nine months ended September 30, the C.T.C. reported net income of $273,280, a gain of $27,551 over the same 1947 period, mainly due to a decrease in taxes, the report stated.

The five-page ADA application for reconsideration listed 24 alleged errors by PUC in the handling of the fare raise matter and asked that " a further hearing be held to receive evidence on the economies which the company has effected since August 13, 1948."

The local ADA group charged that the commission "erred in failing to make any independent engineering investigation to determine whether or not the company is being economically operated."

40 Errors Alleged

The Washington Committee for Consumer Protection, in a seven-page petition for reconsideration, listed 40 alleged errors in the PUC conduct of the proceedings. Among these were:

1. Engineer Commissioner Gordon R. Young, a member of PUC, participated in the final order, although he had "failed to sit during any of the hearings."

2. The PUC failed to allow the committee "a reasonable opportunity to prepare technical testimony in opposition to the rate increase," although in previous cases it had "permitted the same company two years to present testimony in a hearing instituted to determine whether rates should not be reduced."

3. The PUC erred "in authorizing the increase in view of the undisputed evidence that the company discriminates in service against large numbers of the Negro population" here.

1 Marital Snarl

Divorce Suit Dismissed; 2 Coming Up

A marital snarl involving two local real estate men brought these developments in District Court yesterday.

One divorce suit was dismissed.

A hearing on a cross-complaint was started.

Another divorce action and a $100,000 alienation of affection suit awaited hearing.

Judge F. Dickinson Letts dismissed a divorce action brought on ground of cruelty by Mrs. May M. Beloff, 30, of 1351 Spring rd. nw., against Simon Beloff, 66-year-old real estate man of 1611 Decatur st. nw., holding that the cruelty charge was not proved.

Corespondent in Beloff's cross-complaint is Leon Spivak, 40, real estate and insurance broker who rented desk space at Beloff's office, 1003 New York ave. nw., where he first met Mrs. Beloff while she was helping her husband with his office work.

Beloff Sues Spivak

Beloff is suing Spivak for $100,000, alleging he had deprived him of his wife's "affection, conjugal fellowship . . . companionship and services."

Also before the court is a suit for divorce filed by Spivak's wife, Evelyn, who asks for a limited decree on grounds of desertion.

Mrs. Beloff, a trim, dark-haired woman, categorically denied any misconduct with Spivak or anyone else in answer to her husband's charge of adultery with Spivak "on numerous occasions" in 1947 "in a guest house at 1880 Columbia rd. nw." in a "guest house at 1876 Kalorama rd. nw.," and in "various other places."

Testimony brought out that she married Beloff on December 12, 1943, after the death of his first wife, who was her aunt. His income was about $2000 a month, Mrs. Beloff said. The marriage had been a happy one until the birth of her child, Sylvia, now 4 years old, she declared.

Wanted to 'Keep Sex Out'

Under cross-examination, Mrs. Beloff declared she had had sexual relations with her husband the night before she left him on April 13, 1947, for a "vacation" from which she did not return to him.

When John Alexander, counsel for Beloff, read an earlier deposition to the effect that she had not had relations with Beloff for three years—later changed to two years—she testified she had wanted to "keep sex out of this," in making the statement.

Mrs. Beloff, who was close to tears after cross examination yesterday, declared her husband was "insanely jealous," nagged and cursed at her, and was "parsimonious." She testified she had written to her family, toward the end of their relationship, "I am miserable . . . I will have to make the best of it . . . he is a b——. . . I pray to God he drops dead."

Another witness was Mrs. Beloff's father, Israel Beloff of Far Rockaway, N. Y., who described his relationship to Simon Beloff in these words: "Beloff is my cousin, my son-in-law and he was my brother-in-law." He explained that Beloff's first wife was his wife's sister.

He testified that Beloff had come to his Far Rockaway home, where Mrs. Beloff had gone on her "vacation," had attempted to take the child away from her, and struck her and threatened her.

The hearing will be resumed Monday.

Takoma Park Loses Landmark In Spring House

Citizens of Takoma Park, Md., lost a landmark yesterday when the old Spring House, sheltering historic Takoma Spring at Elm and Poplar aves., was taken down by city workmen.

The stone building, built about 50 years ago, when the spring was a noted spa for Washingtonians, became the subject of controversy two years ago. At that time, the Takoma Historical Society said it had no historical value and should go, while a health department check revealed evidences of contamination.

It was removed by the city because it had become a haunt of undesirables, city officials said.

Armistice Day Call Stresses Peace

President Truman yesterday asked Americans to renew "their devotion to the cause of enduring peace" on November 11, the thirtieth anniversary of the armistice ending World War I.

In a proclamation issued through the White House, the President asked that the day be observed with ceremonies in schools and churches and that the flag be raised on all Government buildings

Auto Mechanics Give Day to Chest

Seventy-five employes of the Loving Motors auto repair department will work on their regular day off today, contributing the entire proceeds of their extra day's labor to the Community Chest, Graham Loving, president of the company, said.

The firm has notified 1500 Packard car owners of the Red Feather project, Loving said, and hopes to keep busy from 8:30 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. with one-day mechanical repair and winterizing jobs.

D. C. to Put Limit on Aid Cases

Ceiling Expected To Be Set at End Of December to Keep Within Funds

The District Board of Public Welfare yesterday announced it would put a ceiling on total cases to keep within appropriated funds.

This plan, agreed on at a board meeting in the New Municipal Center, follows a recent, 7 per cent cut in relief granted needy families, as part of a general retrenchment move.

Funds totaling $2,150,364 must last until June 1949, it was explained.

It was estimated that the saturation point for new cases would be reached at the end of this December, and after that, new cases will be accepted only in proportion to the number that are dropped from the rolls, through death or other reasons, each month.

Officials said that an average of 170 cases are discontinued monthly.

The board rejected a recommendation from Welfare Director John W. Tramburg and his principal assistant, Raymond F. Clapp, that chronic alcoholics be dropped from the rolls and sent to the Home for Aged and Infirm.

In setting aside the recommendation, the board explained that it felt if assistance were denied the confirmed drunkards, they would turn to crime to get liquor money.

As an alternative, the board agreed to a regulation under which the alcoholic's rent would be paid directly and meal tickets supplied him.

A 100 per cent increase in cases added to the rolls during last August over the same month in 1947 was noted in a monthly report issued yesterday by the board. A total of 64 cases was added last August as against 32 cases in August, 1947.

Fire Routs 40 At Fort Myer; Inquiry Begun

A board of inquiry was set up at Fort Myer yesterday to determine the cause of a predawn fire that routed about 40 soldiers from their sleep, injured one, and caused an estimated $10,000 damage.

Flames began about 4:25 a. m. yesterday in the second story of the frame, two-story barracks in the fort's South Post, and swept through the structure for 45 minutes.

The blaze was halted by the South Post Fire Department and by units from Clarendon, Jefferson and Arlington.

It gutted the second story, leaving only walls and roof standing and destroyed personal effects of the soldiers there. The first story, however, suffered only water damage.

Several occupants of the building suffered superficial burns and all were given first aid.

One occupant of the building, Sergt. Curtis L. Mirgon, suffered second degree burns and was given first aid on the scene. All men were members of the Headquarters Company.

WAA Asks Court To Retract Charge Of 'Skulduggery'

The War Assets Administration wants the United States Court of Appeals to retract a charge that there was "a pervasive and most offensive odor of skulduggery" in a $3,225,000 blast furnace sale.

In reviewing the sale of the furnace in Granite City, Ill., the court found that WAA had changed its "fair value" appraisal without notice to prospective purchasers, except for Missouri-Illinois Furnaces, Inc., which purchased it as the highest bidder.

The court's opinion was written by Judge Bennett Champ Clark, who said he nevertheless could not legally upset the sale.

The WAA and the Justice Department declared that if the court does not take back part of its opinion, "a grave injustice to the Government official charged with disposal of this property" will result. The statement evidently referred to Jess Larson, War Assets administrator.

9 at Lorton Get Paroles; 2 Are Women

Seven men and two women convicts at the District Reformatory at Lorton, Va., have been granted paroles from among 19 whose cases were reviewed Thursday, the District Parole Board announced yesterday.

Among those freed is Maceo Broadus, 48, convicted of second-degree murder in the shooting of Robert Lee Jackson at 801 V st. nw., on July 6, 1940, in a quarrel over a half pint of whisky. He had been sentenced to 8 to 24 years.

Another is John Solis, jr., who confessed he robbed fellow guests at the Lee Sheraton Hotel of $1500 about 2 or 3 a. m. August 17 and 18, 1946, by sneaking in his stocking feet into rooms whose doors were unlocked.

The women paroled are Rachele H. Baptiste, convicted of forgery, and Louise Alice Jones, jailed for assault with a deadly weapon.

The others who won paroles are Leon A. Jones, who served five years of a 5-to-15-year sentence for manslaughter; Walter E. Jones, manslaughter; Fred Williame, false pretenses; Willie N. Jackson, transporting a stolen car, and Junius M. Jackson, housebreaking.

Approximate Value of Blair Estate $182,000

Henry P. Blair, who died here October 3 at the age of 80, left an estate of approximately $182,000, it was learned yesterday.

Mr. Blair was a leader in business and community affairs and resided at 314 East Capitol st. He was a bachelor.

He left his entire estate to his law partners, Arthur Hellen, Clyde D. Garrett and Frederick M. Bradley of the Colorado Building. They were associated with him for more than 20 years.

In a will dated September 25, he named Gilbert C. Clark and Charles E. Phillips as trustees of any property he might be trustee of at the time of his death. In a modification of the will, two days later, he disposed of his own estate to the law partners.

Halloween's Early Start Not So Funny

Greater Washington police, aware that Halloween and callow youth make a risky combination, underlined orders for vigilance last night as the holiday got off to an early start.

Scores of parties are scheduled for day and night hours today, tomorrow—which is officially Halloween—and even for Monday.

Most Halloween spirits last night devoted their energies to party gaiety and group hi-jinks. There was, however, the usual assortment of hoodlums and vandals bent more on destruction than revelry.

Reports of vandalism began drifting into police headquarters early last night, although police expressed hope that the three false alarms turned in by 10 p. m. would not multiply.

Among reports that pranksters were getting out of hand was one that boys in the 2000 block Park rd. nw. had thrown ashes into a woman's eyes. One of the youngsters was arrested and turned over to his parents, police said.

Police also reported a wave of rock-throwing over the city and said some windows had been broken out in a house in the 1300 block Military rd. nw.

Miss Catherine Halliburton, 25, of 1016 65th pl. ne., suffered a slight cut on her eye by glass when a rock crashed through the window of a streetcar she was riding north on Kenilworth ave. ne., at Jay st. ne.

Some 40 persons were victims of a prank at Peoples Drug Store, Wisconsin ave. and Old Georgetown rd., Bethesda, Md., at about 7:30 p. m. The store was firmly padlocked by youthful Halloween celebrants, and customers inside were momentarily imprisoned while those outside were locked out.

Police Chief Barrett said District policemen who are ordinarily off duty on Saturday and Sunday would be kept on this weekend to prevent damage from overzealous witches and tricksters.

Volunteers from citizens' associations lent assistance in guarding fire alarm boxes. Representatives of the Federation of Citizens Association tried the plan last year and found it so successful they decided to renew it this season.

5 Polio Cases Added; Area Total Now 236

Five new polio cases were reported to the District Health Department this week, raising the Greater Washington total for the year to 236, as compared with 49 for this date last year.

The new cases were a 6-year-old boy of the 1800 block of Good Hope rd. se., at Children's Hospital, and a 37-year-old woman of the 1300 block of S st. nw.; a 7-year-old girl of the 1200 block of Duncan pl. ne.; a 22-year-old woman of the 600 block of Sligo ave., Silver Spring, Md., and a 33-year-old woman of the 7300 block of 15th ave., Takoma Park, Md., all at Gallinger Hospital.

The new cases raised the District total to 123 and the total in nearby Maryland and Virginia to 113.

Notre Dame Students To Hold Victory Dance

Notre Dame students from the Washington area, anticipating an Irish victory over Navy in Baltimore, will play host to students from area colleges tonight at a "victory dance" in Uline Arena, 9 p. m. to 1 a. m. The dance is open to the public.

Proceeds of the dance will go to European student relief. The goal is $10,000, Guy Perenich, 2340 14th st. ne., president of the Washington-Maryland-Virginia Club of Notre Dame, announced. Cochairmen are Charles Carter, 2310 California st. nw., and Charles Hellmuth, 108 North Columbus st., Alexandria.

Takoma Club to Hold Chrysanthemum

The twenty-first annual chrysanthemum show of the Takoma Horticultural Club will be held from 3 to 9 p. m. today at the Takoma Park branch of the Public Library, 5th and Cedar sts. nw.

The show, which is open to all amateur growers, will have 45 classes. The library will be open for reception of flowers between 11 a. m. and 2 p. m.

Girl Aids Arrest

Dishwasher Held in Home Burglary

A 22-year-old former dishwasher was charged with burglary by Montgomery County police yesterday after he was arrested on a description by a 15-year-old girl who awakened to find an intruder in her bedroom.

Benjamin J. Davis, Forest Glen, Md., was arrested at his home only an hour after police had been called to the home of Helen Harris at 9408 Georgia ave., Silver Spring, to investigate a housebreaking complaint at 4:30 a. m. Thursday.

The girl, police said, frightened the intruder away with her screams but not before noting the detailed description, which tallied with that of Davis. The suspect was employed by the girl's father, Steve Harris, at his restaurant at 9607 Georgia ave. until a few months ago.

Davis was held in $2000 bond for a hearing in Silver Spring Police Court November 9.

Prison Term Follows Suit For Divorce

Convicted of perjury in obtaining a divorce here, Edgar C. McFarland, 49, of Derwood, Md., was sentenced yesterday to serve eight months to two years in prison.

McFarland was sentenced by Judge Edward M. Curran of District Court. McFarland a Naval Gun Factory employe, swore that he resided in the District in 1946 and therefore was legally entitled to a divorce here. The decree was granted against Mrs. Rita L. McFarland of Essex, Conn., on ground of voluntary separation.

Subsequently authorities learned that McFarland was residing in Landover, Md., during the period he stated his residence was in the District. A suit to set aside the divorce decree was filed and prosecution resulted.

George Hicks, jr., 25, of 2014 14th st. nw., was given three years probation after a jury recommended leniency in finding him guilty of assault with intent to have carnal relations with a 13-year-old girl.

Two men were given probation for lottery operation. They are David Lewis, 35, of 219 Upshur st. nw., and Oscar J. Whitfield, 27, 1513 Church st. nw. Charges against Kenneth W. Lawson, 38, of Hillside, Md., filed after a gambling raid, were dismissed.

Jett P. Mundy of 923 I st. nw., was sentenced to three to nine years in prison for the street-corner shooting of Eddie M. Barnes, 34, of 1023 22nd st. nw. Barnes was seriously wounded when shot at 10th and I sts. nw.

Convicted of manslaughter, Johnnie Martin, 24, of 1721 Corcoran st. nw., was given 5 to 15 years prison for the fatal stabbing of William Askew, 29, of 1713 Seaton pl. nw.

Judge Quashes 2 Arrests at Wallace Dance

Judge Nadine L. Gallagher yesterday quashed the arrest of two of five persons charged with alcoholic beverages law violations after a raid October 9 of a dance sponsored by Henry Wallace followers at Laborer's Hall, 523 New Jersey ave. nw.

The Municipal Court jurist said that police had no legal right to arrest Sidney Goldreich, 35, of 3812 Florence dr., Alexandria, and Winston Edwards, 30, of 2914 Sherman ave. nw. Police, who entered the hall with search warrants, admitted that while the two men stated they were in charge, they had done nothing wrong in the presence of the officers.

They may have to stand trial despite the illegal arrest, however, even though evidence received as a result of it cannot be used.

Judge Gallagher withheld judgment on motions to quash informations filed in the case and evidence seized in the raid with search warrants.

The other defendants are Winfield Shirley, 23, of 2317 Virginia ave. nw.; Walter White, 23, 1315 49th st. ne., and Bernard Campbell, 29, 1007 19th st. se.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Richard Barton is prosecuting the case. Defending is Attorney Leon A. Ransom.

Leather Litany Book To Honor War Dead

A leather-bound Litany Book, in memory of nine members killed during World War II will be presented to Transfiguration Episcopal Church, 1415 Gallatin st. nw., by young people of the church on Sunday. The Feast of All Saints will be observed with Holy Communion at 8 a. m. and 11 a. m.

Silver Spring Child And Falls Church Man Victims of Similar Accidents

Two Greater Washington Area residents were killed yesterday in almost identical traffic accidents.

They were:

Barbara Jane Patrick, 2½, of 1830 Brisbane Court, Silver Spring, Md., who darted out from behind a parked car into the path of a milk truck in front of her home yesterday afternoon; and

James Pearson, 46, of 401½ Douglas st., Falls Church, who was killed instantly when he was struck by a car while trying to cross Lee blvd. near Huntington Village.

Montgomery County police said the Patrick girl was killed before her mother's eyes as she attempted to cross from a neighbor's yard to her own home about 3:30 p. m.

Police said the child was struck by a Chestnut Farms-Chevy Chase Dairy delivery truck and thrown 12 feet from the point of impact. They reported her skull was crushed by the bumper.

A technical charge of manslaughter was placed against truck driver, Francis H. Gosman, 24, of 22 East Parkway rd., Greenbelt, Md. He was released in custody of his employer for appearance in Silver Spring Police Court November 23. Police said he apparently had not violated traffic regulations.

The child's father, Dr. George B. Patrick, jr., a physician, was only a few blocks away when the accident happened. Mrs. Patrick rushed Barbara to him, but Dr. Patrick said he knew she was dead as soon as he saw her.

A Montgomery County police car took the girl to Suburban Hospital, Bethesda, where she was pronounced dead. The Patricks have one other child, George B, Patrick 3d, 5 months.

Fairfax County police said Pearson, a laborer, was killed at 8:30 a. m. when he tried to cross Lee blvd. at the height of the morning traffic rush.

Driver of the car which struck Pearson was identified as Marvin J. Bragg of Manassas, Va. Police released Bragg after two eyewitnesses stated Pearson had darted out into the highway directly in the path of Bragg's vehicle.

Musician Is Killed In a Wreck at Largo

Edward Gainor Bentz, a 32-year-old musician, was killed instantly last night when his car left the road a half mile east of Largo, Md., in Prince Georges County.

Friends said Bentz, a resident of Woodland Beach, Md., who formerly lived at 1305 Spring rd. nw., was driving from his home to Washington for an engagement with Frankie Mann's orchestra at the Hagan Club.

A native of Springeld, Ohio, he came to Washington at an early age with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Bentz, who survive him along with a brother, Corpl. John W. Bentz of the Spring rd. address.

Holtzoff Eases Revocation of Broker's License

Judge Alexander Holtzoff of District Court yesterday modified an order of the District Real Estate Commission which had revoked the broker's license of Clarence Berry, 4817 Central ave. ne.

The jurist changed the revocation to a suspension for a period of six months. The commission found that Berry failed to account for $200 of $750 obtained from Louis Ayres, 2732 Bruce pl. se., in a house-purchase deal, according to the District.

The Government was represented by Assistant Corporation Counsels Oliver Gasch and John Donnelly, Berry's attorney is Robert C. Handwerk.

Area News in Brief

Student 'Sitters' Give Baby Party

Twenty-five Arlington junior high school girls yesterday wound up a three-weeks' course in the practical art of baby-sitting by giving a Halloween party for their small charges.

The course was given at the Claude Swanson Junior High to eighth and ninth graders taking the home economics course.

"We wanted to show that practical things besides cooking and sewing could be taught in the course," said Mrs. Blanche Mellinger, who heads the school's home economics department.

In the course of their three weeks of training, the girls received instruction in such sciences as how to entertain tots, how to keep them happy with stories and games, and how to put them to bed.

School officials pointed out that the course was a practical aid to the girls, since most of them earn their spending money out of school by baby-sitting.

About the only technique missed in the course was the process of changing diapers. Mrs. Mellinger pointed out that most of the children with whom her pupils sat were beyond that stage.

Yesterday, the 15 youngsters with whom the class has practiced got a party with all the trimmings—including movies, costumes, and cookies—in the home economics classroom.

Call for Volunteers

The Prince Georges County Red Cross yesterday issued an urgent appeal for volunteers to drive cars and do staff work.

Persons with two years' driving experience and a driver's permit who wish to aid the Red Cross are being sought. Workers are needed to staff the reception desk at the county's new chapter house which will open in the near future.

Mrs. Charles S. Nutick, chairman of volunteer services, of Hyattsville (phone Warfield 8720), issued the plea.

Admitted to D. C. Court

Philip B. Perlman, Solicitor General of the United States, was admitted Thursday to practice law before the District Court here. Perlman was admitted by motion of the Board of Admissions and Grievances of the Court. He was sworn in by Mrs. Helen T. Nelson, deputy clerk. Perlman practiced law in Maryland for many years. He also made application to practice before the United States Court of Appeals here.

Firearms Listing Asked

Falls Church Police Chief E. H. Howe yesterday urged city residents owning firearms to register their names, addresses, and the serial number of the weapons with him.

Pointing out that the registration is not required by law in Falls Church, he said the voluntary information from citizens would aid the Police Department in the event of theft of the firearms, or in case of a crime involving the weapons.

Put Under $2000 Bond

Ethan R. F. Thompson, 46, of 300 Aspen st. nw., was placed under $2000 bond yesterday under a New Orleans indictment charging him with conspiracy to violate Federal export control laws in the shipment of 4,450,000 pounds of rice from the country. Thompson, a former rice licensing officer with the Office of International Trade here, was held for a removal hearing November 10 by United States Commissioner Cyril S. Lawrence.

Annual X-Rays Favored

School employes will be required by the Board of Education to be X-rayed every year if there are sufficient facilities in the District to do the job.

A committee of the board revamping board rules yesterday voted to include this requirement if found feasible. The schools have more than 5000 employes. At present school employes are X-rayed only when they are appointed.

Committed on Sex Count

John A. Antonelli, 24, was committed to St. Elizabeths Hospital yesterday as a sexual psychopath to remain there until he is cured.

He was ordered committed after a hearing in Municipal Court before Judge Walter J. Casey in a test case of the sex law passed in June.

Antonelli, who resides at 828 49th ave., Capitol Heights, Md., asked for mental treatment after he was charged with enticing a 5-year-old boy to commit an indecent act. He previously spent 13 months in a Maryland mental hospital after he was convicted of indecent assault upon two girls.

Walter Stone Scott

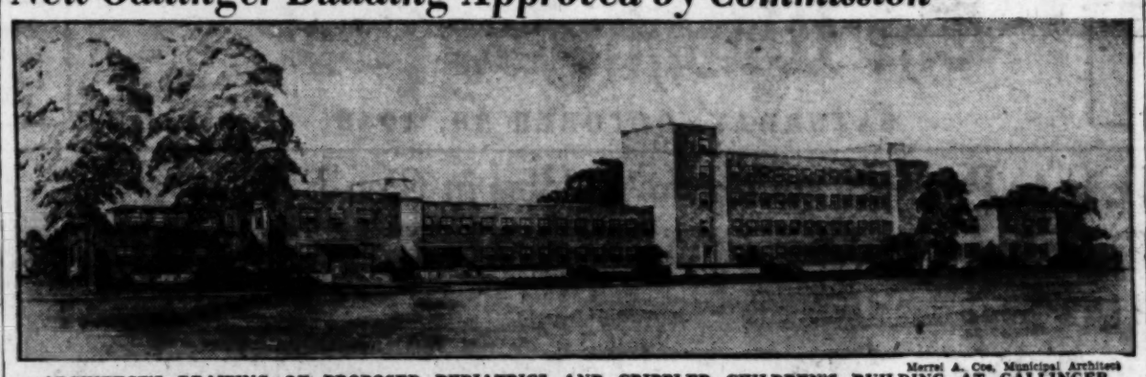
New Gallinger Building Approved by Commission



Merrel A. Coe, Municipal Architect

ARCHITECT'S DRAWING OF PROPOSED PEDIATRICS AND CRIPPLED CHILDREN'S BUILDING AT GALLINGER

Preliminary plans for a combined pediatrics and crippled children's building at Gallinger Hospital were approved by the Fine Arts Commission yesterday.

The building would be financed under a Hill-Burton Act grant. Between $600,000 and $700,000 will be sought from this Act on a matching basis, with the District putting up $2 for every $1 of Federal funds.

The city already has $620,000 from earlier appropriations for a new pediatrics building, which will be applied to the combined structure.

The commission also met jointly with the National Capital Park and Planning Commission and approved a location for a monument to be erected to Gen. Jose Artigas, founder of Uruguay.

The site approved is on a triangle, bounded by Virginia and Constitution aves. and 18th st., adjacent to the Pan American Union. The Uruguayan government is also to be consulted in the matter, Maj. Gen. Ulysses S. Grant, 3d, chairman of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, said.

The two commissions also heard a progress report from a committee named to work out proposed development of the Washington Monument Grounds. The committee is headed by Thomas C. Jeffers, NCPPC landscape architect.

The proposed development provides for squaring the roadway at the Monument's base; extension of 15th st. as a dual highway through the grounds from Constitution ave. to the roadways about the Jefferson Memorial; extension of the Mall roads with overpasses across 14th, to 15th st., where an overlook facing the Monument would be located.

Among modifications suggested at the joint meeting was curving of walks from the Monument to parking areas at the foot of the overlook.

Grant said the commissions are going to recommend adoption of the project by Congress and the Sesquicentennial Commission, even if it cannot be completed in time for the celebration in 1950.

Choice of a site for a new Cardozo High School building was discussed by the NCPPC in a conference with Dr. Hobart M. Corning, superintendent of schools, and Dr. Garnet C. Wilkinson, first assistant superintendent, but no location was decided upon, Grant said. The NCPPC is to make a further study of the project.

The schoolmen suggested no specific site, he said, but the proposal was made that a site in the area west of Banneker center and south of 7th st. nw. The present school site is at 9th st. and Rhode Island ave. nw.

The NCPPC also studied a proposal for dredging and a deep water port at Benedict on the Patuxent River, but took no action on it.

"The commission didn't feel there was sufficient justification for the project," Grant said.

Harry C. Hickman

Harry C. Hickman, 78, Frederick County dairy farmer and lifelong resident of Point of Rocks, Md., died of a heart attack yesterday at his home.

A funeral service will be held at 2 p. m. Sunday at the home, with burial in Old St. Paul's Cemetery, Point of Rocks.

Mr. Hickman was a familiar figure after the turn of the last century to passengers on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. He and his father, the late H. L. C. Hickman, established a restaurant in the 1890's at the station, then known as Washington Junction.

He operated three of Frederick County's larger farms and was active as a dairyman until his death.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Grace Paxon Hickman; a daughter, Mrs. Barbara White; a brother, Sidney R. Hickman, all of Point of Rocks, and two sisters, Mrs. Margaret A. Colby, Ossining, N. Y., and Mrs. Grant L. Hardy, 17 Rock Creek Church rd., Washington.

Dr. Horace G. Smithy

Charleston, S. C., Oct. 29 (U.P.). Last rites were held today for Dr. Horace G. Smithy, the brilliant young surgeon who died before the rare heart operation he invented could be performed in an attempt to save him.

Fourteen fellow doctors served as honorary pallbearers including Dr. Manly Stalworth, who only a week ago read a paper describing Dr. Smithy's operation at a medical convention.

More than 300 persons crowded into St. Michael's Protestant Episcopal Church for the simple services. His wife, Sarah Rankin Smithy, and his daughters, Sally and Rosalie, as well as his parents from Washington were present.

Dr. Smithy will be buried tomorrow at Berryville, Va.

Mrs. Carrie LaDow

Mrs. Carrie LaDow, 76, resident of Brookland, for almost 50 years, died of a heart condition Wednesday at Sibley Memorial Hospital.

A resident of 1254 Evarts st. ne., Mrs. LaDow came to Washington at the age of 28, with her husband, Marine Sergt. Clarence LaDow, who died some time ago.

Mrs. LaDow is survived by her son, Charles Edgar LaDow, 5734 39th ave., Hyattsville, Md., and four daughters, Mrs. Thelma Black, 609 Powhatan pl. nw., Mrs. Mary Eleanor Gilbert, 2328 13th pl. ne., Mrs. Edith Herbert and Mrs. C. Louise Atwell, also of Hyattsville.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 1 p. m. at the Deal funeral home, 4812 Georgia ave. nw. Burial will be in Arlington Cemetery.

Harry Kavookian

Harry Kavookian, 59, owner and manager of an office-apartment building at 1104 Rhode Island ave. nw., died Thursday at Georgetown Hospital where he was taken by his son after collapsing near his home, 4309 Yuma st. nw.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Monday at the Hines funeral home, 2901 14th st. nw., with the Rev. Mirhan Renjilian officiating. Burial will be in Rock Creek Cemetery

A native of Malitia, Armenia, Mr. Kavookian came to America in 1912 and opened a store in Brockton, Mass. He entered the grocery business in Washington in 1938, and later was employed at the York Hotel. Two years ago he bought the office and apartment on Rhode Island ave.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Esther Kavookian; a son, John Kavookian; two daughters, the Misses Agnes and Ann Kavookian, all of the Yuma st. address; a sister, Mrs. Tashjian Ovsania, of Brockton, and a brother, Levon Kavookian, of Philadelphia.

Zebulon Weaver, N. Carolina Ex-Congressman, Dies at 76

Zebulon Weaver, 76, North Carolina Democrat who served 14 terms in Congress before being defeated in 1946, died yesterday at his home in Asheville, N. C., the Associated Press reported.

Mr. Weaver

A lifelong resident of Buncombe County, N. C., he attended Weaver College and the University of North Carolina Law School and began private practice of law in 1894 in Asheville.

After one term each in the North Carolina Assembly and Senate, he was declared elected to Congress in 1914—by five votes. A report of a recount completed only a few days before the congressional session ended, two years later, declared his opponent, James J. Britt, had won.

Weaver was elected at each succeeding election, except in 1928, until 1946 when he was defeated in the Democratic primary by Representative Monroe Redden.

While a Representative from the Twelfth District of North Carolina, he served several years on the House Judiciary Committee. In Washington he lived at the Ambassador Hotel for many years. As an attorney he specialized in corporation and real estate law.

In 1899 he married Anne C. Hyman who died about 10 years ago. He is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Carter H. Hites, 2701 14th st. nw.; Mrs. J. Frank Johnson, Peterborough, N. H., and Mrs. Walter Cuthrell, Asheville; one son, Zebulon Weaver, jr.; a sister, Mrs. Herman Cook of Weaverville, N. C., and a brother, Irvin Weaver, Asheville.

Mrs. Alice Schwatka

Baltimore, Oct. 29 (AP).—Mrs. Alice Schwatka, a prominent Eastern Shore Democratic leader, died last night after she collapsed while dancing at a Baltimore hotel. She was 65.

Mrs. Schwatka, a native of Crisfield, was in Baltimore as a delegate from the Somerset Democratic Club to a meeting of the United Women's Democratic Clubs of Maryland.

Mrs. Snavely Dies After Long Illness

Mrs. Guy E. Snavely, 64, wife of the executive director of the Association of American Colleges, died yesterday in Georgetown University Hospital after a long illness.

The former Ada Rittenhouse of Baltimore County, Md., she was married to Dr. Snavely in 1905. She was for many years a leader in the college and community life of Birmingham, Ala., where her husband was president of Birmingham-Southern College, from 1921 to 1938.

Previously, she had been active in life of Converse College, Spartanburg College, S. C., where her husband was dean, from 1919 to 1921, and at Allegheny College, Meadville, Pa., where he was professor of Romance languages, from 1909 to 1919.

Dr. Snavely was named director of the Association of American Colleges in 1937. He and Mrs. Snavely had a home in Rock Creek Hills, Md., but moved recently to the Congressional Hotel.

Funeral services will be held Sunday at 2 p. m. in Fork Methodist Church, Baltimore County. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

Surviving besides her husband are three sons, Maj. Guy E. Snavely jr., Columbus, Ga.; Lieut. Comdr. Brant R. Snavely, High Point, N. C., and Charles A. Snavely, Baldwin, Md., and two brothers, J. Albert Rittenhouse and Lester B. Rittenhouse, Baltimore.

Powell Evans

Haverford, Pa., Oct. 29 (AP).—Powell Evans, 80, Philadelphia businessman and independent political leader, died yesterday.

His colonial maternal ancestor was Col. Leven Powell of Loudoun County, Va., a delegate to the Virginia constitutional convention.

Dr. Mitchell Dies; Leading Economist

New York, Oct. 29 (NYHT).—Dr. Wesley Clair Mitchell, 74, a founder of the National Bureau of Economic Research and one of the Nation' foremost economists, died this afternoon at New York Hospital.

Dr. Mitchell had a world-wide influence in expanding the study of economics from abstract theory to a scientific concept. He was an authority on the business cycle and the theory of money.

His studies for President Roosevelt's Committee on the High Cost of Living, in 1944, established such sound procedures that today it is a commonplace.

Dr. Mitchell was professor emeritus of economics at Columbia University. In 1947 the American Economic Association gave him a gold medal for making "the greatest contribution to economics of our generation."

He was born in Rushville, Ill., and attended the University of Chicago, where he studied under Thorstein Veblen and John Dewey. He received his Ph.D. degree there in 1899 and during the next year served at the Census Bureau.

He served on the faculties of the New School and of Chicago, California, Harvard and Oxford Universities. His connection with Columbia began in 1914.

In 1918-19 Dr. Mitchell served as chief of the price section of the War Industries Board. In 1920 he helped to found the National Bureau of Economic Research.

From 1929 to 1933 he served as chairman of President Hoover's Committee on Social Trends, President Roosevelt appointed him a member of the National Planning Board and the National Resources Board.

He was a member of the Century Club in New York and the Cosmos Club in Washington. His home was at Stamford, Conn.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Lucy Sprague Mitchell; a daughter, Miss Marion Mitchell, and three sons.

IT HAD TO BE . . .
BUT WE'RE SORRY

On October 31st, by order of the Public Utilities Commission, your transit rates will be increased. The new fares are less than requested in our petition for financial relief filed with the Commission last June.

Unlike most businesses, we cannot put a new price tag on our service overnight. We must appear before the Commission at time-consuming, tedious and expensive public hearings to prove the need for increased fares. In the meantime our outgo exceeds our income. In this case a year was consumed in proceedings before the Maryland and District Commissions, after the need for increases became evident.

It is unfortunate that your transit company was caught in the same spiral of inflated costs that raised the prices of other everyday commodities. In proportion, your transit rates have risen less than most other things which make up the cost of living.

We are deeply conscious of our responsibilities to the public. To that end we will keep applying every reasonable degree of economy commensurate with good service. However, we also believe the great majority of Washington's transit riders agree that those who invested their money to make the service possible should receive a fair and reasonable return on that investment. They are not receiving such a return.

With your help, and the efforts of our 8,000 skilled men and women, we will continue to operate a transit service "second to none" . . . a service which won five successive top national safety awards, and six successive top national maintenance efficiency awards . . . a source of pride to everyone in the Nation's Capital.

Let's do it together.

NEW FARES AT 5 A.M. SUNDAY, OCT. 31ST

By order of the Public Utilities Commission, the following fare schedule will become effective:

CASH 13¢ TOKENS 3 FOR 35¢
WEEKLY PASS $1.75

During the process of changing over to the new fares there may be some delays or difficulties due to inexperience.

With your help and understanding these can be reduced to a minimum.

HERE'S HOW YOU CAN HELP US HELP YOU:

1 Have correct fare ready when you board, drop fare promptly into fare box.
2 Buy several days' supply of tokens—6 for 70c or 9 for $1.05.
3 Buy a weekly pass—still Washington's greatest transit bargain.

THANKS FOR YOUR HELP AND COOPERATION

State Societies

Halloween Parties Fill Calendar

By Nicha Soure

SINCE Halloween is a good time to be with hometown folk, State societies have put their heads together and planned parties for their members. Tonight there will be several gettogethers with decorations of autumn foliage, black cats and witches setting the festive Halloween mood.

GOLDEN pumpkins with grotesque cutout faces will give spooky greeting to members of the North Carolina State Society and their guests when they gather for their gay Halloween dance tonight.

The fun frolic will be in the large ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel with dancing from 10 until 1. Special dances, under the direction of William Y. Webb, chairman of the floor committee, will include a harvest dance featuring apples from North Carolina orchards and a Halloween dance with fun-making favors.

Besides fortune telling there will be card games for which reservations can be made by calling Mrs. Mary Colvin Murphy at ORdway 0995.

Junior hosts and hostesses during the evening will be a group of young "Tar Heels" who are attending schools in Washington.

THE Corn Huskers (Nebraskans, of course), will dance to the music of Dave McWilliam's orchestra in the Burgundy Room of the Wardman Park Hotel tonight, beginning at 9:30 p. m.

The Halloween dance will be cabaret style with cats, witches and skeletons around the ballroom for the holiday flavor.

Featured entertainment will be given by Barbara Browning, dancing star of the "Going Native Revue" and the Hoehler Sisters presenting a special Halloween skit.

NOVEMBER 6 is the date of the next party of the Georgia State Society to be held in the West Ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel at 9 p. m., Mrs. Robert Ramspeck, president, has announced.

Dancing will begin at 10 p. m. with a program of music under the direction of Mrs. Clark Tate and a talk on the life and work of Juliette Low by Mrs. Cecil H. Hardy preceding the dancing.

For further information, call Mrs. J. W. Thurston at RAndolph 6833.

INFORMALITY will be the keynote of the western "hoedown dance" for former residents of Washington State and Alaska to be held at the Chevy Chase Women's Club on November 5.

Sweaters and skirts for women and slacks and sport shirts for men will be the "attire" for the dance. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, president, announced.

All former residents of the State and Territory are invited. Tickets may be obtained at the office of Senator Warren G. Magnuson or the Seattle Chamber of Commerce office, Colorado Building.

NOT to be outdone by Washingtonians and Alaskans, former residents of Oklahoma have slated a real Western party for the same night, November 5.

The party, the first dance of the season for the Oklahoma State Society, will be held in the West Ballroom of the Shoreham. The reception will be at 9 p. m. and dancing will begin at 10. All Oklahomans are urged "to try to dress Western."

DATES to Jot Down: November 12 will be the day of the second in a series of eight formal dances of the Pennsylvania Society of Washington. Dancing to the music of Dave McWilliams and his orchestra will be from 10 p. m. to 1 a. m. in the West Ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel.

On November 20 the Minnesota State Society will have a Chicago-Northwestern Railroad Centennial Party in the new Shoreham Hotel ballroom. Maj. Gen. Carl R. Gray, jr., is general chairman in charge of the unusual affair.

Notices for this column should be sent to State Society Editor, Room 409, The Washington Post, by 6 p. m. Thursday.

MISS PATRICE MUNSEL, coloratura of the Metropolitan Opera, is shown in the gown she will wear at her concert Sunday afternoon at Constitution Hall. Her dress was adapted from Jenny Lind's costumes and most of her selections Sunday will be songs that the "Swedish Nightingale" made famous

Patrice Munsel Gets a Lift Whipping Up Own Costumes

Patrice Munsel, the Metropolitan Opera's youngest coloratura, who will give a concert Sunday at Constitution Hall, is quite a fashion connoisseur.

She designs and makes her own clothes and claims that there's no other hobby so relaxing or that gives you a "better lift."

The pretty brunette opera star is now engaged in her biggest fashion project. It's a chartreuse strapless evening gown with a lampshade silk skirt and matching mink-trimmed stole.

"Sure, it's a lot of work," she admitted, "but I can just imagine the day when someone might say to me, "My dear, did you get that from Hattie Carnegie?"

The 23-year-old opera star said the best-dressed women she saw on her recent three-month tour of Europe were the Italians.

"I naturally expected that the Parisian women would be the most glamorous and fashion-conscious," she said, "but I was frankly disappointed in their gowns."

Of course there are a few women in France who are meticulous dressers, she said, but the Italian women—the middle class as well as the very wealthy—are all perfect dressers. "Their gowns were simply out of this world."

Troops Honor Col. Sherer

The Second Army troops at Fort Meade, Md., passed in review yesterday afternoon in honor of Lieut. Col. Burdette B. Sherer, who has retired after 30 years in the Army Nurse Corps. For the past five years Colonel Sherer has served as chief nurse of the Second Army.

Lieut. Gen. Leonard T. Gerow, Second Army commander, presented Colonel Sherer a letter of commendation in recognition of her services.

The veteran nurse, who lists Louisville, Ohio, as her home town, says she will spend the next few months traveling and after that she has no definite plans.

She was appointed a second lieutenant in the Nurse Corps in 1918 at Edgewood Arsenal, Md., and later served at Walter Reed Hospital, Fort Eustis, Va.; Sanford General Hospital, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and in the Philippines.

She will be succeeded by Lieut. Col. Elizabeth G. Mivson.

Club, Industrial Leaders Debate Youth Programs

By Genevieve Reynolds

Representatives of comic strip publishers, radio, television and motion pictures industries yesterday refused to accept the blame for the rise in juvenile delinquency in the United States. Denial of responsibility came during a forum discussion on "Improving the Standard of Programs for Children," sponsored by the General Federation of Women's Clubs in the National Educational Association headquarters on 16th st. nw.

Participating in the lively debate were representatives of comic magazine publishers, the Motion Picture Association, National Association of Broadcasters, Television Broadcasters, plus dozens of lay groups including the American Association of University Women, National Congress of Parents and Teachers, National Association of Colored Women, Young Women's Christian Association, National Jewish Welfare Board and the Federal Council of Churches.

At the conclusion of the all-day session conference leaders adopted a resolution to set up an interim committee composed of lay organizations including children and adult groups, plus representatives of radio, television, motion pictures and comic magazines to establish a council. Purpose of the council would be to improve the standard of children's programs through all medias. All memberships in the council will be voluntary.

Henry E. Schultz, executive director, Association of Comic Magazine Publishers, opened the discussion with the remark that "my organization is the victim of hysteria". He pointed out that between 50 and 60 million comic books are published monthly and that his association carries about one third. "We haven't been able to determine whether comic books are read more by adults or children. Crime comics are not pitched to children readers but to grownups," he said.

Crime Books Lead

"During the war comic crime books sold 10 to 1 over all other magazines and publications in the Army," he continued. "Most successful crime comic is 'Crime Does Not Pay,' which runs eleventh or twelfth in all magazines and newspapers."

Roger Albright, director, educational services department of the Motion Picture Association, told the association leaders attending the conference that it was "easy and fashionable to come up with a convenient scapegoat for juvenile delinquency."

"Sometimes the target is the motion picture, the radio or the newspaper comic," he declared. "I think most parents—certainly most authorities—realize that the entire question of social, economic background and environment must be explored before the causes of juvenile delinquency can be rooted out."

Asks About Code

Mrs. Robert W. Cornelison, president of the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs, asked Dr. DeBra, director of the community relations department of the Motion Picture Association, why a Broadway motion picture theater carried such lurid advertisements if the industry's code of ethics were working.

"I was riding by the theater and the illustrations for the picture were the bawdiest I have ever seen," she averred indignantly. "I didn't have my notebook along, so I don't remember the name of the picture.

Dr. DeBra quickly indentified the picture as "Volpone," a French production, which along with other imported films, do not come under this country's motion picture code, he said. Then he explained that it would be shown in only a few art centers of this country.

Mrs. Leslie Wright of this city, national legislation chairman of the federation's legislation department, said that there has been too much talk about education and too little about children's entertainment.

"We take our children to the circus because it is entertaining, not educational," she said. 'I don't see why these industries have to take over the education of our children.

"Just give us clean shows that are entertaining,' concluded Mrs. Wright.

When Mrs. J. L. Blair Buck, federation president, asked if there were any comments on Mrs. Wright's remarks, G. Emerson Markham of the Television Broadcasters' Association, quipped, "yes, amen."

Steps Recommended

Miss Dorothy Gordon, New York Times Youth Forum moderator, said that the barrier between education and entertainment must be broken down. She recommended the following steps to obtain programs for children: (1) industry to stop defending itself unnecessarily; (2) to cut out the preponderance of crime stories, but to avoid excessive talk of censorship as "codes and standards" would emasculate creative ability; (4) adults to quit being nostalgic for the programs of their youth and to face up to the fact times have changed; (5) for industry to put greater effort in sustaining programs; (6) for groups to make up their minds what they want in radio and to remember that radios and motion pictures can't produce for the minority groups—children under 7—and the critics who haven't listened in to children's programs to begin now; (8) intelligent cooperation to aid the producers in advertising and selling good programs or movies.

Then Mrs. Frances Mayfarth, editor of Childhood Education, organ of the Association for Childhood Education, spoke up and suggested that each man and woman present take a group of five or more children to the movies and sit thrugh the films the children like, and to read comic books with the children as well as listen to all the radio programs of their choice. "Only then can we judge youth's reaction to the movies, comic strips and radio programs," she advised. "And next time we assemble, we'll have a definite survey on which to start—that is, if enough women of the country will follow that procedure."

Turkish Independence Celebration and Round Of Cocktail Parties Fill Calendar for Day

By Marie McNair

THE PARTY at the Turkish Embassy yesterday celebrated a quarter of a century of that country's independence and it was the first official party in Washington for the newly arrived Ambassador and Mme. Erkin.

With half a dozen dates on the calendar for the party loving set it was touch and go most of the afternoon and an ever changing sea of faces moved through the embassy drawing room suite.

The Ambassador and Mme. Erkin had one of their three nieces—Miss Selva Fattah, receiving with them. The hostess wore a long black satin gown with gilet of pale pink satin encrusted in sequins of various tones. Miss Fattah's gown of brown taffeta striped satin was made with a full ankle-length skirt.

The most pictorial guest to be found at this annual party is the Orthodox Greek Archbishop Athenagoras, a towering figure in full black robes and waist-length gray beard. Yesterday he held his own court from a sofa in the wide foyer, chatting for a time with the Greek Ambassador, Vassili Dendramis, on one side, and Mme. Dendramis wearing a shining satin suit and turquoise felt hat, on the other.

The Norwegian Ambassador and Mme. Munthe de Morgenstierne I had seen earlier at Mrs. John Allan Dougherty's cocktail party. The Belgian Ambassador, Baron Robert Silvercruys, ducked in and was soon on his way; the Italian Ambassador and Signora Tarchiani, were still renewing friendships after a summer's absence abroad.

The Chinese Ambassador, Wellington Koo, and Mme. Koo, in sleek black embroidered in gold discs, stood to talk with the former French Premier and Mme. Chautemps, the latter in trim black satin suit with sprays of flecked ostrich for a hat.

In another group were Mrs. Emil Hurja, the Philippine Ambassador, Joaquin Elizalde and Robert Woods Bliss.

I caught a glimpse of the tall and handsome Mrs. John Nicholas Brown, making her way through with Mr. Brown, to the ballroom where a bar and buffet table supplemented the tables in the dining room.

At least one American guest there yesterday could boast that she had taken part, in some part of the world, in every one of the 25 Turkish independence days. She was Mrs. Julian Gillespie whose husband was assigned to the United States Embassy in the Turkish capital from 1921 until his death in 1939.

There was another guest there too, whose interest in Turkey dates back to the days following World War I. That was Mrs. Robert Whitney Imbrie who wore the red crescent pin pinned to her black frock.

Fleet Admiral William D. Leahy, Chief of Staff to President Truman, offered felicitations to his hosts on the day, and others there were the Netherlands Ambassador, Eelco van Kleffens, stopping for conversation with Mrs. Walter Tuckerman; the Luxembourg Minister and Mme. LeGallais, the Syrian Minister and Mme. El-Khouri, the Ethiopian Minister and Mme. Imru.

Saw Admiral and Mrs. David LeBreton, Mr. and Mrs. Constantine Stackelberg, the Frederick Livesays and Ray Muir from the State Department; and Mrs. James Souby in a good-looking ruby and black changeable brocade taffeta gown. Then there were Mrs. Gilbert Hitchcock, Admiral and Mrs. Glenn David, Gen. and Mrs. Philip Fleming, Judge and Mrs. George Neilson, Miss Carolyn Nash, the Ecuador Ambassador and Senora de Dillon, and Mr. and Mrs. Corrin Strong.

Gen. Gordon Young threatened to steal the wings from a lady's hat to fulfill Mrs. Young's wish for a bird. Pretty Mrs. Spurgeon, wife of the Naval Attache of the Australian Embassy, Capt. S. H. K. Spurgeon, told me she's expecting Norvel Munford Mullally to visit her on Monday. Mrs. Morris Cafritz's friends were admiring her bottle green faille taffeta suit worn with a Paris hat of cafe au lait velvet, feather trimmed.

Then there were Mrs. Clarence N. Goodwin setting off her Titian hair with an all black costume; Mrs. W. D. Whittemore, Mme. Grace Espaillat, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Morris, Mrs. George Thorpe, Mrs. McCeney Werlich, wearing a becoming gray velvet hat framed in ostrich; Mrs. Peyton March, Miss Bertha Joseph, who went on from there to Mr. and Mrs. George Allen's party for General and Mrs. Eisenhower; Lothrop Stoddard and Mrs. Stoddard, in a lovely bright blue and gold brocade made in Chinese fashion in Korea; Miss Sally Lorimer of Philadelphia, and good looking young David LeBreton, jr., of the State Department.

MRS. JOHN ALLAN DOUGHERTY is one of the few hostesses left in this town whose friends are what is called "old Washington." Yesterday she had them all there to greet Gen. Pelham Glassford, former Chief of Police of Washington, and Mrs. Glassford, a slim, dark and pretty woman, who came with her husband from their home in Laguna Beach, Calif.

Since retiring from active service, the general, who doesn't look a day older than when he left, has devoted himself to his art. Always a dabbler, ever since he can remember, he now has the time to take it seriously, is doing famously as an artist and is having lots of fun besides.

His friendship with Mrs. Dougherty dates back to Peggy Dougherty's interest in the Metropolitan Police Boys Club.

Yesterday was Mrs. Dougherty's birthday so there was double reason to celebrate.

Peggy Dougherty has had a number of birthdays since those years and the few who remembered the day yesterday whispered congratulations in her ear.

On the candelit tea table were hams and turkeys, sliced wafer thin to be put between thinly sliced and buttered bread; tiny ready-made sandwiches and rich looking homemade cake with deep frosting to go with steaming cups of coffee and tea. At the tea table in turn were Mrs. Randolph Coleman, Mrs. Fred Britten, Mrs. Edward E. Gann and Mrs. George Becker. And gathered around the tea table I saw Gen. and Mrs. Conger Pratt; former Ambassador and Mrs. Stanley Hornbeck, Gen. Albert Cox and Mrs. Cox, and Mrs. Emerson Howe and Miss Mary Howry drinking their tea together.

Others there were Mrs. Daniel Stapleton, bringing with her her daughter, Mrs. George Renchard—Stellita to her friends—who landed here Tuesday by plane from Europe. Mrs. Henry Flood was there, and Mrs. Emlen Knight Davies, Mrs. Deborah Leighton Glassford, Mrs. William S. Culbertson, Mrs. Harold Walker and son, Aldace; Col. and Mrs. Robert Guggenheim, Mrs. Buchanan Merryman and Mrs. Wilbur Carr.

Mrs. I. T. Mann, recently returned from the West, brought news that her daughter has purchased another ranch; Lyle Brookover found Mme. Vladimir Rybar pleasant company and still others there were Mrs. Geneva Dunham, genial Paul Murphy of the Pan American Union; Mrs. Dorothy Lee Ward, looking extremely smart in a Paquin gown and pale blue Paris hat; Mme. Sze, wife of the former Chinese Minister; Mrs. D. Lawrence Groner, Mrs. Sidney Graves and Miss Elizabeth Howry.

GEN. AND Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower were guests of honor yesterday at a cocktail party given by Mr. and Mrs. George E. Allen at their apartment in the Wardman Park Hotel. The General and his wife are being feted at a round of parties during their short stay in the Capital. For yesterday's party Mrs. Eisenhower wore a black taffeta gown with off-shoulder neckline.

Among the guests were Maj. and Mrs. Robert L. Schulz, who arrived with the Eisenhowers, Mrs. Helen Russell in black wool, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Clark Woodward, who have just returned from Florida and Georgia, Mrs. John Shugrew and Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Everett Hughes.

Joseph Davies was a guest and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sherrod, and Mrs. Tom Clark, whose husband, the Attorney General, is out of town. Mrs. Kenneth Royall came with Mr. and Mrs. Chip Robert and Thomas Stephens. Col. and Mrs. Anthony Biddle were there, and also Mr. and Mrs. Roy St. Lewis.

Still others included Mrs. Burt Andrews, Charles Gannon, Mrs. Ruth Butcher, Miss Beverly Butcher, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Titus, John A. Logan, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen T. Early, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Vardaman, Lieut. Gen. and Mrs. W. H. Haislip, Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone Williams, Mrs. John B. Hull, Miss Nancy Rheem and Turner Bailey.

FOR SOME 60 guests last evening it was cocktails first at the Phillips Clarkes and then on to the Luttrells for buffet supper. Mr. and Mrs. Phillips Clarke entertained at their home on Bancroft pl. from 6 to 8 o'clock. Among their guests were Mrs. George Renchard, who is home on a visit from Vienna, Austria, where her husband is on duty at the United States Embassy, and Laurence Scott Barringer of South Carolina.

Around 8:30 the entire cocktail party had moved to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Luttrell in Falls Church, where supper was served. A member of Sydney's orchestra provided entertainment on the piano.

Mrs. Nina Lunn, mother of the hostess, was among the guests. Others included Mr. and Mrs. Peter Ansberry, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Guggenheim, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Moulton of Warrenton, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Adams, Miss Dolly Corbin and Taylor Simmons.

THE FIRST of the Friday Supper Club dances was held last night at the Sulgrave Club with a number of dinner parties given before.

This year the supper club group danced to a rumba trio downstairs as well as upstairs in the ballroom where Meyer Davis and his orchestra played.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Wilkins, jr., had guests dining with them before the dance, so did the Undersecretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Edward H. Foley, jr., Mrs. Pearsons Rust, Col. and Mrs. Pierpont M. Hamilton and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Clagett.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wilkins included Mr. and Mrs. John Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. George Wheeler, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Price, Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Aires, Mr. and Mrs. Deering Daniels of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Quinn of Narragansett, R. I.; Miss Emily Davis, Henry Field of Providence, R. I.; Harry Hoskinson, Frank Hinckley and Orhan Eralp, First Secretary of the Turkish Embassy.

Colonel and Mrs. Hamilton's guests were Gen. and Mrs. Lauris Norstad, Mr. and Mrs. J. Bradley Gaylord, C. Tiffany Richardson and Burdette Wright.

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Clagett of Middleburg, Va., who are weekend guests of the Tom Clagetts, were the latter's guests at dinner at the Chevy Chase Club before going on to the dance.

ANOTHER PARTY in a crowded afternoon yesterday was given by Mr. and Mrs. John Shields for their guest, Mrs. Marion Sommerville Stafford of Garden City, Long Island, who is back for a visit to the city where she once made her home. Tania Shields' blond beauty was set off by a brown frock and a cluster of gardenias was pinned to her shoulder.

Among those stopping in to greet the visitor were the retiring Counselor of the Greek Emtbassy and Mme. Economou-Gouras, the Egyptian Minister, Anis Azer; the First Secretary of the Greek Embassy and Mme. Kapsambelis; the Counselor of the Colombian Embassy, Jose Camacho; Mr. and Mrs. E. McKinney Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Hatch, Mrs. William D. Byron, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Ansberry and Mr. and Mme. I. V. Mishtowt.

Then there were Donald Downs, Mrs. Martin Vogel with Miss Nan Garcia, Mr. and Mrs. James Souby, Mrs. Jamshed Vesugar, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Andrews, Capt. and Mrs. John P. Jackson, the Agricultural Attache of the Spanish Embassy and Senora Echegaray; Mr. and Mrs. Lothrop Stoddard, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas de Rachat, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Hurja, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Acheson, Tilghman Bunch, Miss Mary Alice Stoddard, Mr. and Mrs. Royce Powell, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Ford and Walter Myers, Assistant Postmaster General.

THE Ambassador of India and Lady Rama Rau entertained yesterday at a tea in honor of their house guest, Srimati Rukmini Devi, noted dancer of India. Mrs. Rukmini Devi is visiting the Ambassador and Lady Rama Rau for two or three days. She will give a recital at Pierce Hall this evening, interpreting Bharata Natya, the ancient classical dance of South India. Some of her dances are 5000 years old.

Guests yesterday numbered around 30, and were drawn mostly from the press.

Miss McNeese Is Bride of Alan G. Bishop

In Holy Trinity Church yesterday afternoon Miss Laura Butler McNeese and Alan Grayson Bishop were married. The Rev. Hugh McCarron officiated at the ceremony and a reception followed at the Washington Club.

Mrs. Bishop is the daughter of Col. and Mrs. O. W. McNeese of Washington, and her husband is the son of Russell G. Bishop, also of Washington. The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her gown was of candlelight satin and she carried a bouquet of white roses. Her veil of illusion was held by a wreath of orange blossoms.

Mrs. F. R. Youngblood of Washington was matron of honor. The other attendants were Miss Faiflie Lemly and Mrs. H. J. Vorder Bruegge, both of Washington. Miss Lauralee Youngblood, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

W. Randolph Bishop was best man. Ushering were Howard J. Vorder Bruegge, David C. Murchison, William Kerr and Dr. Walter Hannah.

After a wedding trip through New England, Mr. and Mrs. Bishop will reside in Parkfairfax, Va.

Miss LeCompte and Lieut. Davis Marry

Miss Jacqueline LeCompte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert M. LeCompte of Arlington, Va., was married on October 23, at Cherrydale Methodist Church to Lieut. Buell Z. Davis, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Davis of Spokane, Wash. The Rev. H. W. Craver performed the ceremony and Mr. LeCompte gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride wore a gray satin suit with gray accessories and carried a prayerbook. Miss Mary Jane Dove of Staunton, Va., was maid of honor. The best man was Albert M. LeCompte, jr., and the ushers were Leslie Thomas and William Eaton. A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents.

On return from their honeymoon the newlyweds will make their home in Pensacola, Fla. Lieutenant Davis attended Washington State University.

About Making Over Out-Moded Furs

I have a whole trunk of furs which are out of fashion. I am quite good at sewing and would like to learn to remodel and sew furs. Is there is a place in Washington where I could sew furs. Is there a place where I could rent or buy a fur sewing machine? T. S. S.

I have been unable to find a school which teaches fur sewing or a firm which rents or sells a fur sewing machine. Can any Ask Anne reader help T. S. S.?

What is the best method for cleaning a fine made-to-order hair switch? I would like to care for this at home. I have been told that, when these are cleaned professionally, they are not washed with soap and water. S. M. R.

There is a hair goods firm which sells a product made especially for cleaning switches. It is applied to the hair with cotton and the cleaning is done without soap and water. To reach the firm selling this product call Adams 4470. Follow the directions for applying which come with the product.

Where can I find gold or silver Chinese tea paper? L. W. B.

There is a shop in Georgetown which sells this paper. The telephone number is Hobart 3657.

Where in Washington can one have a bathing suit made to order? M. E. R.

I have not been able to find anyone who makes the knitted type of bathing suit to order. However, since so many suits are made of dress fabrics these days, probably a dressmaker would be able to make that type for you.

Can you tell me if there is some organization or group in Washington that is collecting clothing for American Indians on the reservations? I have several articles of very useful clothing and would like to have them sent to Indians. L. W.

I don't happen to know of such a group. Perhaps some reader will have a suggestion.

In about 10 days I am flying across the border. I would like to take with me some jelly and marmalade jars. These jars are vapor-vacuum sealed and I would like to know if the plane's altitude, air pressure, etc., will cause these jars to burst open. J. P.

The public relations office of a large airline assures me that you will have no difficulty with the jars if they are properly capped.

I'm very anxious to find a place where I may learn leathercraft. In particular, I'd like to learn to make dressy leather handbags, billfolds, etc., as well as sports leathercraft. Is there such a place in the Washington vicinity? Or is there a way one might attempt such craft by book, pattern or correspondence? Also, are there any stores that supply the needed leather and tools? H. V. L.

One local craft shop that teaches leather work is located on P st. near Wisconsin ave., in Georgetown. It has evening classes from 7 to 9 p. m. on Mondays, daytime classes from 2 to 4 o'clock on Wednesdays. These classes are for people who want to take up leathercraft as a hobby. The shop sells the tools needed. Its telephone number is Dupont 6607. Leather for the purposes you mention can be bought from a shop on 14th st., the telephone number for which is Executive 0961.

'Yeses' and 'Noes' in the Kitchen

To the young child, the kitchen is a fascinating place. He would like to spend a good deal of time there "helping" mother or just playing with all the interesting things there are to be explored. Because there have to be so many "noes" in the kitchen we sometimes forget that there can be a good many "yeses" as well.

Equipped with a waterproof apron, the young child can pour water from one can into others; he can use the egg beater and some of the measuring spoons, and there's no real reason why he can't have dried beans or rice to play with.

The interested mother can figure out other activities, too, and as the youngster grows older, he can be given more and more leeway. To look for the "yeses" is as important as lining up the "noes" when it comes to play in the kitchen.

Novel Staging Aids Sundgaard

By Richard L. Coe

IN "THE GREAT CAMPAIGN," the G.W. University Players are offering an interesting, often amusing, exercise in experimental staging—levels, seesaws, swings and all the paraphernalia dear to the hearts of the trail-blazers.

This tricky direction, acted by assured students, is a good thing for Arnold Sundgaard's play, a melange of drama, comedy, song and style that seems to embody what the newer crop of playwrights is trying to do with the stage medium.

Listening to Sundgaard's diffused play, one can't help paraphrasing King Claudius of "Hamlet." The writer's thoughts fly up; his words remain below.

This, it seems to me, is the essential flaw in our younger playwrights. They simply cannot put their soaring thoughts into words. They cannot marshal all the things they want to say. They cannot discipline the parade of ideas which streaks across their imagination.

Sundgaard—whose first performance this is in Washington—has been an admired writer of the younger group for some years. He's had two plays produced, besides this one, in New York, "The First Crocus" and "Everywhere I Roam." He undoubtedly speaks for the new generation whose imaginations were kindled by Thornton Wilder's "Our Town" and "The Skin of Our Teeth," by Saroyan's beguiling formlessness, by Odets' idealism and by the haunting well-springs of Tennessee Williams. But he has not found the words that have come to these men and he lacks the control to be specific about what he is trying to do.

Trick Direction Apt

His story concerns an upright farmer whose son is first seen as a religious fanatic expecting the end of the world. When this does not come off, the son gets sucked into a worthless campaign for the Presidency. In the end he assures the election of a foolish tool of scoundrels by stealing a speech of his father's, who, seeing through the shoddy nature of his son's associates, campaigns for the White House himself.

It is, if you will, a parable, told with flashes of humor but with the loose thinking of convenience, not command. That the honest man's campaign should fail through his son's weak duplicity is surely a reflection on the righteous parents' upbringing of their son. While this is but an impressionistic fable and not to be taken literally, the fact remains it pushes a hole in the situation.

Director Edward Mangrum's handling of the staging is apt. I think he's tried to capture the fun that simmers through the script, and he succeeds often. There is an amusing sequence when the kingmakers are skipping rope that is heartily to be commended. You'll note the subtlety of having characters who agree swing in unison while those who disagree push back and forth at a split rhythm. You may find the first-act seesawing of the politicians a bit tiring, but you'll have to admit it's fun, which is exactly what this experimental trick is supposed to be. Don't be frightened by these tricks. Unusual they are, but they're supposed to be amusing. Let it go at that.

G. W. Coming Up

While I don't know as much about this stylized staging as I'd like to know, I'm glad that Mangum realized that it would apply to the benefit of Sundgaard's script. The performance represents one more advance over what one found at the university before the speech and drama department was reorganized a year ago. Against this perspective, and remembering that Mangum received some of his training across the city at C. U., one can't help rejoicing that G. W. is battling its way into the fascinations of theater.

As the farmer-father, Henry Daniłowicz is fine, dignified and well-spoken. His is the best performance of the lot, as it should be. Other roles of importance are taken by Charles Vorbach, as the son; Louise Gertz, as the mother; Stan Telchin, as a wandering trumpeter; Betty Caldwell, as a cheerful drum-majorette, and Warner Schreiner, as the rival candidate. Fred Buschmeyer brings a youthfully pleasant voice and a likable personality to the role of the neighbor who leads the farmer's campaign.

"The Great Campaign" will be repeated tonight at Lisner Auditorium.

Pearl Bailey's Laments Help A Little in Capitol Feature

By Paul Hume

IF YOU CAN imagine Veronica Lake with hair upswept, saying (with a straight face), "I think is some earlier incarnation I must have been a woodchuck," then you can imagine something of the gist of the Capitol's present bore.

Three gals, to wit: Candy, Susie and Rose, have trouble with father, a Southern major, suh, from the War Between the States. He's still fighting Chickamaugua instead of going out to earn his motherless daughters a living. An Indiana locale seems unimportant, but the dialogue keeps bringing it up.

Speaking of dialogue, you hear such gems as "No woman is an old maid until they close the lid on her." Then there's a little hellion called Hannibal who spies a chocolate-frosted angel food on the table and murmurs between drools. "Whaddya know, loose cake!" Susie, the middle beauty of the house, is ecstatic over a new perfume she refers to as "Utter Collapse," and Rose, the youngest, appropriately nicknamed Gangrene, comes out with lines we hoped never to hear again.

If this account of "Isn't It Romantic" seems to wander, so does the picture. The best thing about the whole business is Pearl Bailey. In the unlikely role of housemaid, Pearl ("I'm Tired") sings two laments perfectly suited to her talents. "How, and Where, and When" is good, but the way she does, "I Should have Quit When I Was Ahead," is even more down her alley.

A variety of parlor games, Fourth of July picnics and takeoffs on early nickelodeons fills up the 87 minutes used in a routine Class C. Fine family fare if a bit vapid.

Evalyn Tyner on Stage

On the Capital's stage, Evalyn Tyner runs things in Sam Jack Kaufman's vacation absence. Her own piano playing is as good as ever, in Twelfth Street Rag. The Ames brothers sing together and solo, and Grace Drysdale runs her puppets through some ballroom dancing acts.

Milt Slosser and the audience work over a few songs, and then a horror of a short subject called "Liebestraum" comes on the screen. According to the description preceding it, Liebestraum was written by Liszt to enshrine some great passion—no specific names, just any great love. The short turns out to be blue in color and consists of nothing but two moose (meese?) making love, fighting, and one of them dying. I don't get it.

D. C. Clearings Continue Dip In October

By S. Oliver Goodman

Bank clearings, one of Washington's most reliable business barometers, dipped again in October. This is the second consecutive month that the index has shown a drop under the same 1947 period.

October clearings totaled $311,672,901, off about 10 million from last year. This is the first time in more than six years that a downward trend has been exhibited.

However, don't don sackcloth yet. Clearings for the first 10 months this year set a new record of $2,997,946,653, according to George H. Bright, manager of the Clearing House Association. This compared with $2,820,209,417 in the corresponding 1947 period.

	1948	1947
January	$300,050,588	$282,970,821
February	251,136,377	239,949,317
March	308,515,679	266,848,633
April	322,440,133	296,611,486

PROMOTION: Arthur B. Hammond of Arlington, Va., has been promoted to plant supervisor of Shell Oil Co. for the District of Columbia and five neighboring States, it was announced yesterday. Hammond has been superintendent of Shell's Alexandria depot for the past nine years. A graduate of Washington and Lee High School, Hammond joined Shell in 1935 as a driver salesman. He was promoted through jobs of increasing responsibility to his present position. Norman McK. Barrett of Alexandria will succeed him as Alexandria depot superintendent.

STORE SALES: Washington department store sales in week ended October 23 advanced 9 per cent over the same 1947 period. For the four weeks ended October 23, local dollar volume was also 9 per cent improved. Regionally, store sales were up 13 per cent for the week and 9 per cent for the four weeks. Figures were reported last night by the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond.

ODD LOTS: The 12 Federal Reserve banks bought 550 million dollars in Government bonds during the week ended October 27, the highest weekly total in more than a month . . . Monsanto Chemical Co.'s claims for losses in the Texas City disaster have been settled for $17,312,000 . . . Auto output this week is estimated at 110,809, compared with 117,412 in the previous week. Drop was attributed to Buick shutdown for model changeover . . . Two U. S. Steel subsidiaries have increased prices one-half cent a pound for steel products combined with zinc . . . Internal Revenue Bureau reported output of whisky and all other distilled spirits dropped in fiscal year ended June 30, but output of beer was heavier.

EARNINGS: Republic Aviation Corp. reported a net profit of $2,274,870 for the first nine months this year, equal to $2.27 a common share. This compared with a net loss of $943,852 for the same 1947 period. Other earnings reports:

Look at the lineup of standout features you'll get in SUNDAY'S POST

Thunderous battle, pulse-pounding emotion, nerve-tingling thrills

Three more dynamic "Tales of the South Pacific"

"The Strike"—Captain Kelley was a man of steel, but he had a vulnerable spot, and Bus Adams found it . . .

"Passion"—the story of three letters to three wives, and of the men who wrote them.

Outlook for Apartment-Seekers

Be The Belle Of The Holiday Party!

Wartime black is a thing of the past—Your dress-up frock for the Thanksgiving-through-New Year's season must be gay and gaudy. "Fashion Telling By Spadea" shows you the latest in color, cut and cloth for festive wear. Fashion artist Jean Spadea illustrates, Post fashion editor Peggy Preston describes.

Section IV.

Washington's Best Football Coverage!

More eyewitness stories of college games in this area by staff reporters than in any other Washington paper. More nationwide scores. Play-by-play accounts and fast-action pictures of leading games in every section of the country.

"Texas Border Patrol"

GOVERNMENT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA, October 18, 1948. A public hearing having been held by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia in the matter of closing certain street area and public alleys in the District of Columbia, as hereinafter described, and said Commissioners are of the opinion that the street area and alleys referred to should be closed, notice is hereby given that under date of September 30, 1948, they have prepared the following order: "Ordered that pursuant to the provisions of Public Act No. 307, approved December 15, 1932, the street and alley areas as shown in green on plats filed in the Office of the Surveyor of the District of Columbia and numbered as Maps 3422, 3423, 3425, 3426, 3427, 3428, 3429, 3430 and 3431 are hereby ordered closed; same to take effect on and after November 8, 1948; the title to the land comprised in said areas so closed to revert to the abutting property owners as shown on said maps; the said closings to take effect jointly or separately by subsequent order or orders on the effective date aforesaid, according to Items 1, 2, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10, described as follows: 1. Closing of part of Broad Branch Terrace, N.W., between Fessenden Street and Linnean Avenue, and part of public alley in Square 2032; and providing for a dedication of 33rd Street, 34th Street, Linnean Terrace, and public alleys in surrounding area; 2. Closing of public alley abutting Lots 94, 95 and 150 in Square 3363; 4. Closing of a part of Fulton Street, N.W., abutting Parcel 11/83 and Lot 1 of Square 1411; 5. Closing of part of Water Street, S.W., between N and S Streets; 6. Closing of public alley in Square 2642; 7. Closing of public alley abutting Lots 53 and 54 in Square 1746; 8. Closing of Hilltop Terrace, S. E., between P and G Streets, and a part of G Street, between Burns and Chaplin Streets; and providing for dedication of additional street and alley area in lieu thereof; 9. Closing of public alley abutting Lots 404 and 1190 in Square 1301; and 10. Closing of part of Webster Street, N. E., east of 2d Street, abutting Lot 800 in Square 3672." Any and all parties interested must file, in writing, with the Commissioners, D. C., objections, if any, to these closings, or as to any item providing for the closing listed above, before November 8, 1948; otherwise said closings shall become effective on and after that date, in accordance with the provisions of Public Act. No. 307, approved December 15, 1932. JOHN RUSSELL YOUNG, GUY MASON, GORDON R. YOUNG, Commissioners of the District of Columbia.

THE SAINT

I AIN'T SEEN NEITHER OF YOU BEFORE, AND I AIN'T GOT NOTHIN' TO TALK ABOUT!
HE'S EMBARRASSED BECAUSE HIS CLOTHES ARE MUSSED. MAYBE WE SHOULD WARM UP THE ELECTRIC IRON AND PRESS THEM FOR HIM--WITHOUT TAKING THEM OFF, OF COURSE.
WHAT'S THIS ALL ABOUT AND WHO DO YOU THINK YOU ARE, ANYWAY?
A FAIR QUESTION, TRIGGER. SOME PEOPLE CALL ME THE SAINT.
YOU STILL CAN'T DO NOTHIN' TO ME! BECAUSE FOR ONE THING, IF YOU SO MUCH AS TOUCH ME AGAIN I'M GONNA SCREAM SO THEY CAN HEAR IT FOR SIX BLOCKS...
... AND FOR ANOTHER THING, IF JOLLY JOE EVEN THINKS YOU STARTED TO WORK ON ME, YOUR GIRL FRIEND'LL GET THE SAME TREATMENT THAT JUNE DAY GOT!

Mrs. Michael Mason
New York, N.Y.
Dear Madam;
It is with deepest regret that we convey to you this information.
Investigation of the recent crash by one of our passenger planes in the upper Amazon valley has proved conclusively that your husband was among the 21 passengers who perished in the tragedy.
We are sending you such of his effects as were not removed by fire.
I RECEIVED THE PACKAGE OF HIS EFFECTS ..A DECK OF CARDS AND THE CHARRED STUBS OF 50 LOTTERY TICKETS!... THAT WAS THE ESTATE HE LEFT FOR DONN AND ME! ..SO..HERE I AM IN HOLLYWOOD, MAKING A PRETTY HARD DOLLAR AS A FILM WRITER!
I'M BACK, ANGEL! WITH PITCHAS OF YOUR NEXT LEADING MAN! BUT YA GOTTA KEEP A SECRUT! CAN YA DO THAT?
I'VE KEPT MY AGE, AIN'T I? ..GO ON! SHOW ME THIS SWOON-GOON!

English Can't Be Very Hard to Learn; Even Children Pick It Up

Antonyms are supposed to be words of opposite meaning, and they usually are—except when they're synonyms.

A colleague of mine recalls an incident involving a Japanese copyreader who worked on a St. Paul newspaper some years ago.

The Japanese had written, "Candidate Smith has a fat chance of being elected." The boss took exception to the sentence.

"Candidate Smith has a good chance of being elected," he remonstrated.

"Isn't that what I said?" asked the copyreader. "He has a fat chance."

"No, no—'a fat chance' means he has a poor chance."

"Oh? Then what does 'a slim chance' mean?"

At last reports, the boss was studying Japanese, convinced that it was the easier of the two languages to master.

REMINDER

Let's not forget Dorothy Kilmer, the girl for whom our City Stepfathers think we should "do nothing."

Through no fault of her own, Dorothy was crippled for life by a policeman's bullet. For all our officials know or care, she's going to spend the rest of her days in a wheelchair.

But the best medical brains in Washington say that Dorothy can learn to "walk" again, through modern methods of "physical rehabilitation."

To see her through the long series of treatments and provide the special braces she'll need, doctors estimate that a $10,000 fund will be required.

We can raise that fund in spite of official disinterest, if 10,000 of us will take the trouble to put $1 in an envelope and send it to:

Dorothy Kilmer, care of Washington Sanitarium, Takoma Park, Md.

BARGAIN

Mrs. Anne Ainsworth of 210 North Linden ave., Annapolis, Md., forwards a clipping of the most interesting classified ad of the week:

"FURNISHED — Four bedrooms, three baths, two-car garage, attractive yard and two maids with bath. $250 month."

MAIL BAG

Dear Bill:

I was just dropping off to sleep the other night when my wife nudged me. She couldn't sleep. She was worrying about something that had just occurred to her.

What if human beings had tails like monkeys! Wouldn't life be complicated!

Would a man's tail grow bald as he grew older? Would the ladies tie ribbons on theirs? Would they bob them?

The question presented all sorts of interesting possibilities. For example, if a man's arms were full of bundles, would he learn to tip his hat by . . . ?

Don't use my name, because it's a bit embarrassing to be engaged in such speculation. But we lost so much sleep discussing the problem that now we've got to have your opinion.

W. H. W.

Dear W. H. W.:

Try drinking hot cocoa before you go to bed and see if that doesn't help. Bill

PERSONAL NOTES

Mike Hunnicutt, WOL; Eddie Gallaher, WTOP; Jay Owen and Jerry Strong, WINX: Thanks for your help in behalf of Dorothy Kilmer. Youse guys is swell. Keep plugging until we get that 10 grand.

Mrs. Joe Gibbon: It was "Barnaby."

Don Mozynski, Mount St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, Md.: Good catch. It ran through all editions Tuesday, as it should have, and also in the "bulldog" on Wednesday—at which point it was discovered and yanked.

S. C. Cissel, jr., 1673 Park rd. nw.: There's no explanation for the differing stories in our afternoon contemporaries except that one was accurate and the other careless. And if you'll forgive a "commercial," permit me to point out that The Washington Post was right on both items.

NOT PARTICULAR

"You sent me to the dictionary with the 'blond' and 'blonde' business," writes Robert W. Fairbairn of 1834 N. Quintana st., Arlington, Va.

"But the dictionaries don't agree, so I asked my blonde and she said she likes it with an "e" whereas her brother prefers it without.

"As for me, I don't care how you spell it, so long as the blonde is vivacious, curvaceous and pulchritudinous."

GIVE-AWAYS

"Persian mother cat and three 10-week-old kittens." (Falls Church 0455 after 6 p. m.).

"Gentle, affectionate 3-month-old kitten." (Oliver 8688, evenings).

"Adorable, playful kitten, male, 2 months old." (Overlook 0324).

WRONG NUMBER, OPERATOR

My doctor says his favorite joke is the one about the fellow who calls in the middle of the night to plead, "Doctor, you've got to come right over. My wife has appendicitis."

"Nonsense," says the sleepy doctor. "I took out your wife's appendix three years ago. Has she acquired a new appendix since then?"

"No," murmurs the caller, "but I've acquired a new wife."

Leonard Lyons . . .

FORMER Gov. Ellis Arnall of Georgia, at the Stork Club, discussed the matter of newspapers' support of candidates for election. Arnall told of his own gubernatorial campaign, and of a Georgia newspaper which announced editorially that "We are against Arnall." Next day Arnall gave a dinner party for the employes of the newspaper. It was attended by all except those who were working the night shift and they sent proxies. The employes expressed their unanimous support of Arnall, who then advertised: "When this publisher says 'We are against Arnall,' he really means 'I'."

Anatole Litvak, who directed "The Snake Pit," was with Celeste Holm when she received word that her performance in "Gentleman's Agreement" was deemed the season's best by a poll of newspaper, magazine and radio screen reviewers. This was the performance for which Miss Holm also won the Academy Award. "Were you sure you'd win the Academy Award on the night of the presentations?" Litvak asked her . . . "No," she confessed, "because my husband and I were given seats way over on the side" . . . "That shouldn't have meant anything," said Litvak. "The Academy Award is by secret ballot, and they couldn't tell until the envelope was opened" . . . "Yes," replied Miss Holm, "but I thought that they at least might have had a hunch."

Sir Alexander Korda, the British film producer, and Bill Perlberg, the Hollywood producer, met in New York. "I flew in from Hollywood just for the weekend," Perlberg reported. Korda told him: "I refuse to be impressed. I've flown in from London just for the weekend." . . . Pancho, the bandleader, is enraged at the new regulations in his native Argentina. Pancho wrote a new tango called "Acordate," about "Paris, New York and El Morocco." The Argentine copyright office changed "New York" to "Nueva York," because of the law against using foreign versions. "That means two extra notes," Pancho complained. "For a tango, it's uneven." The copyright office suggested: "So make it a rhumba."

When William Saroyan heard Walter Huston sing "September Song" in "Knickerbocker Holiday" and watched the song grow until it provided a steady income for its authors, he decided to emulate them. Huston was starred in Saroyan's play, "Love's Old Sweet Song." Saroyan wrote lyrics to two of Paul Bowles' compositions, and assigned Huston to singing the two songs. . . . Saroyan just received a royalty check for the songs covering the last year. The check was for 3 cents.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Pot and Kettle Row in Oklahoma

By Drew Pearson

Keeping the Record Straight Department—The other day, in Oklahoma, P. Nelson Deranian, counsel for the Senate election subcommittee, let loose a blast against former Governor Bob Kerr, running as a Democrat for Senator, on the ground that he spent too much money in his primary. That Bob Kerr spent a fistful of money is probably correct. However, to keep the record straight, let's look at some things on the other side of the picture.

Moore

First, millionaire oilman Ed Moore, Republican, whose place Kerr is seeking, spent a young fortune getting elected in 1942. Second, Mr. Deranian, together with Senator Jenner of Indiana, chairman of the election subcommittee, is not in a strong position to criticize others.

Deranian, by a strange quirk, happens to be the law partner of Robert W. Lyons, bigtime Washington lobbyist and former secretary of the Indiana Ku Klux Klan. But perhaps, when you examine the facts carefully, the quirk isn't so strange after all. For Lyons is really the man who put William E. Jenner in the Senate. And Deranian is now Lyons' man-Friday inside Jenner's committee.

Ambitions Thwarted

Lyons has always nursed political ambitions in Indiana, but always has been thwarted. In 1944 he was actually elected chairman of the Indiana State Committee, but news of his election caused so many people to hold their noses that he was ousted. What makes Indiana voters hold their noses about Lyons is, first, his connection with the Ku Klux Klan at a time when the klan was in its goriest heyday, and when Kleagle Stevenson was convicted of murder; second, Lyons' $300,000 lobbying fees for the chain stores.

The record of Lyons' chain-store operations is all a matter of official congressional record for any newspaperman to dig out, and it makes highly interesting reading. The folks back in Indiana are reasonably familiar with it, so much so that Lyons can never get anywhere with his political ambitions.

However, that hasn't prevented Lyons from putting his own man in the Senate, namely, William E. Jenner, elected in 1946 with the backstage backing of Lyons and the big Indiana beer interests. In fact, some interesting reports were published back in Indiana about Jenner's own campaign contributions at the time of his election. But, when the Republicans took over control of the Senate in 1946, no investigation was ever made of Jenner's campaign funds.

On the contrary, Jenner was placed on a committee to investigate other people's elections, and is now chairman of its chief subcommittee. As such, the gentleman from Indiana conducted one of the unfairest probes in recent Senate history—that regarding the 1946 election of West Virginia's Democratic Harley Kilgore. The chief graft unearthed in West Virginia was upon the part of the brother of the Republican national committeeman, Walter S. Hallanan, who was indicted for stealing votes. Despite graft on the part of the Republicans, Jenner kept the probe of Democratic Kilgore's election up in the air for two full years.

If former Governor Kerr has spent a lot of money in Oklahoma, it should be investigated—but by an impartial committee, not one whose record and whose backstage wire-pullers cannot stand the clear light of day.

Wrong Name

Republican Congressman John McDowell of Pennsylvania is one member of the Un-American Activities Committee who does not believe in "kickbacks." However, a bit jittery about his own reelection chances, he had a talk with James B. Carey, secretary-treasurer of the CIO and right bower to CIO Boss Phil Murray.

"You know," said McDowell, "I'm really not hostile to your organization. And I want you to be sure and tell your president, Mr. Philip Murray, that I said so. He's and old friend of mine. Be sure and give Mr. Murray my regards.

Rates Increase

The bankers have decided not to wait for the Republicans to move into the Treasury Department to hike the interest rate on crop loans. Already the American Bankers Association is engaged in a significant tussle with the Commodity Credit Corporation over raising interest rates.

At present the interest on cotton, wheat and corn loans is three per cent, which is split between the CCC and private banks, each getting one and a half per cent. However, the ABA has demanded that the banks' share be raised to two per cent, on the grounds that the present return isn't enough to pay service costs of loans. Also, the bankers' group contends that the new Federal Reserve restrictions on bank reserves have decreased the amount of money available for lending, so it's unfair, therefore, to expect banks to continue crop loans on such a small margin of return.

These weighty arguments, however, so far have produced only stifled yawns at the CCC. The agency has politely reminded the ABA that, while banks make the crop loans, the Government takes all the risk because the loans are insured 100 per cent by the taxpayers. Second, the CCC has some convincing figures showing that bank-service costs are more than offset by the increased volume of crop loans; also, that the increased size of individual loans has substantially reduced the over-all service costs. Third, says the CCC, the middle of the 1948 crop loaning season is no time to reshuffle interest rates. So it looks as if the bankers would lose out, at least until next January.

Overcome The Causes of Baldness—ACT NOW!

Trichologist

Washington, Oct. 30, 1948. You don't have to accept baldness. Scientists agree that if your scalp is properly treated when the first signs of approaching baldness appear, you can save your hair. You will surely become bald, however, if you ignore increased hair fall, itching, dandruff, excessive dryness or oiliness. These are the first symptoms that your hair needs attention and when you notice them you should visit the Hair and Scalp Clinic for a Free, Private Examination. They will tell you exactly what can be done for your hair, how long it will take and what the reasonable cost will be. If you are accepted for treatment, modern scientific methods will eliminate the causes of your hair loss, your hair will thicken, your scalp will feel healthy and alive. The appearance of your hair will improve, and you will learn how to care for your hair—how to keep it healthy and strong. Come in today for your Free Examination. The Hair & Scalp Clinic, Inc., office is located at 606-609 Bond Bldg., S.W. Cor. 14th St. and New York Ave. N.W. Hours: 9:30 A. M. to 7:00 P. M. Saturdays, 9:30 to 4 P. M. Phone EXecutive 3832.

Hey KIDS! LAST DAY TO ENTER the "SAINT MYSTERY COMIC" SLOGAN CONTEST!

Last day to try for the $100 1st prize

Open to all grade school, junior high and high school students . . .

No school today, so there is still time. Just as soon as you finish reading "THE SAINT" this morning, sit down by the radio and listen to a few commercials . . . get an idea for a catchy radio slogan that will make more people want to read "THE SAINT" just as you do.

Surely you can write a slogan as good as "It's a bird! It's a plane! It's S-U-P-E-R-MAN!" Easy? Sure. Doesn't take two minutes. Corny? You bet. But if yours is a little catchier, or maybe a little cornier than most, it will make you $10 richer . . . perhaps even win the $100 first prize.

There's no trick to it. Just decide what you want to say and jot it down on a piece of paper. If you want sound effects, say so. We'll put them in for you. Try your slogan on your family, or on a friend. If they think it's good, so will the judges.

• Include your name, address, age and school on your entry. Mail it to the "Saint Mystery Comic" Contest Editor, The Washington Post, Washington 4, D. C. All entries must be postmarked before midnight Sunday, October 31.
